Farmers Can't Work in Fields Because of Rain and Good Country Vote Is Expected

ADMIT JEFFRIS IS BEATEN

Local Stalwarts Admit "Bob" Will Carry La Crosse County in the Primary

Overcast skies and a dull drizzle brought joy to the hearts of progressives when primary day dawned. "Hatton weather," it was declared to be, and the progressives were awaiting returns from the district around La Crosse with confidence.

"All farmers will be voting today," said Senator Otto Bosshard. "This rain made it impossible to thresh, fill silos or cut tobacco. All of the county precincts will poll a good-sized vote if the rain is general. That means adding thousands of votes to Hatton's total in the state at large."

Vote Light in City
In the city the voting was light until toward noon. By that time hundreds of voters had appeared, and considerable interest was apparent, although it was not believed that the entire voting strength of the community would be out.

Progressives jubilantly predicted the overwhelming nomination of Senator La Follette, and the stalwart headquarters in the W. B. U. building admitted the correctness of the prediction.

"It wasn't for that eight hour law vote in the senate, we might have had a chance," said Harry Watkins, secretary of the stalwart club. "As it is, we claim 900 votes for Jeffris in La Crosse county. Philipp will poll 1,400 in this district."

Watkins predicted the nomination of John C. Gaveney over E. F. Clark of Galesville.

Two County Fights
In the county election, interest chiefly centered in the fights for clerk of court and sheriff nominations on the republican ticket. In the democratic primaries, there is but one contest—between Fred Clark and John Weber for sheriff.

The two four-cornered fights in the republican party, however, indicated a close result. E. H. Derr and George McDonald, of West Salem, were the favorites in the race for the nomination for sheriff, and wise ones predicted a close finish. All four candidates, according to the dopesters, are coming down the stretch in a bunch in the race for clerk of court, and few would venture to guess a winner between Frank H. Aiken, Leonard Kleeber, Harry Denniston and J. George Schweizer.

No Bets Against "Bob"
There has been little betting on the primary, according to the local sporting dopesters. A prominent progressive has had $500 posted on La Follette for several weeks, but was unable to find any takers. No odds are quoted on any of the candidates.

MORE CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS AS WORK IS RESUMED

Registration in High School Already Eclipses Attendance at the Close of the School

With the opening of La Crosse schools on Tuesday morning indications were for a larger attendance in both the high school and grammar grades than during the last term. Vacation days came to a close with every grammar room comfortably filled and registrations in the high school already outnumbering the attendance during the winter and spring semester.

F. E. Tift, new principal of the high school, announced at noon on Tuesday that registrations since morning reached one thousand, twenty-five more than the number attending at the close of the last term.

While not being able to give the exact number entering grammar schools on Tuesday B. E. McCormick, superintendent of schools, announced that the attendance was normal, and that prospects pointed to a large number of pupils.

Miss Marie Peterson, visiting nurse of the health department, was at the Redfield school on the first day, on the watch for any indication that infantile paralysis has spread beyond the two cases now isolated. The two cases are in the district from which the Redfield school draws its pupils. Careful observations will be made in all schools in the near future, but the health department is of the opinion that there is no cause for uneasiness.

WOULD GIVE PRESIDENT POWER TO USE ARMS TO PREVENT PREFERENCES

Village of Salem Claims Two Inches Of Bradley's Barn

Bill Bradley, former postmaster of West Salem, is irritated, to put it mildly. The village board of Salem, at its last meeting, served notice on him that he has two inches of the village property, and that the village wants it back.

On the two inches stands a wall of Bradley's big cement barn. Hence Bill's irritation. To give the village the two inches it claims, Bill must chisel two inches from the wall. But Bill hasn't whetted up his chisel. Instead, he visited a lawyer in La Crosse, and the field of action will be the court instead of the alley back of Bill's barn.

The root of the trouble lies in a discrepancy between two surveys of the village. Bradley has had a barn on the debated two inches and adjoining property for twenty-six years. It was built in accordance with the old survey. A few years ago a new surveyor ran the lines again, and discovered a two-inch error. The village of West Salem adopted his report, and legislated all the lines in the village over two inches. That ran the alley line through the wall of Bradley's barn. Now the village says the alley must be unoccupied, and officially declared the barn a nuisance.

MYSTERY CLOAKS DISASTERS FOR ROADHOUSE FOES

Richmond's Harvest and Farmstead Burns and Jolivet's Cattle Die of Poison

NEIGHBORS TALK REVENGE

Alleged Victims Will Venture No Opinion Concerning the Coincidence

John A. Richmond is former chairman of the board of Campbell township. Frank Jolivet is a member of the town board. They were leaders of the campaign which resulted in the closing of several roadhouses. Recently Richmond's farmstead was attacked by a blaze of mysterious origin which destroyed practically his entire harvest and only spared his home through desperate efforts of Richmond and his neighbors. The loss was $20,000. Another happening of recent date is the mysterious death of seven valuable cows owned by Jolivet, evidently from poison.

From the foregoing circumstances, French Islanders are speculating as to whether the Richmond fire was not of incendiary origin, and the Jolivet cattle not victims of poison administered through human agencies. Opinion goes both ways. The two against whom rumor sees the hand of vengeance reserve their opinions.

Mrs. Jolivet told THE TRIBUNE Tuesday that their cattle might have died from eating a poisoned weed. She said that no veterinarian had seen them, and Mr. Jolivet was considerably in the dark as to the cause of their deaths. She added that they had no idea what the weed was that the cattle might have eaten.

Mr. Richmond also was cautious in discussing the rumor. "Yes, the rumors have reached me that my fire was incendiary," Mr. Richmond told THE TRIBUNE. "I have at present no means of proving or disproving this. Several theories have been advanced as to how the fire started, but thus far I have reached no conclusion myself."

PETTIT THREATENS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Police guard about J. Maurice Pettit, confessed wife slayer, was doubled Tuesday as a result of threats by Pettit that he would kill himself at the first opportunity. He says he wants to join his wife on a "spiritual plane."

"My body may die, but my spirit will live," he told physicians at Bridgeview hospital, where he is recovering from injuries received when he tried to escape from a moving train near Michigan City, Ind.

SENATE STRIKES TWO MORE BLOWS AT BLACKLIST

Use of Mails, Express, Wireless, Telegraph or Cable Would Be Forbidden

BY J. P. YODER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—With allied diplomats in Washington protesting against retaliatory legislation already enacted by congress to offset the British black list, the senate on Tuesday struck two more blows. Amendments adopted to the revenue bill are likely, some officials believe, to result in official objections taking the place of the private, though positive protests against retaliation which certain diplomats here have voiced.

The first act today was passage of Senator Thomas' amendment to the revenue bill empowering the president to retaliate against any belligerent commerce ship that discriminates against American shippers and exporters.

The second was adoption of Senator Phelan's amendment to the same measure refusing rights of the United States mails or the facilities of any interstate express company or of any wireless, telegraph or cable company to the citizens of belligerent countries which discriminate against Americans.

Both amendments explicitly empower the president to take these steps "whenever during existence of war in which the United States is not engaged, the president shall be satisfied there is reasonable ground to believe" belligerent governments have denied all lawful rights to all American citizens.

Violations of both proposed laws are punishable by fines of $10,000 or two years' imprisonment or both. Roth admittedly is retaliatory measures against Great Britain's black list and seizure and detention of mails.

Thomas' amendment was drawn with the approval of the state department and the president is empowered by its terms to use "any part of the land and naval forces he deems necessary" to uphold it.

REV. W. J. PEACOCK RESIGNS PASTORATE OF FIRST BAPTISTS

Clergyman Prominent in Church Publicity Campaign Surprises His Parish

The congregation of the First Baptist church was surprised at the conclusion of the services Sunday morning when Rev. William J. Peacock, pastor of the church for the last year, read to them a letter in which he tendered his resignation. The resignation is to take effect on September 30. Rev. Peacock will become student pastor at the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Peacock goes within a few weeks, to be present at the beginning of the university year. He said that he hesitated a long time before accepting the call to the university, because of the shortness of his pastorate here. But representatives of the university visited him here, and officials of the denomination joined their voices to urge him to accept, assuring him that La Crosse would be well taken care of in the shift.

"Ad Man" for Churches
Mr. Peacock was one of the leading pastors of the group which pushed through the highly successful and unique church publicity campaign last fall. He was the "advertising manager" of the campaign, and one of the leaders in the organization of the church union which grew out of the churches' co-operation in the campaign.

Rev. Peacock's letter of resignation follows:
"To the First Baptist Church.
"Dear Friends:

"I have known for some time that from every standpoint of good judgment my pastorate with you must be limited. It is evident that my work in La Crosse seems hardly begun and that your high hopes have not been realized. However, with the grow-

RUMANIANS CHECKED ON BOTH FRONTS IS CLAIM OF BERLIN

Claim Bucharest Forces in Retreat Before Germans and Bulgarians Invading Southeast Rumania

SLAVS ENGAGE INVADERS

Russian Cavalry Is Reported Meeting Bulgarian Force in the Dobrudja Region

By CARL VON ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The Rumanians have been checked on both wings of their invasion of Transylvania and are in retreat before German and Bulgarian forces invading southeast Rumania.

Bulgarian forces have captured the Rumanian town of Dobric, twelve miles inside the Rumanian frontier, it was officially announced Tuesday afternoon.

German airships have again bombarded Bucharest.

Dobric is the largest town yet captured by the Germans and Bulgarians in their invasion of Rumania. It has a population of about 15,000 and was in Bulgaria until the last Balkan war when Rumania forced the Bulgars to surrender the Dobrudja territory.

Budapest dispatches on Tuesday reported a halt in the Rumanian advance near Orsova on the Austrian extreme right wing. After withdrawing to the west bank of Cerna river, the Austrians warded off all Rumanian attacks.

On the southern Transylvania frontier the Rumanians are proceeding with the greatest caution, evidently fearing they will be lured into a trap.

Claim Two Towns Captured
SOFIA, Sept. 5.—The Rumanian towns of Kurbunar and Akkadunlar have been captured by the Bulgarian and German forces who have pushed forward ten miles into Rumanian territory in their invasion of the Dobrudja region, it was officially announced Tuesday.

Kurbunar and Akkadunlar lies almost directly south of the Rumanian city of Silistra and about sixty-five miles northwest of the Bulgarian point of Varna.

Russ Reported Engaged
PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—Russian troops, which crossed through Rumania, have been in action against the Bulgarians for the first time since the beginning of the war, it was officially announced on Tuesday.

A Russian cavalry detachment encountered a Bulgarian force in the

PREMIER OF GREECE BECOMES DICTATOR WAR CLOUD GROWS

Zaimis Reported Having Support of Venizelos and Those Opposed to Pro-war Lord

CONSTITUTION IS WAIVED

Athens Grants Demands of the Allies and Nation Moves Toward War with the Central Powers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Private advices reached official circles in Washington from Athens that it is only a matter of a day or two until Greece enters the war on the side of the allies.

ATHENS, Sept. 5.—Premier Zaimis, taking advantage of the presence in Piraeus harbor of allied war craft, has assumed a practical dictatorship over Greek affairs, and rapid entry of Greece into the war on the side of the allies is forecasted.

The first step which placed full powers in the hands of the premier was taken when he forbade public gatherings last Wednesday. The arrangement of Friday whereby the issue of the decree dissolving the now adjourned parliament and calling new elections was postponed indefinitely, disposed effectually of any parliamentary interference with the policy of the government.

Put Through Quietly
The solution of the political mud-die which has kept Greece in a condition of wavering neutrality for two years was effected quietly and the public was not aware of the extent to which the constitution of Greece was virtually set aside or of the manner in which power was concentrated in the hands of the premier.

The formation by M. Zaimis of a new ministry in which all parties will be represented is a question of only a few days. Meanwhile the allies are rapidly ridding Athens and Piraeus of Austrian and German agents.

Accedes to Allies' Demands
LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Greek government at Athens has accepted the demands of the entente powers in their entirety and agents of the French and British governments are taking over the control of postal and telegraphic communication.

British and French ministers at Athens presented on Saturday a note to the Greek government demanding control of the posts, telegraph and wireless system on the ground that they were being used by enemies of the entente; demanded that agents of the Teutonic allies employed in corruption and espionage must immediately leave Greece, and that measures be taken against Greek subjects guilty of complicity therein.

SLAVS CONTINUE CARPATHIAN DRIVE CAPITAL REPORTS

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—The Russian advance in the Carpathian woods near the frontier of Hungary continues, it was officially announced Tuesday. More heights have been captured.

In the fighting along the upper Sereth 4,629 prisoners, six cannons, thirty-nine machine guns and a number of bomb throwers have been captured.

Attaboy Winner Of 2-Yard Event For Cockroaches

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Attaboy, pride of Herb Roth's string of racing cockroaches, won the naval rookies' two-yard championship from a field composed of Dai Hawkins' Hammock King, J. W. Bailey's Ditty Box Bill; Herb Reed's Mess Jumper and half a dozen others, advices from U. S. S. Kentucky, off Sandy Hook, said Tuesday.

Roth's mount, a magnificent brute standing three-quarters of an inch high at the withers and weighing not less than ten milligrams, was trained on corrosive sublimate and bichloride of mercury. Unfortunately he never will race again, having ruined the stomach muscles on the pie plot.

Young Junius Morgan is rumored to have bet three cigars on his rough-riding roach Brownie against anything in Roth's string. This promises to be the best of the inter-ship roach races which have attained much popularity among the rookies of the "Naval Plattsburgh" cruise.

VON HINDENBURG ON SOMME FRONT IS PARIS REPORT

"Old Man of Mazurian Lakes" Sees Retreat of Germans Before French and British Monday

NEW BATTLE BURSTS OUT

Entire Somme Front Bathed in Great Artillery and Infantry Fire; Teutons' Efforts Fail

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg arrived on the western front for the first time since the beginning of the war and is urging his commanders to a more stubborn defense along the Somme, the Echo de Paris stated Tuesday.

The "old man of Mazurian lakes" witnessed the retreat of the German armies under smashing British and French blows in Sunday and Monday's fighting. It was the first great battle in which the Germans have been engaged since Hindenburg was appointed chief of the German general staff.

Since the beginning of the allied offensive on July 1, the French and English have captured twenty-nine villages which the Germans had organized to the highest defensive degree. They have taken about 41,000 prisoners, 150 cannons and several hundred machine guns.

The strongest German counter-attack was delivered north of the Somme between Combles and Forest. The French had observed preparations for this blow throughout Monday and were fully prepared to meet it. The first men to attack fell under French fire and the survivors were driven back to their trenches.

South of the Somme the Germans made several unsuccessful attacks near Belloy-En-Santerre, the French taking 100 prisoners.

On the northeastern front of Verdun the night was generally calm, the French taking fifty prisoners in local encounters. Southeast of Thiaumont a small German attack failed.

The whole Somme battle front has suddenly burst into activity with furious infantry fighting and some of the most terrific shell blastings since the Anglo-French offensive began. The Germans are fighting desperately but in the past forty-eight hours have been pushed steadily eastward by impetuous French attacks.

The Germans Monday night made several unsuccessful attempts to recapture ground lost to the French on both sides of the Somme in the allied drive on Sunday and Monday, it was officially announced.

General Foch struck south of the Somme Monday while the main body of Teuton reserves was preparing to resist another great blow north of the river.

The French success in this new drive equalled the gains made north of the river on the preceding day. Soyecourt was captured by a storming attack, and extending their gains far to the south the French occupied the village of Chilly. The outskirts of three other villages were seized and about 3,000 prisoners were taken.

While this great battle was going on south of the Somme the Germans continued their preparations for a counter attack against positions captured by the French and British in Sunday's fighting north of the river. The heaviest German blows are expected to fall in the region of Chaulmieu where the French gains imperiled German position on a very wide front.

British Claim Gains
LONDON, Sept. 5.—The British pushed 1,500 yards eastward near Guillemont last evening, capturing the village of Falfemont. General Haig reported Tuesday afternoon.

The whole German system of strong defenses at Falfemont is in British hands. The British also gained a footing in the Leuzee wood, a mile northwest of Combles.

Since Sunday the whole German second line from Mouquet farm to the point where the British lines link up with the French, a distance of more than seven miles have been captured. General Haig reported. About 1,000 prisoners have been taken.

The fighting is continuing at the village of Ginchy.

SECOND ILLINOIS PASSES
DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 5.—The Second Illinois infantry enroute from the border to Springfield, Ill., passed through here Tuesday.

PERMANENT QUARTERS FOR COMMERCE CHAMBER IN NEW LAW BUILDING

Board of Directors Accepts the Proposal and Will Lease the Second Floor for Ten Years

BUILDING STARTS AT ONCE

Chamber Will Be in Its New Quarters by First of Year; Building Next to the Elks' Club

Permanent headquarters for the Chamber of Commerce, including executive offices and an auditorium for conventions and meetings of civic bodies, will occupy the second floor of a new building to be constructed by D. S. Law on the property adjoining the Elks' club, to the south, facing on Fifth street. The board of directors of the chamber Monday night accepted Mr. Law's proposition, as reported by the committee on permanent headquarters. Construction will begin Wednesday, it was announced. The chamber will probably be in its commodious new quarters by the first of the year.

Ten Year Lease
The terms under which the agreement was concluded with Mr. Law provide for a ten-year guarantee lease for the chamber of commerce. The organization is to have the entire second floor of the building. It will pay an annual rental of $2,250, which includes the cost of heat.

The building will cost $25,000, according to Mr. Law. He has not yet decided what will be done with the lower floor, and until that is settled, was unable to describe the building. Wells E. Bennett is the architect. Mr. Law intends to rent the lower floor, and is in communication with several parents who are contemplating moving to the city.

The building is to be of fire proof construction, with a frontage of 44 feet on Fifth street, and an average depth of 125 feet. The quarters of the Chamber of Commerce will embrace practically 5,400 feet of floor space.

A convention hall seating from 500 to 700 persons is the most remarkable feature of the tentative plans for the chamber's headquarters. This, it is contemplated, will house all civic bodies, the bureau of the chamber, exhibits of the Art association, etc.

Plan Noon Luncheons
A feature of the program that is conceived by the board of directors, Executive Secretary James R. Kinloe said this morning, is the institution of noon-day luncheons at perhaps fortnightly intervals. To these all the membership and friends would be invited, and prominent speakers, frequently of national fame, would be engaged to make addresses on live topics.

In the tentative plans, a kitchen and serving room is provided, to handle the luncheons. The other space is cut up into the large convention hall.

CASHTON BANDITS BROUGHT TO BOOK AUTHORITIES SAY

Gang of Auto Thieves That Worked Through This District Rounded Up by United States

Joseph Redmond, alleged to be the fourth member of the automobile gang which robbed postoffices at La Crescent, Minn., Cashton and Oregon, Wis., and the Coffland mercantile store at Richland Center, last June, was arrested last week by Chicago federal officers. He is being held in Chicago at present.

The other members of Redmond's gang are Alex Bunta and two men giving their names as Kelliher and Kennedy, arrested through the efforts of Postoffice Inspector J. F. Nicholson and other United States officers. They are being held for the present at Superior.

The thieves secured less than $200 in stamps from the three postoffices. They covered western Wisconsin in an automobile which they drove from Chicago. Several garages were robbed. It has been learned, presumably when the bandit car needed repairs, Redmond, who drove the car, has confessed.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

MARY DOE

BY MARION FRANCIS

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

During the spring vacation, Tom Sherrold took an auto trip along the Hudson. He had intended to spend a day or two at the home of his roommate, Phil Sharp, but he found on inquiry over the telephone that Phil had left Kingston the evening before for a visit to Brooklyn, so he decided to pass through without stopping.

As he sped up one of the long winding hills leading away from the town, he spied a girl on the road ahead. She was standing disconsolately beside a trim roadster which had evidently misbehaved. Tom threw on his brakes, brought his own car to a standstill and doffed his hat.

"Is there anything I can do?" he asked.

The girl turned to him with a pair of grateful eyes; they were brown eyes which reminded him somehow of some one he had dreamed about years ago.

"Maybe I can fix it," Tom knew absolutely nothing about the mechanism of a car, but he opened the hood and looked wisely into the complicated engine. He tried the self-starter, but it didn't work. He opened the hood again, touched a nut or two and then tested the starting apparatus. But still there were no results. Finally, he nodded his head as if he knew all about it.

"The differential's busted," he announced. "I'm afraid you'll have to send for a regular mechanic."

"Oh!" She appeared distressed. "That means I'll have to go back to Kingston."

Tom ventured a suggestion.

"I was just thinking of going back that way myself," he said. "You might just as well ride with me."

She smiled at him frankly.

"You know you weren't thinking of any such thing," she stated. "But I'm half inclined to accept your invitation."

Tom sprang into the driver's seat.

"Come on," he invited. "It will be perfectly all right, because I know some one who lives in Kingston."

"Oh, you do?" She appeared interested.

"Yes," he continued, as she made no movement to enter the car. "I'm a great friend of Phil Sharp. He's my roommate at college."

She looked surprised.

"Phil Sharp?" she repeated.

"Yes, do you know him?"

She hesitated a moment, and then smiled.

"Never heard of him. Does he live in Kingston?"

"Why yes," He appeared puzzled. "I thought everybody knew Phil."

"I may have met him," She spoke slowly, as if trying to recall the young gentleman in question. "What does he look like?"

"He has brown hair and brown eyes—"

"He paused. "Looks something like you, to tell the truth."

The girl shook her head.

"No," she announced. "I don't know him."

"You ought to," Tom spoke enthusiastically. "He's a mighty good looking chap."

"Was that meant for a compliment?" she smiled amusedly.

"Yes, it was," Tom answered truthfully.

The royal palace at Bucharest, and Queen Marie of Roumania as a Red Cross nurse.

The gay life of Roumania's capital has held little charm for Queen Marie since the outbreak of the war. During the past year she has spent much time as a Red Cross nurse, and now that Roumania has entered the war she will probably devote still more time to this cause. Queen Marie is one of the prettiest of Europe's royal ladies. She was formerly Princess Marie of Saxe-Coburg. Although her husband is a German, Queen Marie's sympathies are said to have always been with the entente allies.

fully. "But I'd like to have you know him because he might ask you to a college dance."

"Has he a sister?"

"Yes, I've never met her, but Phil seems to think she's a peach. He's going to have her down to the senior ball next week."

"What is her name?"

"Althea."

"Oh!" Her face lighted with recognition. "I know Althea Sharp. Met her one day at a Country club tea."

"Did you like her?"

"Fairly well."

"What kind of girl is she?"

"You seem to be immensely interested in her."

"I am. You see, we have five dances together at the ball. Phil has asked her because he has to, but he really likes the girl I am going to bring. So he's going to shove his off on me whenever he can."

"I don't think you'll like her very much. She's a college girl, and rather prim and sedate."

"And I have five dances with her. Oh, well!" She smiled. "I wish Phil had asked some one else; some one like you, for instance."

The girl changed the subject.

"Do you want to take me to Kingston now?" she asked.

"Surely; jump in."

The roadster sped onward. That ride was one of the most enjoyable occasions Tom could remember. They talked about numerous things; he told her of college, of Phil, and of the dances; she told him of Kingston, and something of the people she knew. The garage was reached all too quickly, and the girl jumped out.

"I'm very much obliged to you," she said, offering her hand. "The man in the garage will take me back."

Tom refused to be dismissed so easily.

"Aren't you going to tell me your name?" he asked.

She hesitated.

"Why, yes, I guess so," she finally said. "My name is Mary Doe."

"And your address?"

"Just Kingston."

"Do you mind if I write to you?"

"I'd rather you wouldn't. Maybe some time, if you come to Kingston with Mr. Sharp, we'll meet again. Good-bye."

She waved to him and disappeared into the garage.

All that day and the next that brief ride to Kingston was uppermost in Tom's mind. Upon returning to college, he cornered Phil Sharp and asked him about Mary Doe. But Phil was unable to give him any information.

"I never heard of her," he said.

"What does she look like?"

"Brown eyes, brown hair, a soft voice and a white skirt," Tom raved.

"Must be some one new in town. I'll ask Althea when she comes down."

So Tom was forced to be satisfied until the senior ball rolled around. He waited on the porch of the fraternity house while Phil went to the train to meet his sister. He heard the engine pull away, and then watched idly as the college men and their fair guests came strolling across the campus.

Suddenly he sat bolt upright, amazement in his, for around the corner of Blair Hall walked Phil Sharp, and beside was the mystic girl he had met at Kingston. He watched them, half unbelievably, until they reached the porch.

"My sister, Althea," Phil announced.

Tom took her outstretched hand, and the girl smiled up at him.

"I believe we have met before," she said.

"We surely have; but you told me your name was Mary Doe."

"I told you a fib," she answered.

"I wanted to surprise you when you saw me here. Are you sorry?"

"Sorry!" Tom's heart leaped crazily. "It's the best thing that's happened to me in years. And," he added thoughtfully, "I'm going to ask Phil to give me five more dances."

CATTLE AT SPRING GROVE MOVE WHEN STRIKE SCARE ENDS

SPRING GROVE, Minn.—(Special.)—Eight thousand dollars worth of cattle were purchased here Monday by the Spring Grove Stock & Grain company. The cattle were to be shipped last week but on account of the impending railroad strike they delayed shipment. Word was received Saturday afternoon that the road would accept stock and they will be shipped to Chicago as soon as they can be brought into market here.

Bernat O. Garness of Newhouse, was a business caller here Monday morning.

Gilbert Selland departed for Geraldine, Mont., Monday morning to look after his interests there.

Miss Emma Hille left for her home Monday morning at Fergus Falls, Minn. She had been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. M. Langland the past week.

Marcus Newberry and Byron Dode spent Sunday at Caledonia with the former's grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Scofield.

C. M. Langland and family and Miss Emma Hille autoted to Decorah and Waterloo, Iowa, Sunday.

Gall-stones or Appendicitis? Don't operate. Dr. Manning, Vitaecopath, Suite 314, Linker Bldg., La Crosse.

The mission fest at the Waterloo church was largely attended Sunday. A number from here were in attendance and the Spring Grove band furnished the music.

The Martin Onegard store front is completed and is a great improvement to the store and also to the whole Main street. Eight or nine more up-to-date store fronts on Main street and the main part of the town would look as nice as the residence district.

Rev A. O. Johnson and family autoted to Red Wing Monday afternoon to visit Mr. Johnson's parents.

The new Fords are kind of shy in this part of the country as no new ones have been seen here.

NEW LUMBER STANDARDS

The work of standardization in all other building materials has developed so thoroughly that contractors have little difficulty in securing just the quality desired in steel, cement, lime, roofing and various other essentials. In structural timber, however, it is as yet difficult to get any positive standards. The Forest Products Laboratory has been advocating branding building timber with a special trade mark which shall indicate its quality as thoroughly as does the trade mark on other building supplies. The American Lumberman's association is co-operating in this movement and now several of the larger lumber mills in the country are securing trade marks for their different products, which shall be absolutely indicative of their quality.

GOOD IDEA FOR MERCHANTS' BUREAU

Of course good roads—the building of which under state aid will be resumed as soon as the Philipp administration is disposed of—of course good roads are the most practical agencies for destroying the mail-order nuisance. In time good roads and automobiles will destroy their pernicious tendency to drain the local communities and build up the big centers.

But James Sloan, a McGregor merchant, doesn't believe in watchful waiting. He's a youngster in business, a gentleman of originality and initiative. You shall read of the Sloan drive against the mail order outfit.

Sloan offered a silk dress as a prize to be given to that woman in his trade field who shall bring to him the greatest number of mail order house catalogues, of 200 or more pages, each a complete volume.

This thing should swing round the entire United States. It should create a catalogue bonfire in every community. For if we collect and burn the catalogues, there's an end on 't.

Mr. Sloan is acting alone. Why can't a powerful organization like the merchants' bureau of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce work out this idea on a larger scale? If in every merchant's advertisement there were placed an offer by the bureau, either of a prize, or a set price, the country could be cleaned of mail order catalogues, and once cleaned, they could be steadily collected from month to month. Mr. Sloan has a real idea—think it over.

A LIVE MISSION FOR THE DRAMA LEAGUE

In a city of 50,000 the theater is an institution like the street cars, the newspapers and the railroads. It is a public utility. Just exactly as a street railway can not be run on a public-be-damned policy, a theatrical season can not be ruined to suit the tastes of a manager. In the opinion of some students, the theater in such a city exercises a greater force on the spirit and conscience of the place than the churches and the schools, and it is for that reason that the public has a right to a place in determining the policy of its chief place of amusement.

La Crosse hopes to be a city of 50,000. With the renovation of its playhouse under the direction of Manager Koppelberger, it has an opportunity to consider earnestly the place of the theater in a city of 50,000. It must recognize that the first essential is a clean and artistic theater, and this Mr. Koppelberger has provided. It must recognize that really good actors will refuse to return to damp, dirty dressing rooms, inadequate stage facilities, poor lighting, and dirt. All these Mr. Koppelberger has taken care of. It must further recognize that in the long run it pays a city to be recognized as a theatrical town, a town in which really good attractions find it profitable to stop. In fact, Mr. Koppelberger has provided everything he could possibly provide except one thing. He can not provide an audience.

Now if the public in a city of 50,000 has a right to a voice in determining what shall be the place and policy of its theater, it has also certain responsibilities. It has the right to reject cheap shows, but it also has the duty of patronizing good ones. Despite the loud talk of some disgruntled critic, no manager likes to pander deliberately to the lowest common denominator in his public. He wants to bring good actors and good attractions to his place of business because it pays him better in the long run. Obviously, Sothern is a more reliable business man than a fly-by-night company in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The public has therefore the duty of patronizing the plays it has a right to demand. Now, like good cooking, good music, good books and good business, good drama requires some education, some advance information, some knowledge of the state of things in the theatrical world, exactly as the successful management of a plow company demands some knowledge of affairs in the steel world. There exists in La Crosse a body whose business it is to take charge of the education of the audience.

The Drama League will miss its greatest opportunity to do a real service if it does not immediately get in touch with Mr. Koppelberger and prepare to campaign actively in behalf of the policy he announces. The business of the Drama League is not to read books about plays at afternoon tea; the business of the Drama League is to assure their theater a profitable hearing when it brings "The Blue Paradise" or "Androcles and the Lion" to La Crosse.

We class the two together deliberately. Complaint is made in some cities that the Drama League tends to a moribund high-browism, preferring Ibsen and Maeterlinck dilute to actual attendance on "The Pink Lady." That charge can not be brought against the Drama League in La Crosse, but like every other organization of its kind, it is likely to make its field too narrow; to center its appeal for attendance upon plays pitched too far above the general average of receptivity, and to neglect productions, especially in musical comedy, which are clean, entertaining, but not always "significant" or "uplifting." The Drama League must consider that all the citizens of a town of 50,000 do not possess the dramatic likings of Orchard Court. But more important, the Drama League must recognize its one opportunity to co-operate with Manager Koppelberger in making La Crosse a theatrical city of the highest class.

Verse and Reverse

TELL HIM SO
If a friend of yours does well,
Tell him so.
Don't go raising a jealous yell—
Tell him so.
He'll be glad to know you're glad,
Glad it doesn't make you sad,
Finest fun you ever had—
Tell him so.
If you like your brother's work,
Tell him so.
Drive away the doubts that lurk—
Tell him so.
He may feel that he has failed,
By grim doubt may be assailed,
By your word he'll be regaled—
Tell him so.
If you think his work is punk,
Tell him so.
It will rouse his fighting spunk—
Tell him so.
Tell him he is in a rut,
He'll just think you are a nut—
He'll just knock you block off! But
Tell him so.
—Strickland W. Gilliland.

A Hero to His Wife.
"A man who is happily married has an enthusiastic audience of one, and that ain't so bad," says old Uncle Pennywise.
Many a man sets himself up as a hero because he has no valet.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Consistency
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "did you forget to bring the things I told you to bring from the store?"
"No. This is one time I carried out instructions to the letter. Here's the whole bundle."
"Oh, I'm so sorry. I've changed my mind about wanting them. I was sure you'd forget, as usual. It's so hard to depend on a man!"—Washington.

Toeing the Mark
During the course of a trying campaign a somewhat eccentric colonel was seized with a sudden ardor about hygiene, and one morning he peremptorily ordered that all the men in his regiment should change their shirts. The order was duly carried out except in the case of one company, where the privates' wardrobes had been pitifully depleted. But the company sergeant, who knew the state of affairs, rose to the occasion. "Orders must be obeyed!" he said. "Let the men change shirts with one another."

Favors Anticipated
The minister's daughter was entertaining several of her father's small parishioners.
"Will you have more cake, Polly?" she said.
"No, thank you, miss. I'm full," said truthful Polly.
"Then I think you may put some in your pockets," said Polly.
"They're full, too, miss," said Polly.

Matter of Sentiment
"What makes you go in through the kitchen?"
"I don't know our servants very well," replied Mr. Cumrox. "Some way, the front hall seems kind of formal and distant. Around at the kitchen steps they've got an old door mat with 'Welcome' on it."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Niksah)

AN ARAB TRIBE
They have their name, and their territory specially allotted to them by the French government, each of these little clans that wanders in the Little Sahara, but each tribe is exactly like the last, and the dry sand and rocky hillocks that shelter their tents differ no more from one section to the next than one square mile of ocean differs from another.

You come upon them at evening, when the smoke from the cooking fires in the doorways of the tents ascends straight and thin and pale to the desert sky. The tents are low and shapeless, or rather shaped with an intricacy that defies description full of queer angles and unexpected hollows. They are pitched like the gypsy tents in English by-roads, by draping the cloth cunningly around the poles. They look much like a gypsy encampment, and in fact the campcraft of the gypsies probably goes back to the same source whence the craft of these African Arabs is derived.

But the camp has an air of permanence most uncypsylike. It is in truth hardly a camp at all, but a village, a city—as near a city as these nomads of the barren open over build. About some of the tents are strong brush enclosures that serve to give privacy to the family, and on occasion, as pens for sheep and cattle. Back among the rocky hills there are here and there little patches of cultivated land where a little corn is grown. But the Arab's hold on the soil is light. Next year you may pass that way and find that some change in the winds and the drifting sands, or the blind restlessness of the tribe alone, has moved them on. The tents are gone, the corn is dead and drifted over, and no man can say where the village stood.

Meantime they live quietly, a life of the last simplicity, an existence reduced to its lowest terms. A little tilling of the soil, a little tending of the herds, prayer and talk, grave and decorous family life, an occasional quarrel that ends in the spilling of blood, with fines are laid down by the Prophet—their long days are as bare of superfluous detail as the endless plain or the steely cloudless sky.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

By ETHEL HUESTON
Copyright 1915
The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"But father! Who would raise the girls? Who would keep the parsonage? Who would look after you?"
"Aunt Grace, to be sure. We talked it over two years ago, when her husband died. Before that, she was not free to come to us. But she said that whenever we were ready for her, she would come. We both felt that since you were getting along so magnificently with the girls, it was better that way for a while. But she said that when your flitting-time came, she would come to us gladly. We had it all arranged. You won't want to marry for a year or so, yet you'll want to have some happy sweetheart days first. And you'll want to make a lot of those pretty, useless, nonsensical things other girls make when they marry. That's why I advised you to save your burglar money—so you would have it for this. We'll have Aunt Grace come right away, so you can take a little freedom to be happy, and to make your plans. And you can initiate Aunt Grace into the mysteries of parsonage housekeeping."

A bright strange light had flashed over Prudence's face. But her eyes clouded a little as she asked, "Do you think they would rather have Aunt Grace than me?"
"Of course not. But what has that to do with it? We love you so dearly that we can only be happy when you are happy. We love you so dearly that we can be happy with you away from us—just knowing that you are happy. But you—you thought our love was such a hideous, selfish, little make-believe that—"

"Oh, father, I didn't! You know I didn't! But—maybe Jerry won't forgive me now?"
"Why didn't you talk it over with me, Prudence?"
"I knew you too well, father. I knew it would be useless. But—doesn't it seem wrong, father, that—a girl—that I—should love Jerry more than—you and the girls? That he should come first? Doesn't it seem—wicked?"

"No, Prudence, it is not wicked. After all perhaps it is not a stronger and deeper love. You were willing to sacrifice him and yourself, for our sakes! But it is a different love. It is the love of woman for man—that is very different from sister-love and father-love. And it is right. And it is beautiful."

"I am sure Jerry will forgive me. Maybe if you will send me a paper and pencil—I can write him a note now? There's no use waiting, is there? Fairy will bring it, I am sure."

But when a few minutes later, she heard a step in the hall outside, she laid her arm across her face. Somehow she felt that the wonderful joy and love shining in her eyes should be kept hidden until Jerry was there to see. She heard the door open, and close again.

"Put them on the table, Fairy, dearest, and—leave me for a little while, will you? Thank you." And her face was still hidden.
Then the table by the bedside was swiftly drawn away, and Jerry knelt beside her, and drew the arm from her face.
"Jerry!" she whispered, half unbelievably. Then joyously, "Oh, Jerry!" She gazed anxiously into her face. "Have you been sick? How thin you are, and so pale! Jerry Harmer, you need me to take care of you, don't you?"

But Jerry did not speak. He looked earnestly and steadily into the joyful eyes for a moment, and then he pressed his face to hers.

THE END.

Proved His Point
The old Scotch professor trying to impress upon his students the value of observation.
"No," he complained, "ye dinna use your faculties of observation. Ye dinna use 'em. For instance—"
Picking up a pot of chemicals of horrible odor, he stuck his finger into it, and then into his mouth.
"Taste it, gentlemen," he commanded, as he passed the pot from student to student.
After each had licked a finger and had felt a rebellion through his whole soul, the old professor laughed in triumph.
"I told ye so!" he shouted. "Ye dinna use your faculties of observation! For if ye had observed ye 'would ha' seen that the finger which I stuck into the pot was na the finger which I stuck into my mouth!"

How Could She Tell?
The telephone rang and the new Polish maid answered it.
"Hello!" came from the receiver.
"Hello!" answered the girl, flushed with the pride of a new language.
"Who is this?" again came the voice.
"I don't know who it is," said the girl. "I can't see you."

The great principle of all effort is to endeavor to do, not what is absolutely best, but what is easily within our power and adapted to our temper and condition.—John Ruskin.

Jackie Now Has A Nice Big House
Jackie Saunders couldn't stand it any longer.
She always wished, she said, to wear a gingham apron, dust cap, broom and all. She was tired of hotels, apartments and safes. She wanted a house.
And once Jackie "sets her head" that settles it if she has to go broke doing it. That is her undisputed reputation.
"How big a house will you want?" she was asked.
"Oh, about ten rooms."
"What? Why, there's only one of you, and you're only five feet high and not very wide and—"
"That will do, sir. I want a house, not statistics."
So the hunt was on. Scores of houses were inspected and all turned down by the persnickety star until a place was discovered on the ocean front, where there was a green lawn, roses, a garden, vines, a regular Caliph's backyard—and eleven rooms.

And now Jackie Saunders, mistress of her own house, slices her own bread, uncans her own baked beans, and is at home to her friends on Long Beach.
"Like it?" she repeated. "I'm crazy about it. Why, I'm ten years younger since I went to keeping house."
The reader is cautioned not to take these new housekeepers too seriously. Jackie Saunders was born in 1893. Ten years off would make her thirteen.

"It takes some people older," she was told.
"Oh, that's purely a habit of thought," said the star.
Which is to indicate that out of the mouths of babes and movie stars comes the wisdom of the sages. She was in her working clothes at the time. Not gingham, but lacy, clinging things. She was making her own potato salad and fixing her own chicken a la king in her own eleven-room house.

In order that no proper atmosphere should be missing from the Selig production, "The Crisis," the war department was called upon and loaned the Selig company rare old copies of Vicksburg newspapers and also the old dispatch box carried by Lincoln during the war.

Lucille Youngue will be seen in a distinctive variety of parts opposite Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree. She is one of the "stand-bys" in the motion picture profession, her work being the acme of finesse.

FARM WHERE LINCOLN LIVED IS FORMALLY GIVEN UNCLE SAM

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HODGENVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5.—Abraham Lincoln's birth-place here, a little hut now preserved and protected with a shrine of stone—on Monday was added to the treasures of the government of the United States. President Wilson received the deed to the property, together with an endowment fund of $100,000 for its maintenance from the Lincoln Farm association. Standing before the historic cabin, the president spoke of Lincoln as the embodiment of the validity and vitality of democracy.

Former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, president of the association, in presenting the farm and cabin to the government, emphasized the need for Americanism in the everyday life of the individual American, in the government and particularly in the foreign relations of the United States.

Don't Feed Your Baby Every Time He Cries

Many are the mothers who feed the baby to make him stop crying. Poor Baby! He stops for a while—and then it's all the worse. For the tiny stomach has had another load added to its already undigested burden.

The baby isn't always hungry. Perhaps he's getting too much of the wrong kind of food.

Give him your breast milk as long as you can. It may be the saving of his life when he is sick. You'll be able to nurse him nine full months if from the beginning you use one feeding a day of

Nestlé's Food

(A complete food—not a milk modifier.)

Give him that feeding at any hour each day in place of your own milk—and leave yourself free to take a little air or pleasure to build up your own milk.

"KISS ME"

said Ruth to the startled and alarmed
Carter when they returned from the Charity Ball—

Now Carter was her guardian and had promised Ruth's father to raise her as his child. But Carter was human and Ruth was simply ravishing that memorable evening. Carter hesitated, wavered—was about to sternly order her to her room when two warm, impulsive arms slipped suddenly about his neck, and, as we said, Carter was human—!

JUNEAU FAIR IS UNDER WAY WITH RUSH AT MAUSTON

Good Racing Is Promised and Attractions Are Clever; the Grounds Are Lighted with
"Juice" for Night Fair

MAUSTON, Wis.—(Special.)—
Tuesday was the opening day of the Juneau County fair. The grounds are excellent and hold many concessions. Heth's United Shows are furnishing the attractions and entertainment. There will be good racing and at least four ball games.

Carloads of blooded stock and horses have arrived. From all prospects it is said that with the good racing, attractions and exhibits that this will be one of the best of county fairs. The fair will be a good clean
one. Ample fire and police protection will be one of the great essentials toward making it a success.

It will be a day and night fair. The grounds have been wired and it will be electrically lighted. Crowds of
out-of-town folk are pouring in here already. The association expects to live up to a promise of a grand time
for all.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—
Just what circumstances caused Captain William J. Maxwell, governor of Guam, to be removed by a subordinate,
Lieut.-Commander William P. Cronan, and to be sent to the naval hospital in Washington, the navy department intends to learn. Captain William B. Shoemaker is here awaiting a steamer to take him to Guam where he can make a detailed inquiry.

Cronan's action followed immediately his arrival in Guam where he was sent following alleged departmental dissension. His friends say that he found the governor in ill-health and took the action to meet
the emergency.

Cronan temporarily appointed Captain C. Smith as governor.

WELL LAID PLOT IN EDISON FILM

"The Innocence of Ruth," a five-
reel Edison photodrama released
through Kleine-Edison Feature service, will be shown at Majestic theater today and Wednesday.

There is a strong, well-laid plot,
a smoothly told and extremely interesting story and a finished picture
in this Kleine-Edison production that cannot help but please. The story deals chiefly with life in Greater New York, and brings out incidents in Wall street, a millionaire's home,
and other "side lights" on life in the Metropolis. A very brief synopsis of
"The Innocence of Ruth" follows:

Jimmy Carter, a young millionaire, gets a message from his friend,
Reginald Travers, who is dying,
has been ruined by Mortimer
Reynolds, and he leaves his daughter in care of Carter who takes Ruth home and gives her to the care of his housekeeper. Reynolds, envious to add Ruth to his list of unfortunates, instructs his mistress, Edna Morris, to gain her confidence.

At the Charity Ball, Ruth meets
Edna Morris, and the girl works
her way into the graces of Ruth. Carter finds her in the apartment, stupefied and disheveled. Heart sore, he looks upon her contemptuously and leaves, feeling that she has gone the way of Edna. Edna's mother comes to the house from the country, and takes both penitents home with her,
hoping that they may forget.

Miserable because Carter has mistaken her, Ruth can find no peace.
But Edna, who dragged her to degradation, succeeds in lifting her to the light of hope, and Ruth is again
folded in the arms of Carter.

were bunched and he was unsteady, averted a tie in the ninth by a perfect throw to the plate to Knutson,

"Husband Wife," a strong dramatic play written by Charles Kenyon, author of "Kindling," and given its premiere at the 48th Street Theater, New York, where the newspapers pronounced it one of the most extraordinary plays of modern times,
with a strong and appealing moral;
all in all, one of the few domestic dramas which met the undivided approval of the metropolitan newspaper
critics. Staged under William A.
Brady's supervision, it has now been made into a motion picture also under Mr. Brady's critical eye, and will
Wednesday, this week. This picture marks the first of the Brady all-star
casts, which includes Ethel Clayton,
Holbrook Blinn, Emmett Corrigan,
Gerda Holmes, Montagu Love, Dion
Titheradge and Little Madge Evans.

one of the original settlers in the rich Mormon Coulee farming community. He was proprietor of a large farm. Mrs. Heller died sixteen years ago. One daughter, Mrs.

sota, to do work for the Milwaukee company on the H. & D. division. The new road built here by Mr. O'Malley is one of the best in the section, on a higher grade than the old one, and many of the curves have been straightened out. The Milwaukee company has put in a fine road for the county at a saving of nearly $3, 000 to Clayton county.

Strike Threat Felt

For the first Sunday in years, not a stock train arrived at this terminal Sunday, Sept. 3. This was due to the threatened strike. This point is a busy day in the railroad yards Sundays, as there are usually from four to six stock trains in here, with from twenty-five to forty-five cars of stock enroute to the Chicago markets. From this point the stock trains are taken to Savanna by what is known as the "White Line," making passenger train time to get the stock to the Monday Chicago markets.

Extension Progresses

The yard extension work is progressing steadily, and the filling is going on for the new tracks, which will add many more tracks to the yards. The old yards were too small for the amount of business handled
here, and at times the company side tracks across the river at Prairie du Chien were used when business was excessively heavy. With the new addition to the yards, the North Mc-Gregor terminal will have abundant room for any emergency.

STRANGE CASE IS NOT CHILD PLAGUE

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special.)—We are glad to report that Miss Clara Gallickson, the young lady of Peterson of whom it had been said that her illness was infantile paralysis, is not a victim of that malady, though she is paralyzed and entirely helpless. Her case is one which has proven puzzling to the physicians to whom she has been taken for treatment. Taken to a physician to have her tonsils removed, the right arm became paralyzed after the operation, the affliction gradually extending to the right limb and afterwards to the other side of her body. She was taken to the Lutheran hospital at La Crosse for treatment and even there the case was most puzzling to physicians. An X Ray picture having been taken, physicians at Madison followed up the case announced that the trouble was in the spine. The disease is a very rare one and although the young lady has now been at her home in Peterson for about three weeks, she is in the same helpless condition.

ON BOARD THE PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL, HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 5.—"These have been the finest receptions I have ever received," President Wilson characterized his trip through West Virginia and Kentucky.

The president evidently was delighted at the enthusiasm with which he was received—even, when late at night, there was nothing for small town crowds to cheer but the darkened private car.

The president's journey into Kentucky while characterized as non-political, has proved gratifying to his political aides.

Thursday night the president leaves for Atlantic City, where he will address the convention of the National Woman's Suffrage association.

"Kleptomania"

Kleptomania, or the impulse to steal, is a controverted obsession, especially when a poor person yields to the desire, for, of course, there would be an end to all jailing for such delinquencies were the admission made too generally of mental irresponsibility when things are absent-mindedly appropriated. But when the appropriator is well off and the article "swiped" is absurd the veritability of kleptomania may be admitted medico-legally, so that it becomes a luxury denied to poverty, just as the difference between inebriety and drunkenness is a matter of cash.—Exchange.

HUGHES FIGHTS BACK AND "PACKED" CROWD CHEERS HIS SPIRIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5.—Republican Nominee Charles E. Hughes was a different person than the man who a little over four weeks ago started off on a transcontinental campaign trip. Probably no public speaker, let alone a presidential candidate, ever underwent such an experience as Hughes did at the Ryman auditorium in Nashville Monday night. He faced an audience that "packed" against him and distinctly unfavorable to his views. The crowd started a wild demonstration. They hissed the G. O. P. nominee. Hughes, fighting mad at the insult which he considered had been given Mrs. Hughes, who was present on the platform with him, simply struck out straight from the shoulder and rammed home his bitter criticism of the democratic administration with a new line of hot shot. He rattled the strike settlement recently achieved by President Wilson and had the satisfaction of hearing cheers and applause from the southerners for his fighting spirit and his determination to fight it out. It became known Tuesday that the nominee is planning to address men of the Plattsburgh, N. Y., camp, if this can be arranged.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF ROADS IS COMING GARRETSON AVERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Government ownership of railroads and other public utilities is coming, in the opinion of A. B. Garretson, leader of the four railroad brotherhoods' fight for an eight-hour day. Avoidance of a national rail strike, through strong governmental interference, he believes, is only one of a series of steps toward such an end.

WILLCOX SAYS WEST IS STRONG FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Chairman William R. Willcox of the republican national committee returned Tuesday from a western trip, full of enthusiasm.

"I have found that the middle west is going strong for Hughes and on every hand I heard most encouraging reports regarding the success of the candidate's trip," said Willcox. "As to the reports that the trip has not been all that Mr. Hughes wanted it to be, the candidate does not know where these reports come from, but he feels highly pleased with the reception he has met with."

FATHER SLUYTER LEFT $1,000 TO HOME FOR K. G.

Bequest of Late Pastor of the Cathedral Is Made Public at Meeting of the Lodge

Announcement Is Made of Disposition of the Late Priest's Estate

One thousand dollars, the bequest of the late Rev. Gerhard Sluyter, pastor of St. Joseph Cathedral here, was presented to the local lodge of the Knights of Columbus at the annual business meeting and election of officers, held Monday night.

According to the will of Father Sluyter, the money is to be used towards erecting a lodge building for the Knights of Columbus in La Crosse, for which $7,000 had already been raised.

Father Sluyter's entire estate was left to Mgr. A. Ph. Kremer of Genoa, Wis., vicar general of the diocese, and directions were given him as to how Father Sluyter wanted the estate dispersed. The sum of $500 was left to the Catholic Benevolent society of La Crosse. Small sums of money were left other Catholic organizations, and certain sums were bequeathed to relatives in Germany.

"Father Sluyter's bequest has given an impetus to the movement for a Knights of Columbus building in La Crosse," Attorney A. H. Schubert said on Tuesday. The local lodge proposes to erect a structure to cost about $60,000. Plans for a campaign for raising a building fund will be started soon, it is believed. The building will be similar in purpose. It was said, to the Y. M. C. A. Young men not members of the Knights of Columbus will be admitted for a membership fee.

Joseph M. LaVaque was elected grand knight to succeed Edward J. Steinmetz, who has held the office for two years. Others elected were Professor E. Butler, deputy grand knight; Professor A. J. Engelhardt, chancellor; William McMillen, warden; John Dengler, trustee, and William J. Rossiter, financial secretary.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS COULDN'T SUPPORT THE LOAD GIGI HAD

ROME, August 14, by mail.—The wooden legs that Charles Swain of Indiana, salesman for a Washington, D. C., artificial limb house, brought to Italy, created all kinds of trouble for Gigi, an Italian soldier whose legs were shot off in the Trentino.

Swain took a sample pair of legs to the Mirafiori hospital, planning to demonstrate their worth and then sell a car load of them to the Italian government. He hooked the pair onto Gigi who pounded around for an hour before he got the knack of artificial walking and then started on a tour of the hospital.

After Swain had finished conferring with the hospital heads, he looked about for Gigi. He was gone and so were the legs. Soldiers were sent out to search for him. They scoured the neighborhood but night came on and Gigi and the expensive artificial legs were still missing.

Next morning when the hospital gates were opened a dirty bundle of rags was discovered lying in a heap on the road. It was Gigi. He had toured all the neighboring wine shops. The best pair of artificial legs in the world could not support the load Gigi brought back.

TALES OF GILDED DEPRIVITY TOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The searching rays of Assistant District Attorney Smith's white slave investigation are being turned into the homes of men of wealth and position to probe a story of viciousness going on in New York under the cover of society.

A man well-known in social circles at fashionable resorts told Prosecutor Smith an amazing tale of gilded depravity. He admitted, Smith said, he received large sums from men of wealth for furnishing women for their parties. He told of at least ten houses maintained in the best districts of Manhattan patronized solely by men of wealth.

MORRISON DECLARES FORMER ATTORNEY HAS $150,000 OF HIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Edward W. Morrison, 80-year-old millionaire, exploded a bomb-shell in the camp of James Ward, formerly his attorney Tuesday, when he testified in bankruptcy proceedings in federal court that Ward had $150,000 worth of his property.

"And I don't know how he got it," said Morrison.

Morrison told Federal Judge Landis that the property was his, and had nothing to do with that left him by his father whose will decreed that in case the son died without children the estate should go to the city to build a public school.

Zeppelin Sailors Are Buried

Eighteen of Dirigibles Brought Down in Sunday Raid—First Germans to Die on English Soil

Machinery May Be Used

BY HAL O'FLAHERTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Eighteen charred and crushed corpses, the bodies of the German Zeppelin sailors who came crashing to earth from a mile above London in Sunday morning's great raid, were buried near Cuffley Monday.

They were the first Germans to die in action on English soil since the war began. One of them wore an iron cross. An inquest will be held later.

Experts attached to the royal flying corps continue to dig in the ruins of the destroyed Zeppelin for bits of machinery that will assist them in reconstructing a dirigible. Much of the machinery was found only slightly damaged. The Zeppelin's clock was practically as good as new. It had stopped at 3:10, the hour when an English shell went bursting through the great bag.

Thousands of Londoners poured out to Cuffley to see the pile of debris they had watched tumbling down from the sky Sunday morning.

The streets and house-tops were crowded while the raid was in progress. General French's official report at midnight that a raid was in progress called out the London constabulary and within a few minutes word that a great fleet of air ships had invaded England had spread throughout the city.

It was 2 a. m. before the London crowds got their first thrill. A single anti-aircraft gun suddenly boomed off somewhere, announcing the arrival of a Zeppelin. The booming became epidemic, spreading all over London. Sharp explosions, evidently of bombs hurled down by the Zeppelins, were heard far in the distance.

ing conviction that I cannot lead you to the fulfillment of those hopes, and with the certainty that there are other men as well or better adapted to this ministry available on terms less exacting to you, I have deliberately sought a convenient time to sever my connection with you.

"Having received a call, several times repeated, to go into a distinctive ministry among college students, a word which the denomination persists in laying upon my conscience, I hereby tender you my resignation, to take effect at the beginning of the University year, September 30, 1916.

"In view of the coming meetings of the state convention in La Crosse, the denomination has agreed to release me in October for a period of ten days immediately before and including the dates of the convention, to return and be of service in carrying through that task.

"Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM J. PEACOCK."

Combine With Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Peacock's acceptance of the call to the university work is in line with his inclination. He was pastor in a college town before he came to La Crosse, and had twice before been offered opportunities to take up work among university students. His work at the University of Minnesota will be a unique combination of ministry and Y. M. C. A. work.

The Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. is just completing a fund of $150,000 for a building and endowment especially for university students. The plan of work is along general lines worked out successfully at the University of Pennsylvania. The various denominations, Rev. Peacock said in explaining the work, instead of putting separate pastors in to hunt up the students of their persuasions, are combining with the Y. M. C. A. to secure men to work together in a sort of council around the Y. M. C. A. secretary, each with a specialty.

He's Pioneer

Mr. Peacock is the first of such officers chosen. He is given a free hand in his pioneer work, expected to develop it along original lines broader in scope than those of the average university pastor. Rev. Peacock has been promised, he said, full liberty to go ahead on progressive lines suited to the problems of university students.

Mr. Peacock is asked to build up his own group of helpers and to select or design courses of study to interest students in Bible study.

THUNDER STORM STOPS PLOWING OF TRACTORS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 5.—A severe thundershower Tuesday afternoon not only decreased by several thousands the expected attendance at the National Tractor demonstration now being held here, but also precluded the possibility of doing any plowing.

In the number of tractors on exhibition the tractor event here is larger than any of the others, there being a hundred and thirty farm tractors on display.

In spite of Monday's rain which delayed the actual work of plowing by a few hours, forty acres of land were turned under before nightfall.

According to officials of the different companies who have been at all of the demonstrations, the crowds here Monday, 6,000, exceeded those of the first day in any of the cities in which this demonstration has been held.

MANY CRIMINAL CASES

Fifty-four criminal cases were heard in county court here by Judge John Brindley during the month of August, it became known on Tuesday. The month, according to the judge, was one of the heaviest his court has witnessed for several years. Criminal cases far outnumbered any month during 1916, and there were more cases during the thirty days than during any month last year.

COTTON TAKES TUMBLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—After selling up fifteen points during the morning cotton dropped nearly thirty points Tuesday afternoon on favorable weather reports and realizing sales. October sold at 15.80 cents a pound off 14 from the opening.

Daughter And Mother War For Key to Fortune

Because she maintains that her mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Reinartz, 66 years old, a resident of North La Crosse is a "spend-thrift" and is incompetent to take care of money, Mrs. Lizzy Martell, a daughter, is petitioning county court to appoint a guardian for her. The case came up on Tuesday and was adjourned until September 18.

Mrs. Reinartz, it is said, possesses the sum of $975, which is locked up in a safety deposit vault in a local bank. Mrs. Martell is alleged to possess the key to the box, which she refuses to turn over to her mother.

Simultaneously with the action brought by the daughter, the mother started a replevin action to secure the safety box key.

CABBAGES AND STRAWBERRIES HEARING TOPIC

I. C. C. Examiner to Hear Local Objection to the Rates from Points South

"The time has come," I. C. C. said, "to talk of many things; "Of north bound rates on cabbages, Of strawberries and things."

After exonerating the interstate commerce commission of the above offense against good taste and Lewis Carroll, the traffic bureau, formerly known as the shippers' association, Tuesday announced that cabbages and strawberries will be the subjects of discussion before the interstate commerce commission's Examiner Waters in the federal court building here Saturday.

On behalf of commission men in the city the traffic bureau has objected to the rates from southern points to La Crosse on strawberries and cabbages. It is pointed out that the through rate is more than the combination of locals on St. Louis—in other words, that the sum of rates from the point of shipment to St. Louis and from St. Louis to La Crosse, is more than the through rate. This the local objectors assert is a violation of the "long and short haul" clause of the law. They ask a reduction of the through rate.

tion hall, the offices of the executive secretary and his staff, quarters for the traffic bureau, and committee rooms.

"We plan to make this a civic center for all community activities," said Secretary Kinslow, discussing the plans this morning. "The hall will be open for gatherings of every kind. When we go after a convention, we will have a place to offer them for meetings. When we give our luncheons, we will have a place to hold them. We will have a place for our bureau meetings. All of these things demanded that we have commodious quarters of our own."

"We would not have secured quarters to meet our needs for less than $1,500. The $750 more that we pay for these new rooms, built to our order, is a bonus through which the city is provided with a meeting place for every kind of civic enterprise."

Big Speakers Due

The committee on permanent headquarters, which worked out the proposal with Mr. Law, consisted of L. C. Colman, chairman; George H. Gordon, C. F. Michel, E. M. Wing and G. V. Michel. They investigated a number of proposals of all kinds. Their commendation to the board of directors was as follows:

"The committee is of the opinion that the proposition made by Mr. Law is far superior to any of the others for the reason that it affords sufficient office room, and by the use of movable partitions the chamber will be provided with ample room for an auditorium for the use of conventions and meetings of all local and civic and public welfare organizations. Mr. Law also offers to furnish skylights where needed. In view of the above, the committee unanimously recommends the acceptance of Mr. Law's proposition."

To Design Quarters

Pencil sketches were submitted of the proposed plans for the new quarters, and several changes were suggested. A building committee was also appointed by President F. P. Hixon, which will settle the design of the chamber's new home, in conjunction with Mr. Law and his architect. That committee consists of L. C. Colman, Prof. D. O. Coate, G. Van Steenwyk and Secretary Kinslow.

SPIDER BITE IS NEARLY FATAL TO BABY DAUGHTER

A spider bite on the arm is believed by physicians to have brought little Nellie Jane Griswold, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griswold, 620 Rose street, to death's door. Nellie Jane on Tuesday was beginning to recover from a week's illness during which her life was at one time despaired of.

A big red blot on her right arm began Nellie Jane's troubles. It appeared a week ago Saturday. In the next few days Nellie Jane had repeated spasms, a high fever, and other dangerous symptoms. Last Friday her parents had almost given up hope. The little girl began to improve.

Nellie Jane is now believed to be out of danger.

LEOPOLD HAS GREAT FAITH IN ABILITY OF TEUTONS TO WITHSTAND RUSSIANS

HEADQUARTERS OF PRINCE LEOPOLD OF BAVARIA, AUSTRO-GERMAN FRONT, Sept. 5.—The combined power of the Russian and Rumanian armies will be unable to breach the Austro-German lines in the east, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, commander-in-chief of the Central-Austro-German armies in the east, declared Tuesday.

"This section of the front as well as the whole eastern battle line is impregnable," said the Bavarian commander. "The Russians are brave. They advance in thick masses, but they suffer grievous losses and cannot break through."

Replying to a query as to what effect Rumania's entrance into the war will have on the allies, Prince Leopold stepped closer to the correspondent and said with enthusiasm:

"The Rumanians have brought themselves into a bad situation. They will get some unsuspected blows yet. Yes, there will be blows for those who might follow their example."

Other officers along this front expressed similar views. The appearance of a new enemy has not shaken their confidence in a final victory.

Prince Leopold, though 70 years of age, is robust and in perfect health. He takes a swim daily and indulges in steeplechasing to keep in trim.

MILWAUKEE VOTE LACKS SPIRIT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 5.—Voting up to noon Tuesday in the Wisconsin primary election, was exceptionally light, according to reports reaching here. In Milwaukee the vote at noon was several thousand lighter than at the primary election two years ago.

Chief interest centered in the race between Gov. E. L. Phillips, W. H. Hatten, and former Gov. Francis E. McGovern for the republican nomination for governor. The fight between Senator Robert M. La Follette and Malcolm G. Jeffris of Jakesville for the nomination for United States senator, has been hot.

There are few contests between the democrats for the main state offices.

Budweiser Demands the Cream of Every Barley Crop

THE chief aim of American Barley Farmers is to grow Barley up to the high standard demanded by Anheuser-Busch. They not only pay premium prices for select Barley, but have contributed thousands of dollars to induce the farmer to improve the quality of his Barley crop. The exclusive Saazer Hop flavor of Budweiser comes from the hop gardens of the ancient district of Saaz, Bohemia, where for 800 years the finest hops in the world have been grown. The ever-and-always-the-same Quality, Purity, Mildness and Distinctive Character of Budweiser have made its sales exceed other beers by millions of bottles.

WELSH KEEPS HIS TITLE IN COMEDY FIGHT WITH WHITE

Referee Roche After Go Apparently Falls for Welsh Ruse in His Decision

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 5.—Freddie Welsh retained his title of champion lightweight pugilist of the world Monday after going the full scheduled twenty rounds with challenger Charley White of Chicago. Referee Billy Roche of New York awarded Welsh the decision on points.

As the gong sounded at the close of the twentieth round, Roche stood for several moments as if undecided. He then reached both hands toward the boxers and many of the spectators believed he was about to award a draw. Suddenly Welsh rushed over to Roche and placed his glove in the referee's hand and it was raised aloft while the official appeared to be reaching for White.

The next instant jubilant friends of the champion swarmed into the ring. When Referee Roche announced his decision in favor of Welsh, the challenger's adherents appeared for the moment spellbound. Then began a fusillade of hundreds of cushions at the referee. He was rushed by friends to a waiting automobile. An unfortunate accident and unpleasant incident marred the beginning and end of the day's program. Shortly before 2 o'clock a portion of the bleachers on the south side of the arena collapsed. More than a hundred persons were more or less seriously injured.

From a spectacular standpoint, the battle was considered one of the poorest that has ever been fought for the highest ring honors in the lightweight division. For fully two-thirds of the time the fighters were locked in a succession of clinches and pushing each other back and forth about the ring. For this, many spectators held Welsh was largely to blame.

Make Poor Showing
Scarcely a blow was struck by either man that did any damage. White's punches carried the greater punitive power, while frequently Welsh was on the aggressive and did his share of the leading it was noticeable that many of his blows fell short and failed to reach their mark. Roche stated after the fight that he awarded Welsh the decision for the reason that he did most of the leading.

INDIANS HELD TO A STANDSTILL BY PITCHER COPSEY

Poor Base Running Defeats Locals in Game Labor Day with Redskins from Nebraska

Delivering all the goods in his big league makeup, Fay Copsey, star pitcher of the Athletics, held the Nebraska Indians to six hits and one run on Monday. The Athletics didn't win—they tied the score, but the Redskins were held to a standstill. The game was called after the tenth to allow the Indians to make a train. A bit of hard luck prevented the Athletics from winning. With the score tied in the eighth and with the bases full and one out, Weiss sent a long fly to left for an out. Copsey came in from third after the ball was caught, but Robare took too big a lead on second and was caught for the third out, Copsey's run not counting.

There was no scoring until the sixth, when Hugg of the Indians scored on a double and a bounder over second. The Athletics came back in the seventh for a run on Tanke's triple and a passed ball.

The game was the last for the Indians. Blair, with Al Toraason in the box, will be at league park Sunday with the Athletics. Each team has been defeated once this year at the hands of the other.

Stars of Former Years Meet at Cubtown; the Pirates Grab Two from the Cardinals

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Christy Mathewson, the former idol of the New York fans and now manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and Mordecai Brown of the famous old Cub machine, met on the slab on Monday in the second game of a double header here, their first meeting since 1912, which battle the former won. Mathewson again was returned the winner, the score being 10 to 8. Chicago won the first game, 3 to 0.

In marked contrast to their pitching duels of old, each was hit hard on Monday. The Cubs touched Mathewson for fifteen hits while the Reds gathered nineteen off Brown. Many of the hits were for extra bases, each team making a total of twenty-five bases.

In the first game, 3 to 0, Prendergast held Cincinnati to four scattered hits, while the locals bunched hits off Schultz in the first and seventh innings and scored all their runs.

THE HASKIN LETTER*A PURE ELECTION

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5.—In the record of the last few days of the session of the historic sixty-fourth congress, among the measures that were valiantly pushed to the fore again and again by their sponsors when press of business and shortness of time threatened to crowd them off the calendar, a measure with a title half a column long will go down to posterity as one of the chief. For purposes of every-day nomenclature this bill is known around the capitol as "Corrupt Practices," and its object and mission is to do away with all taint of corruption in elections. If this bill becomes law or when it becomes law, as its supporters prefer to state it will put our elections on a new basis of financial publicity.

There are really two corrupt practices bills, one of which, drawn and introduced by Mr. Rucker of Missouri, passed the house some time ago. The senate bill, which is the one occupying the center of the stage at the moment, was introduced by Senator Owen of Oklahoma. When the house bill came to the senate, the committee to which it was referred struck out all of it, and substituted the Owen bill as a sweeping amendment, so that while it is being said that the bill which passed the house is up before the senate, it is really quite another measure. Should the senate pass it, it will have to go back to the house again, and apparently there will be warm discussion before the conference decided what the bill shall eventually look like.

The Owen bill provides that in order to get in the game of national politics you must do it according to rule. If you are going to spend any money in a way that will influence the result of an election, directly or indirectly, you must organize into a political committee. Any organization of five or more members, except corporations organized for profit, may constitute itself a political committee by drawing up a resolution to that effect and sending a copy of it to the chief clerk of the house of representatives. The committee has to come out in the open in this resolution, and state fully and in detail the candidate or candidates it is going to try and help elect. Thus prompted by the zealous committee, the chief clerk will come back at them with a normal certificate constituting them a recognized political committee, and they are free to go ahead and electioneer within the limits set down by other sections of the bill.

If a man of political tastes happens to be also unsociable and non-gregarious by nature, he is not forced to affiliate with any committee in order to work. He can go ahead and work by himself, but he becomes in effect a committee of one. He is bound, as the committee is bound, to report all the money he spends and just how he spends it, should his expenditures exceed $50. If he wants to confine himself to $49.99 he is at liberty to proceed without supervision.

The troubles of the committee only begin with the obtaining of the certificate, however. Armed with that, they can set to work, but they must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep strict account of everything they spend. They must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep a complete record of receipts and expenditures. He must carefully save all his receipts. If any other member of the committee collects anything he must forthwith report said collection to the treasurer, who makes a record of it. His record must show how much each contributor contributes, and where he lives. When the records are complete they are to be sent to Washington and preserved, open to the inspection of one who cares to read. The name and address of each person who gives more than $100 is set down individually. If your contribution is more modest, you are lumped ignominiously with the rest of the pikers. But the contributions and the contribu-

the most radical innovation of all, as some critics see it. This section heartlessly provides that no man, be he who he may, shall contribute more than $5,000 toward a campaign to influence the result of any election. The original house bill did not set any limit on the amount one man might contribute; and it has been pointed out that $5,000 is less to some men than $5 to others, and that a rich and public spirited citizen may want to contribute $10,000 toward the expenses of a particular campaign, and thereby relieve some of his poorer fellow citizens of carrying the burden; yet his motives and methods may be impeccable. However, there is section nine, doubtless a fruitful field for conference controversy.

In presidential campaigns, the bill provides that no more than $40,000 may be spent by any national committee. Not more than $50,000 may be spent in trying to secure the nomination of a candidate for the presidency, and the vice presidency goes at half price with a $25,000 limit. Also, no committee may spend anything to secure the nomination of a candidate without his knowledge and consent. So the candidate can not plead that his good friends have been spending their substance on him unbeknownst.

Candidates for the offices of senator and representative must content themselves with spending the modest sums of $5,000 and $2,500 respectively on their campaigns. Personal expenses and advertising are not included in these sums, however. The candidate is charged with the responsibility of keeping disbursements within the limit, and has to make a detailed report to the house for which he is running. Particularly stringent, and the object of some unfavorable comment, is the provision that in case the aggregate of disbursements exceeds the amount permitted under the act, with the knowledge and consent of the candidate, the aspirant is guilty ty of a felony and liable to fine and imprisonment.

Having cut down the cash expenditures to the necessities of campaigning, the bill proceeds to take a swipe at election promises of the personal sort. Every candidate has to make a complete report stating every promise or pledge he has made to anybody, contingent on the result of the election. Candidates for senator or representative are forbidden to promise anybody a government job, or support in securing one.

In order that there shall be no doubt in anybody's mind as to just what campaign money may be spent for, the bill lists nine items which are the only ones on which cash may be expended. They include only the necessities of a campaign life, such as traveling expenses, advertising and rent.

Debate on the bill in the senate grew warm once or twice. The general tendency of our higher legislators was to state that while such a measure was almost or quite unnecessary in their own respective states, there were other states where it might do a great deal of good. As Mr. Vardaman pointed out, the suspicions entertained about other men's states were perhaps in themselves an indication of the necessity for legislation.

There seems to be a considerable unanimity of opinion to the effect that a corrupt practices act of some sort would be a good thing, and that the present legislation governing the expenditures of money in campaigns is inadequate. The house bill, which was passed by that body by a large majority, was rather more simple than the senate bill in its outlines, though its provisions are much to the same effect. It seems probable that a conference committee of the two houses would be able to arrive at an amended measure satisfactory to both without much difficulty. One of the chief fundamental differences between the two bills is the fact that the house bill does not limit the amount of an individual contribution.

at this session. It is the sort of a measure that is hard for any legislator to oppose in and for itself without putting himself in rather an awkward position. There is little doubt that a bill substantially along these lines will be passed either at this session or the next, and campaigning will be something of a changed science in consequence.

September at $1.50 was up 2½ above the opening. December gained 1½c at $1.51½, while May advanced 1½c at $1.52½.

Corn opened firmer, assisted by the advance in wheat. Further gains were made later on a good buying movement and reports of a corn scarcity. September at 87c was up ½ above the opening. December gained ½c at 74½c, and May was up ¾ at 77½c.

Oats were strong at the opening but declined later on a general rush to buy at the advanced prices. September was down ¼c at 46½c; December unchanged at 49c, and May unchanged at 52c.

Provisions were higher.

NEGRO TROOPERS IN SECOND RIOT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 5.—Military authorities on Tuesday were investigating the second riot in which members of the Eighth Illinois (Negro) infantry have participated since being stationed here.

Fifty Negro militiamen are in the guard-house here as the result of trouble that followed the arrest of one of their number by a city policeman. More than 100 of the Negroes gathered about the officer and his prisoner and serious trouble appeared imminent until the provost guard arrived and arrested about half of the guardsmen.

The longer the engagement the shorter the married life.

ARE MEDICINES LIQUORS?

A certain class of prejudiced and jealous doctors call patent medicines only alcoholic beverages. They will tell you that such and such a medicine contains as much alcohol as a glass of beer or a certain quantity of whiskey; but they do not mention that the beer or whiskey is swallowed at one draught, while only a small quantity of the medicine is taken at one dose. At the same time they will use alcohol quite as freely and many in four or five times as great proportions in their own prescriptions.

Such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound use barely enough alcohol to preserve the root and herb extracts, too little to have injurious effects; and the medicine can be had, if desired, in a non-alcoholic form.

NEBRASKA INDIANS BEAT BLOOMINGTON IN A HARD MATCH

BLOOMINGTON, Wis.—(Special.)—One of the best games of ball ever staged in this part of the state was played here Saturday between the home team and the Nebraska Indians.

The local team, backed up with Elmer Dye of West Union in the box, and Ray Harvey of Montana, formerly of Guttenburg, Iowa, at shortstop, not a score was made for twelve innings. Each side made one in the thirteenth, Jay Martin of the locals batting out a great home run.

Nobody scored in the fourteenth but the visiting team got a start and made three in the fifteenth. The final score was 4 to 1, in favor of the Indians.

The Indians, who have been out all season and played all over the country, said it was the longest and hardest game they have played. Dye pitched a wonderful game for Bloomington being especially good in pinches.

According to an official report, the time lost by university students through prompt treatment of common colds and grippe has been decreased from about nine days in 1910 to about two and one-half days in 1915. That represents a great gain and alone would be enough to justify the establishment and maintenance of the student medical advisers' department, but that is by no means the only or the chief gain to the students.

However mature they may consider themselves, freshmen at the university are seldom more than young boys and girls. They come at an age when they can not safely be entrusted to select a physician wisely or exercise proper judgment as to whether or not an attack of illness is of such character as to call for immediate attention and vigorous treatment. Parents can now feel a degree of comfort concerning the health and physical welfare of their children at the University of Wisconsin that was impossible before the service was instituted there.

Another gain has come through the compulsory physical examination of all students. Many an early case of tuberculosis has been discovered many months or even years before it otherwise would have been and while the disease was in an easily curable stage. In other instances unsuspected heart disease has been detected by these skillful diagnosticians and the student has been prohibited from engaging in competitive athletics that might have killed or crippled him for life in an institution less scrupulous in looking after the health of the students for whom it is morally responsible.

In this latter class of cases early detection and proper advice is frequently all that is needed to enable the victim to so modify his habits or vocation in life as to insure a normal or even an increased span of life.

It was a wise administration which recognized the fact that the physical health of the student body is quite as important as the mental guidance. Wisconsin and California universities lead the country in this respect.

Authorities having responsibility for students of local primary and secondary schools are providing similarly by employment of physicians and nurses for health inspection and supervision. Children are getting a fair start, nowadays, and the next generation ought thereby to be able to "put it all over the present one." Who is it that desires less?

RUSHFORD MAN IS THREE SCORE AND TEN YEARS OLD

M. A. Maland Celebrates His Seventieth Birthday; Is Native of Wisconsin and Loves State

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special.)—M. A. Maland, a native of Wisconsin and one of the best known citizens of southern Minnesota celebrated his seventieth birthday August 23. Mr. Maland is hale and hearty and active as a young man.

Services Resumed
Sunday, September third services were resumed at the Rushford Presbyterian church. Rev. J. C. Bantly, the resident pastor, having concluded his summer's vacation, which was for the most part, spent in this city. Regular sessions of the Sunday school will also be carried on from the same date.

Scout Injured
The Boy Scouts returned from their trip up to Camp Hazard last Thursday, having spent a jolly time there with their scout master, Rev. J. C. Bantly. The very popular same of "Hunky", just now absorbing the attention of the boys, was the cause of the only unpleasant episode of the camping trip. While playing the game, one of the invited guests at the camp ran into a barbed wire fence and cut a good sized gash upon his leg, but a Scout, who had brought along "first aid" equipment, rendered the necessary aid and all was well.

Residences Changed
Numerous changes in homes are noticed recently. The D. A. Tiffany residence property on Mill street having been purchased by Alfred Peterson, the families of Albert Ebner and James Parish who have been occupying the house were forced to seek other homes. Mr. Ebner has leased rooms at the James McDonald residence in Brooklyn, while Parish expects to occupy the residence now held by Silas Shirven and family. Mr. Shirven will take up his residence in the Mrs. Arnt Larson house. Mrs. Larson reserving rooms for herself in one part of the residence. The former Alfred Peterson house will be occupied by Mrs. M. Betten and family, who recently moved in from the nearby country.

John Nelson a former Rushford resident, but for the past four or five years of Redwood Falls, Minn., has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaus Olson and other relatives in this city.

Nell Currie, another one-time Rushfordite, has been up from La Crosse to visit his aunt, Mrs. L. L. Streeter and other relatives here. Mr. Currie has been a La Crosse resident for a good many years.

Theodore Anderson, who for the past three weeks has been a patient at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to his home on Ferry street, Thursday, much improved in health after his rather serious operation. His brother, Ed Anderson, of Choice, who was compelled to submit to an operation for appendicitis at the same hospital, some three days after Theodore went down, is also gaining nicely and hopes soon to come back home.

Mrs. O. Tagland, another Rushford resident who was taken ill with appendicitis some three weeks ago and underwent an operation for the same at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to her family here last Thursday, also being well upon the road to health now.

Miss Emma Crampton has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. See camp, a number of miles from this city, for a number of days. Mrs. F. A. Foster and two children were so guests of the Seekamp home for a week, have returned to their home here.

E. J. Kingsford of North Rushford departed last Saturday for Baraboo, there to visit for a week or so until the arrival of his daughter, Mrs. May of Thief River Falls, Minn., this lady planning to remain with her father for some weeks. Another of Mr. Kingsford's daughters, Mrs. Taylor of Montana, is expected to arrive in Rushford for an extended visit in a short time.

Owen McDermitt of Chicago, arrived in this city last Friday for a two or three weeks' visit with his mother, Mrs. A. McDermitt, of North Rushford.

Rev. A. Wright, of Brooklyn, who has been in declining health for the past year, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis a short time ago and since has lain in a partly-unconscious state. His children residing at a distance have been summoned to his bedside; Albert Wright, from Moorhead; Miss Anna, from Minneapolis, where she had gone to again take up her duties as instructor in the city's schools; Miss Laura, who had just gone back to Northfield to begin work in St. Olaf's college there, and Miss Ella, supervisor of music in the Denver, Col., schools. Rev. Wright's long and busy life as minister seems about to come to the final ending, as on account of his advanced age—some eighty-five years—complete recovery cannot be hoped for.

Mrs. Alfred Ness and two children, Alfred and Norma, are guests of Mrs. Ness's parents in Mabel, where he is attending to the fall's work upon his farm.

Gall-stones or Appendicitis? Don't operate. Dr. Manning, Vitaopath, Suite, 314 Linker Bldg., La Crosse. Miss Anna Kingsford departed this week for Minneapolis, there to take up her work as instructor in the city schools. Miss Ethel Kingsford, her sister, has also left Rushford, where she spent her summer vacation, to again teach at Fertile, Minn.

The Fred Whitehouse home in North Rushford, has recently entertained as guests Mrs. Chas. Wilson and son, of Aberdeen, S. D., they departing a day or so ago. Upon the Friday noon train of last week there also arrived, for a visit with the Whitehouse family, Mrs. White-

La Crosse Chamber of Commerce News Notes

(By James R. Kinsloe Executive Secretary)

Let's not be stampeded in our work. The failure of many commercial organizations can be attributed to the fact that they are too anxious to make a record the first six months. To properly serve the community the Chamber of Commerce must feel its way, like any other new business. The successful Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber of Commerce of influence and power in the community, the lasting, permanent Chamber of Commerce, can only become so when built upon a solid foundation.

At the end of three years, instead of reorganization, we want the Chamber of Commerce of La Crosse recognized at home and abroad as the biggest influence in community building in this entire section of the northwest. To bring this about means preliminary planning—planning based upon a knowledge of local conditions and local people.

In a very short time we will be on the hunt for men, men to man the guns as soon as we have reached that "state of preparedness" when we are ready to shoot. Every member will be given an opportunity to serve under whatever committee he chooses. We want you where your interest lies because there is where you will render the better service.

Develop your foresight by the experience of your hind sight and you will be better off by a darn sight.

RETAIL MERCHANTS BUREAU

Tonight at 8 o'clock, in the council chambers, city hall, this bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting. Important matters are to come up and will continue to come up throughout the year. We need the presence at these meetings of one or more representatives of every retail firm represented by membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Second only in importance to advertising there is nothing which will mean more to the merchants of La Crosse than prompt and regular attendance at the meetings of the bureau formed with the one distinct object of benefiting each and every member of that bureau.

We have some fine stores in La Crosse; we have some first-class men in the retail business; we don't yield them to anyone in the quality of brains or intelligence, but we can all learn something in a meeting where all these brains are brought together, and those men who learn most are the best men.

In attendance upon meetings and in faithful performance of committee duties, we must ever keep before us the old-fashioned doctrine that "he profits most who serves best."

To the question, "What's in it for me?" we answer, Nothing—unless you get in it.

THAT SOCIABILITY TOUR

Of course we should have more of them. The agricultural bureau can do no better work at the beginning than to show business men and farmers where their interests lie together, how they can each gain more by working in harmony and co-operation with each other.

house's sister, Mrs. Burquist, who, with her husband and daughter, will spend this week or so in this city.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will hold the regular monthly meeting at the church parlors on next Saturday, Sept. 9th, the leader for the devotions being Miss Crissie McLeod and the hostesses for the luncheon being Mrs. Lee Rollins, Mrs. Wm. Baerman, Mrs. McDermid and Mrs.

For a long time farmers have had a suspicion that the city business men regarded them with much the same benevolent attitude as the farmer regards his sheep, as creatures to be sheared and sometimes even to be skinned.

Now the best work the Agricultural bureau can do at the outset is to get the country business man—farmer—and the city business man where they will have confidence in each other. The word which is going to dominate the further is going to be competition or combination—but co-operation. When we can have hearty and trustful co-operation between the country and the city we will have laid the foundation for something big in this immediate section at least.

Congratulations, Dr. Ebenstat—that was a good "feeler"—now let's have a real one.

We want every member of the Agricultural bureau to take a part in the next one and we want the Merchants' bureau to join hands with the Agricultural bureau.

It might be well to arrange some sort of program for the next one. How would it be to have dinner followed by one short talk in explanation of our mission and then call the meeting over to our country friends to tell the truth about us. We want their ideas as to along what lines we can best co-operate with each other to our mutual advantage. Let the meeting be followed by games between the country and city, with a little music on the side.

How about it?

All the world loves a Doer. Do something worth while, and don't worry about who gets the credit. Those who chase the spot-light find it a thankless job. Do something and the spot-light will follow you. You can't get away from it. Credit will fall where it is due, just as God gives us air to breathe.

"AT HOME"

Time will not permit us to get out an "At Home" card and we don't want you to be looking for one. Just call around at 307 Main street, second floor, Rooms 7, 8 and 9 and see how nicely we are fixed in our temporary quarters with the Traffic Association a part of us, as it should have been years ago.

When we get into new and permanent quarters we will see if we can't kindle the board of directors and furnish "punch" and flowers to "em wait wants 'em and who will be the best men.

To the question, "What's in it for me?" we answer, Nothing—unless you get in it.

My Dear Buck:
Well old man you're ready to pack the duffle bag and hit the steel for the Great North Woods and you want a little straight from the shoulder stuff on the question of guides. Taken as a whole the men of the North Woods are a fine bunch of good fellows and they sure put up with a lot of hardships in the first line of trenches dodging anglers' gas shells on the subject of fishing. Most guides who handle the city chap on his first big time in the woods have more real fishing lore and knowledge tied up in their hat racks than they are given credit for. And a heap of this down right good fishing dope never reaches the surface because sometimes Mr. C. C. don't mix in right, he sort of rubs the fur the wrong way. Get on a man to man basis right at the start and have your listening ear in good shape. Your fishing will be more successful and you'll have an all round better time. Your guide, probably has spent the greater part of his life on the waters you will fish and he sure ought to be given credit for knowing something about fishing conditions on those waters. If you give him the glad hand, old timer and treat him white, totting your share and "mixing in" right, he'll open up and give you a line of fishing that will be remembered for many a day. And just let a few of his tackle tips and fish facts soak in, they are nearly always good and you can use 'em any time.

Tips From a Real Guide

While on a recent trip with Earny Wendt, the greatest little guide that ever brought a musky to gaff, I passed the buck to him in this fashion: "Earny," I said, "what is the worst boney pulled by the city fisherman in the high art of tossing the bait to the eager fishes?" Between turning the fish that was browning in the pan and moving the coffee pot to a place of safety when it threatened to boil over, Earny slipped this over the home plate. "Well, Hombre, there are a number of things that a fellow will do that makes it hard to fill the stringer, first nearly everyone tries to cast too far, they have an idea that unless they make about 75 feet of line fly off the reel on a cast that said cast was a failure, while as a matter of fact, as you well know, a cast of from 25 to 30 feet will get more fish than the longer casts, unless the water is very clear and then throw it out not above 50 feet." And this has been checked up by many times in watching Earny fish, he never throws his arm out of joint, he lets the wrist and rod do most of the work, and I have seen him get strikes within ten feet of the boat and even right up alongside as the lure left the water.

Use Small Spoons

"And another thing," said Earny, as he wiped the smoke out of his eyes. "Some of the spoons and spinners they bring up into this country are some size. They sure use them too large. I have always found a small spoon, say a No. 2 or 3, about right for most fishing. Of course you can use them up to No. 6 or 8 on a rough day, when the water is moving a bit, but the great big chunks of tin they try out on the musky sure must look funny to the old boys when it goes by. It seems they think the larger the spoon the larger the fish, but I've caught 'em up to 40 pounds with a little fellow, and I stick to that kind because it gets the fish."

"Striking at the right time is another point," he said as we started work on the piping hot grub, fit for a king, at least it tasted so after a day's steady work at casting. "With the plugs they can't strike soon enough and with the natural bait they strike too soon. Unless a fish hooks itself by accident when he hits the artificial plug, the majority of fishermen are not ready to strike at the right time. You got to strike 'em the minute they hit the plug or they throw it out. I think where the fall down comes is in not practicing the transfer of the rod from the right to the left hand. Just before the plug hits the water, the reel should be stopped and while the reel is being swung from the right to the left, begin the retrieve of the plug by a backward move of the rod. This takes up the slack at the start, gives your lure the right position and still you have enough space to swing the rod farther back to strike your fish quickly if you get a strike. While with the live minnows they never give the fish a chance to swallow the bait. The bass, pike, pickerel or wall-eye generally takes but a small hold on the live bait and striking at that time before he gets a chance to take it away for a short run, just pulls the bait out of his mouth. I say let 'em swallow it. I sure ought to at least have that pleasure anyway, then give a quick sharp strike with a wrist movement, but quite a few of the boys seem to think they got to pump

Give Your Bait a Chance

"Of course you can't expect a strike on every cast," Earny said as he pulled the boat to a favorite underwater weed bed where we intended to take a whirl at dusk casting. "But some of the boys put on a 'dowie,' give it a few tosses and then spend ten minutes good casting time changing to another bait, and they keep it up all day, never giving one particular bait a chance to make good. To get fish you have to keep the bait in the water, and while it's in the water keep it moving. I believe in reeling in fast as a game fish strikes on the impulse. He don't take much time to think about it and you should help out the game by keeping the bait moving which helps to deceive him in to thinking it's escaping feed."

So you see old timer if you want an careful of real fishing facts, lay your cards on the table with your pal, the guide, and play the game of the outdoors clean. It'll pay mighty well and start a friendship that will last for years.

DIXIE.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Any questions on fishing, tackle, or equipment will be answered. When detailed answers are desired enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Send queries to Dixie Carroll, care Sporting Editor.

Question: Are frogs good still-fishing bait for bass?—G. H. Answer: Use the smaller sized frogs for still fishing, and keep them in motion; they have a habit of burying themselves in the mud or under stones on the bottom; also crawl out on a windfall and watch you hold the rod. Hook them through the lips or through the skin of the back. Minnows make a better still-fishing bait.

Question: When is the best time for trolling and where? Answer: Best trolling time, morning, evening and after dark. Troll close to edge of rushes, lily pads and weeds, or over sunken weed formation over and along sand bars and off the shelving bottoms between shallow and deep water, or where light and dark waters seem to meet.

Question: What do you think of the Shakespeare standard professional reel and do you think the level winding affair on the level winders of any value?—T. M. R. Answer: The standard professional is a fine reel and a low priced one; it will stand up under hard usage and last a long time if given a little care. The level-winding arrangement on the Shakespeare reels is successful and quite an aid to the reel in its work.

FANS POUR IN FOR WELSH-WHITE FIGHT

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 2.—With all danger of a railroad strike practically averted, requests for ticket reservations for the Freddie Welsh-Charley White twenty round championship battle here Labor day began pouring in from all sections of the country and today crowds of local fans lined up to the box office to purchase the coveted pasteboards.

Welsh is a five to four favorite in the little betting that has been done so far.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Friday's Hero

Benny Kauf. He hit a ball in Boston for a home run and added to a day of glory by trying to take third base with that has-sock already occupied. He failed.

The Braves, by taking that fall out of the Giants, now are only one game behind the Robins.

Grover Cleveland Alexander smashed the shutout record again when he held the Robins scoreless. It was his fourteenth of the year.

Eppa Jeytha Rixey, inspired by his performance, went into the second game and did it all over again.

Curtis Cravath came back with a home run clout.

Bill Carrigan's Red Sox took a whaling at the hands of the Yanks and Detroit gained half a game by staying idle.

Home Run Baker again tried to be a pinch hitter but popped up a weak clout back of the plate.

Jimmy Callahan evidently cares little for President Tenor's orders. He talked back to Umpire Harrison and was sent off the field. Pitcher Jacobs and First Baseman Johnston followed him.

The Athletics managed to win while Myers was holding the Senators to a pair of safe blows.

RULE PROTECTING CATCHER OF PUNT OCCUPIES THE FANS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Monday will see the opening on a modest scale of football practice among the schools of the Big Nine conference, comprising Chicago, Purdue, Indiana, Ohio State, Northwestern, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois universities.

The call for football material was sent out last week by coaches in all the schools, who want their players under their guiding wing soon.

Although football practice in this section will not open until the middle of the month, the coming of September has found the men eager for practice. Some candidates for the gridiron are making the trip all the way from the Mexican border, where they went with the National guard.

Discussion of new rules and new styles of play occupied the training camps today. The most important change in the rules of the game, is the one pertaining to safety. The rule as it now appears provides that the man carrying the ball cannot be forced back from his most advanced position. A gain once made cannot be lost through pushing by the opposition. This rule probably will almost entirely eliminate the safety.

Coaches also declare it will prevent injuries to backfield men and will give light teams a much better chance against heavier opponents.

Another rule to prevent injuries this year is that opposition players will not be allowed to charge a man attempting to catch a punt, his activities being restrained to batting or catching the ball.

October 7 will see every Big Nine team in action on its home grounds with second rate teams as opponents. Chicago meets Caledon college of Minnesota; Illinois meets Kansas; Minnesota plays South Dakota; Wisconsin clashes with Lawrence; Northwestern opposes Lake Forest, Indiana Purdue and Ohio have not named their opponents.

The Point.

"Ah, Miss Peaches," sighed the aged millionaire, "if you were only my wife I could be happy." "You've told me that before," replied the girl calmly. "The question is, would you?"

PRESIDENT MEETS NEW FRIENDS BUT CALL TAKES HIM TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Capitol grounds were deserted except for a few sightseers when the president arrived Friday to renew his fight for eight-hour day legislation. He was walking along the sidewalk from the senate office building, whistling, when he overheard a man and his wife mention the state of Colorado. The president stopped, tipped his straw hat and smiling, spoke to them. "Did I understand you to say you are from Colorado?" he asked. "Yes," the man replied, "I am J. B. Fleming of Boulder, Col., and this is Mrs. Fleming."

Then as his president replied, "I am always interested in people from Colorado." Mr. and Mrs. Fleming somewhat confusedly asked in concert: "Why, you're the president, aren't you?"

The president admitted the charge. "Well, I'm a sort of a distant relative of Mrs. Wilson," Mrs. Fleming said.

Fleming said: "Well Mr. President, are you going to be able to stop this strike?"

Just then the secret service operatives reported the senate was ready for him and he left his new friends with a smile, but with their question unanswered.

DEFEAT OF "COMET" FRIDAY'S FEATURE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The defeat of Maurice E. McLoughlin, the idol of American lawn tennis, by George M. Church was the feature of the fourth round of the national singles championship at the West Side club on Friday. The elimination of the California "comet" in his widely heralded attempt to come back after two years to defeat left but three westerners in the field for the 1916 title as against four eastern stars and one southerner.

George M. Church Friday night was the hope of the eastern continent and the west pinned its faith on the ability of William M. Johnston, victor a year ago, although it was conceded that of the remaining eight players in the tournament, R. Norris Williams, second, and Clarence J. Griffin had a chance.

Church defeated McLoughlin 5-4, 6-1, 7-2, 6-3.

ADMIT JEFFRIS IS BEATEN

Local Stalwarts Admit "Bob" Will Carry La Crosse County in the Primary

Overcast skies and a dull drizzle brought joy to the hearts of progressives when primary day dawned. "Hatton weather," it was declared to be, and the progressives were awaiting returns from the district around La Crosse with confidence.

"All farmers will be voting today," said Senator Otto Rosshard. "This rain made it impossible to thresh, fill silos or cut tobacco. All of the country precincts will poll a good-sized vote if the rain is general. That means adding thousands of votes to Hatton's total in the state at large."

Vote Light in City

In the city the voting was light until toward noon. By that time hundreds of voters had appeared, and considerable interest was apparent, although it was not believed that the entire voting strength of the community would be out.

Progressives jubilantly predicted the overwhelming nomination of Senator La Follette, and the stalwart headquarters in the W. B. U. building admitted the correctness of the prediction.

"It wasn't for that eight hour law vote in the senate, we might have had a chance," said Harry Watkins, secretary of the stalwart club. "As it is, we claim 300 votes for Jeffris in La Crosse county. Phillips will poll 1,400 in this district."

Watkins predicted the nomination of John C. Gaveney over E. F. Clark of Galesville.

Two County Fights

In the county election, interest chiefly centered in the fights for clerk of court and sheriff nominations on the republican ticket. In the democratic primaries, there is but one contest—between Fred Clark and John Weber for sheriff.

The two four-cornered fights in the republican party, however, indicated a close result. E. H. Deer and George McDonald, of West Salem, were the favorites in the race for the nomination for sheriff, and wise ones predicted a close finish. All four candidates, according to the dopesters, are coming down the stretch in a bunch in the race for clerk of court, and few would venture to guess a winner between Frank H. Aiken, Leonard Kleeber, Harry Denniston and J. George Schweizer.

No Bet Against "Bob"

There has been little betting on the primary, according to the local sporting dopesters. A prominent progressive has had $500 posted on La Follette for several weeks, but was unable to find any takers. No odds are quoted on any of the candidates.

Registration in High School Already Eclipse Attendance at the Close of the School

With the opening of La Crosse schools on Tuesday morning indications were for a larger attendance in both the high school and grammar grades than during the last term. Vacation days came to a close with every grammar room comfortably filled and registrations in the high school already outnumbering the attendance during the winter and spring semester.

F. E. Titt, new principal of the high school, announced at noon on Tuesday that registrations since morning reached one thousand, twenty-five more than the number attending at the close of the last term.

While not being able to give the exact number entering grammar schools on Tuesday B. E. McCormick, superintendent of schools, announced that the attendance was normal, and that prospects pointed to a large number of pupils.

Miss Marie Peterson, visiting nurse of the health department, was at the Redfield school on the first day, on the watch for any indication that infantile paralysis has spread beyond the two cases now isolated. The two cases are in the district from which the Redfield school draws its pupils. Careful observations will be made in all schools in the near future, but the health department is of the opinion that there is no cause for uneasiness.

WOULD GIVE PRESIDENT POWER TO USE ARMS TO PREVENT PREFERENCES

Village of Salem Claims Two Inches Of Bradley's Barn

Bill Bradley, former postmaster of West Salem, is irritated, to put it mildly. The village board of Salem, at its last meeting, served notice on him that he has two inches of the village property, and that the village wants it back.

On the two inches stands a wall of Bradley's big cement barn. Hence Bill's irritation. To give the village the two inches it claims, Bill must chisel two inches from the wall. But Bill hasn't whittled up his chisel. Instead, he visited a lawyer in La Crosse, and the field of action will be the court instead of the alley back of Bill's barn.

The root of the trouble lies in a discrepancy between two surveys of the village. Bradley has had a barn on the debated two inches and adjoining property for twenty-six years. It was built in accordance with the old survey.

A few years ago a new survey, or ran the lines again, and discovered a two-inch error. The village of West Salem adopted his report, and legislated all the lines in the village over two inches. That ran the alley line through the wall of Bradley's barn. Now the village says the alley must be unoccupied, and officially declared the barn a nuisance.

NEIGHBORS TALK REVENGE

John A. Richmond is former chairman of the board of Campbell township. Frank Jolivet is a member of the town board. They were leaders of the campaign which resulted in the closing of several roadhouses. Recently Richmond's farmstead was attacked by a blaze of mysterious origin which destroyed practically his entire harvest, and only spared his home through desperate efforts of Richmond and his neighbors. The loss was $20,000. Another happening of recent date is the mysterious death of seven valuable cows owned by Jolivet, evidently from poison.

From the foregoing circumstances, French Islanders are speculating as to whether the Richmond fire was not of incendiary origin, and the Jolivet cattle not victims of poison administered through human agencies. Opinion goes both ways. The two against whom rumor sees the hand of vengeance reserve their opinions.

Mrs. Jolivet told the TRIBUNE Tuesday that their cattle might have died from eating a poisoned weed. She said that no veterinarian had seen them, and Mr. Jolivet was considerably in the dark as to the cause of their deaths. She added that they had no idea what the weed was that the cattle might have eaten.

Mr. Richmond also was cautious in discussing the rumor.

"Yes, the rumors have reached me that my fire was incendiary," Mr. Richmond told the TRIBUNE. "I have at present no means of proving or disproving this. Several theories have been advanced as to how the fire started, but thus far I have reached no conclusion myself."

SENATE STRIKES TWO MORE BLOWS AT BLACKLIST

BY J. P. YODER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—With allied diplomats in Washington protesting against retaliatory legislation already enacted by congress to offset the British black list, the senate on Tuesday struck two more blows. Amendments adopted to the revenue bill are likely, some officials believe, to result in official objections taking the place of the private, though positive protests against retaliation which certain diplomats here have voiced.

The first act today was passage of Senator Thomas' amendment to the revenue bill empowering the president to retaliate against any belligerent commerce ship that discriminates against American shippers and exporters.

The second was adoption of Senator Phelan's amendment to the same measure refusing rights of the United States mails or the facilities of any interstate express company or of any wireless, telegraph or cable company to the citizens of belligerent countries which discriminate against Americans.

Both amendments explicitly empower the president to take these steps "whenever during existence of war in which the United States is not engaged, the president shall be satisfied there is reasonable ground to believe" belligerent governments have denied all lawful rights to all American citizens.

Violations of both proposed laws are punishable by fines of $10,000 or two years' imprisonment or both. Both admittedly are retaliatory measures against Great Britain's black list and seizure and detention of mails.

Thomas' amendment was drawn with the approval of the state department and the president is empowered by its terms to use "any part of the land and naval forces he deems necessary" to uphold it.

REV. W. J. PEACOCK RESIGNS PASTORATE OF FIRST BAPTISTS

Clergyman Prominent in Church Publicity Campaign Surprises His Parish

The congregation of the First Baptist church was surprised at the conclusion of the services Sunday morning when Rev. William J. Peacock, pastor of the church for the last year, read to them a letter in which he tendered his resignation. The resignation is to take effect on September 30. Rev. Peacock will become student pastor at the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Peacock goes within a few weeks, to be present at the beginning of the university year. He said that he hesitated a long time before accepting the call to the university, because of the shortness of his pastorate here. But representatives of the university visited him here, and officials of the denomination joined their voices to urge him to accept, assuring him that La Crosse would be well taken care of in the shift.

"Ad Man" for Churches

Mr. Peacock was one of the leading pastors of the group which pushing through the highly successful and unique church publicity campaign last fall. He was the "advertising manager" of the campaign, and one of the leaders in the organization of the church union which grew out of the churches' co-operation in the campaign.

Rev. Peacock's letter of resignation follows:

"To the First Baptist Church.

"Dear Friends:

"I have known for some time that from every standpoint of good judgment my pastorate with you must be limited. It is evident that my work in La Crosse seems hardly begun and that your high hopes have not been realized. However, with the grow-

RUMANIANS CHECKED ON BOTH FRONTS IS CLAIM OF BERLIN

Claim Bucharest Forces in Retreat Before Germans and Bulgarians Invading South-east Rumania

By CARL VON ACKERMAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The Rumanians have been checked on both wings of their invasion of Transylvania and are in retreat before German and Bulgarian forces invading south-east Rumania.

Bulgarian forces have captured the Rumanian town of Dobric, twelve miles inside the Rumanian frontier, it was officially announced Tuesday afternoon.

German airships have again bombarded Bucharest.

Dobric is the largest town yet captured by the Germans and Bulgarians in their invasion of Rumania. It has a population of about 15,000 and was in Bulgaria until the last Balkan war when Rumania forced the Bulgars to surrender the Dobrudja territory.

Budapest dispatches on Tuesday reported a halt in the Rumanian advance near Orovoa on the Austrian extreme right wing. After withdrawing to the west bank of Cerna river, the Austrians warded off all Rumanian attacks.

On the southern Transylvania frontier the Rumanians are proceeding with the greatest caution, evidently fearing they will be led into a trap.

Claim Two Towns Captured

SOFIA, Sept. 5.—The Rumanian towns of Kurbunar and Akkadunlar have been captured by the Bulgarian and German forces who have pushed forward ten miles into Rumanian territory in their invasion of the Dobrudja region, it was officially announced Tuesday.

Kurbunar and Akkadunlar lies almost directly south of the Rumanian city of Silistra and about sixty-five miles northwest of the Bulgarian point of Varna.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—Russian troops, which crossed through Rumania, have been in action against the Bulgarians for the first time since the beginning of the war, it was officially announced on Tuesday.

PREMIER OF GREECE BECOMES DICTATOR WAR CLOUD GROWS

CONSTITUTION IS WAIVED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—

Private advices reached official circles in Washington from Athens that it is only a matter of a day or two until Greece enters the war on the side of the allies.

The first step which placed full powers in the hands of the premier was taken when he forbade public gatherings last Wednesday. The arrangement of Friday whereby the issuance of the decree dissolving the new adjourned parliament and calling new elections was postponed definitely, disposed effectually of any parliamentary interference with the policy of the government.

Put Through Quietly

The solution of the political condition which has kept Greece in a condition of wavering neutrality for two years was effected quietly and the public was not aware of the extent to which the constitution of Greece was virtually set aside or of the manner in which power was concentrated in the hands of the premier.

The formation by M. Zaimis of a new ministry in which all parties will be represented is a question of only a few days. Meanwhile the allies are rapidly riding Athens and German agents.

Access to Allies' Demands

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Greek government at Athens has accepted the demands of the entente powers in their entirety and agents of the French and British governments are taking over the control of postal and telegraphic communication.

British and French ministers at Athens presented on Saturday a note to the Greek government demanding control of the posts, telegraph and wireless system on the ground that they were being used by enemies of the entente; demanded that agents of the Teutonic allies employed in corruption and espionage must immediately leave Greece, and that measures be taken against Greek subjects guilty of complicity therein.

SLAVS CONTINUE CARPATHIAN DRIVE CAPITAL REPORTS

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—The Russian advance in the Carpathian woods near the frontier of Hungary continues, it was officially announced Tuesday. More heights have been captured.

In the fighting along the upper Sereth 4,629 prisoners, six cannons, thirty-nine machine guns and a number of bomb throwers have been captured.

Attaboy Winner Of 2-Yard Event For Cockroaches

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Attaboy, pride of Herb Roth's string of racing cockroaches, won the naval rookies' two-yard championship from a field composed of Dal Hawkins' Hammock King, J. W. Bailey's Ditty Box Bill; Herb Reed's Mess Jumper and half a dozen others, advices from U. S. S. Kentucky, off Sandy Hook, said Tuesday.

Roth's mount, a magnificent brute standing three-quarters of an inch high at the withers and weighing not less than ten milligrams, was trained on corrosive sublimate and bichloride of mercury. Unfortunately he never will race again, having ruined the stomach muscles on the pie plot.

Young Junius Morgan is rumored to have bet three cigars on his rough-riding roach Brownie against anything in Roth's string. This promises to be the best of the inter-ship roach races which have attained much popularity among the rookies of the "Naval Plattsburgh" cruise.

PERMANENT QUARTERS FOR COMMERCE CHAMBER IN NEW LAW BUILDING

"Old Man of Mazurian Lakes" Sees Retreat of Germans Before French and British Monday

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg arrived on the western front for the first time since the beginning of the war and is urging his commanders to a more stubborn defense along the Somme, the Echo de Paris stated Tuesday.

The "old man of Mazurian lakes" witnessed the retreat of the German armies under smashing British and French blows in Sunday and Monday's fighting. It was the first great battle in which the Germans have been engaged since Hindenburg was appointed chief of the German general staff.

Since the beginning of the allied offensive on July 1 the French and English have captured twenty-nine villages which the Germans had organized to the highest defensive degree. They have taken about 41,000 prisoners, 150 cannons and several hundred machine guns.

The strongest German counter-attack was delivered north of the Somme between Comblès and Forest. The French had observed preparations for this blow throughout Monday and were fully prepared to meet it. The first men to attack fell under French fire and the survivors were driven back to their trenches.

South of the Somme the Germans made several unsuccessful attacks near Belloy-en-Santerre, the French taking 100 prisoners.

On the northeastern front of Verdun the night was generally calm, the French taking fifty prisoners in local encounters. Southeast of Thiaumont a small German attack failed.

The whole Somme battle front has suddenly burst into activity with furious infantry fighting and some of the most terrific shell blastings since the Anglo-French offensive began. The Germans are fighting desperately but in the past forty-eight hours have been pushed steadily eastward by impetuous French attacks.

The Germans Monday night made several unsuccessful attempts to recapture ground lost to the French on both sides of the Somme in the allied drive on Sunday and Monday, it was officially announced.

General Foch struck south of the Somme Monday while the main body of Teuton reserves was preparing to assist another great blow north of the river.

The French success in this new drive equalled the gains made north of the river on the preceding day. Soyecourt was captured by a storming attack, and extending their gains far to the south the French occupied the village of Chilly. The outskirts of three other villages were seized and about 3,000 prisoners were taken.

While this great battle was going on south of the Somme the Germans continued their preparations for a counter-attack against positions captured by the French and British in Sunday's fighting north of the river. The heaviest German blows are expected to fall in the region of Chaumes where the French gains imperiled German position on a very wide front.

British Claim Gains

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The British pushed 1,500 yards eastward near Guillemont last evening, capturing the village of Falfemont. General Haig reported Tuesday afternoon.

The whole German system of strong defenses at Falfemont is in French hands. The British also gained a footing in the Louree wood, a mile northwest of Comblès.

Since Sunday the whole German second line from Mouquet farm to the point where the British lines link up with the French, a distance of more than seven miles have been captured. General Haig reported. About 1,000 prisoners have been taken.

The fighting is continuing at the village of Ginchy.

CONVENTION HALL AND CIVIC CENTER FEATURE OF PLAN

Board of Directors Accepts the Proposal and Will Lease the Second Floor for Ten Years

BUILDING STARTS AT ONCE

Chamber Will Be in Its New Quarters by First of Year; Building Next to the Elks' Club

Permanent headquarters for the Chamber of Commerce, including executive offices and an auditorium for conventions and meetings of civic bodies, will occupy the second floor of a new building to be constructed by D. S. Law on the property adjoining the Elks' club, to the south, facing on Fifth street. The board of directors of the chamber Monday night accepted Mr. Law's proposition, as reported by the committee on permanent headquarters. Construction will begin Wednesday, it was announced. The chamber will probably be in its commodious new quarters by the first of the year.

Ten Year Lease

The terms under which the agreement was concluded with Mr. Law provide for a ten-year guarantee lease for the chamber of commerce. The organization is to have the entire second floor of the building. It will pay an annual rental of $2,250, which includes the cost of heat.

The building will cost $25,000, according to Mr. Law. He has not yet decided what will be done with the lower floor, and until that is settled, was unable to describe the building. Wells E. Bennett is the architect. Mr. Law intends to rent the lower floor, and is in communication with several parents who are contemplating moving to the city.

The building is to be of fire proof construction, with a frontage of 44 feet on Fifth street, and an average depth of 125 feet. The quarters of the Chamber of Commerce will embrace practically 5,400 feet of floor space.

A convention hall seating from 500 to 700 persons is the most remarkable feature of the tentative plans for the chamber's headquarters. This, it is contemplated, will house all civic bodies, the bureau of the chamber, exhibits of the Art association, etc.

Plan Noon Luncheons

A feature of the program that is conceived by the board of directors, Executive Secretary James R. Kinloe said this morning, is the institution of noon-day luncheons at perhaps fortnightly intervals. To these all the membership and friends would be invited, and prominent speakers, frequently of national fame, would be engaged to make addresses on live topics.

In the tentative plans, a kitchen and serving room is provided, to handle the luncheons. The other space is cut up into the large convention hall.

CASHTON BANDITS BROUGHT TO BOOK AUTHORITIES SAY

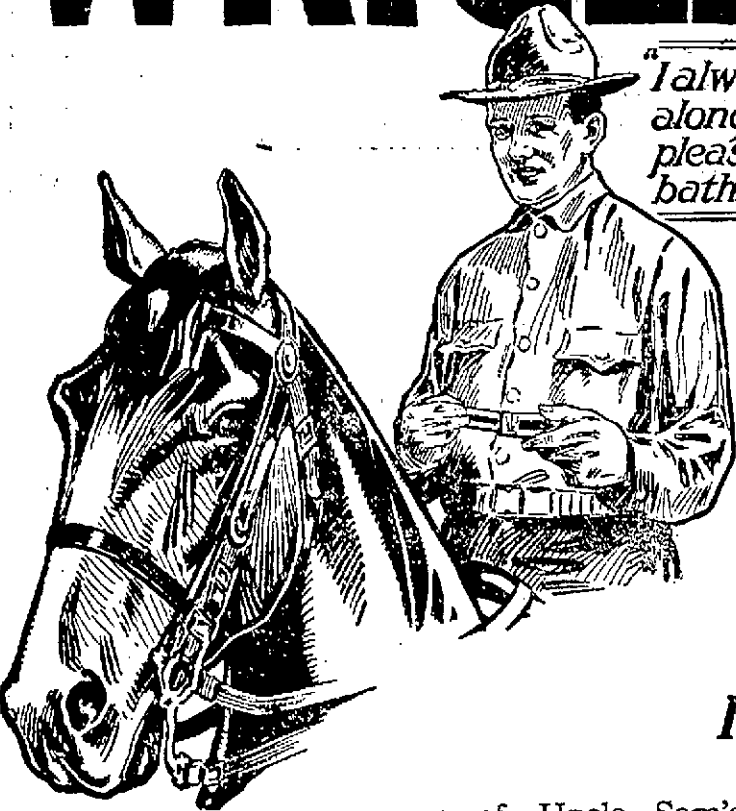

Gang of Auto Thieves That Worked Through This District Rounded Up by United States

Joseph Redmond, alleged to be the fourth member of the automobile gang which robbed postoffices at La Crosse, Minn., Cashton and Oregon, Wis., and the Coffland mercantile store at Richland Center, last June, was arrested last week by Chicago federal officers. He is being held in Chicago at present.

The other members of Redmond's gang are Alex Bunta and two men giving their names as Kellher and Kennedy, arrested through the efforts of Postoffice Inspector J. F. Nicholson and other United States officers. They are being held for the present at Superior.

The thieves secured less than $200 in stamps from the three postoffices. They covered western Wisconsin in an automobile which they drove from Chicago. Several garages were robbed, it has been learned, presumably when the bandit car needed repairs. Redmond, who drove the car, has confessed.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

MARY DOE

BY MARION FRANCIS

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

During the spring vacation, Tom Sherrod took an auto trip along the Hudson. He had intended to spend a day or two at the home of his room-mate, Phil Sharp, but he found on inquiry over the telephone that Phil had left Kingston the evening before for a visit to Brooklyn, so he decided to pass through without stopping.

As he sped up one of the long winding hills leading away from the town, he spied a girl on the road ahead. She was standing disconsolately beside a trim roadster which had evidently misbehaved. Tom threw on his brakes, brought his own car to a standstill and doffed his hat.

"Is there anything I can do?" he asked.

The girl turned to him with a pair of grateful eyes; they were brown eyes which reminded him somehow of some one he had dreamed about, years ago.

"Maybe I can fix it," Tom knew absolutely nothing about the mechanism of a car, but he opened the hood and looked wisely into the complicated engine. He tried the self-starter, but it didn't work. He opened the hood again, touched a nut or two and then tested the starting apparatus. But still there were no results. Finally, he nodded his head as if he knew all about it.

"The differential's busted," he announced. "I'm afraid you'll have to send for a regular mechanic."

"Oh!" She appeared distressed. "That means I'll have to go back to Kingston."

Tom ventured a suggestion. "I was just thinking of going back that way myself," he said. "You might just as well ride with me."

She smiled at him frankly.

"You know you weren't thinking of any such thing," she stated. "But I'm half inclined to accept your invitation."

Tom sprang into the driver's seat. "Come on in," he invited. "It will be perfectly all right, because I know some one who lives in Kingston."

"Oh, you do?" She appeared interested.

"Yes," he continued, as she made no movement to enter the car. "I'm a great friend of Phil Sharp. He's my roommate at college."

She looked surprised.

"Phil Sharp?" she repeated.

"Yes, do you know him?"

She hesitated a moment, and then smiled.

"Never heard of him. Does he live in Kingston?"

"Why, yes," He appeared puzzled. "I thought everybody knew Phil."

"I may have met him," she spoke slowly, as if trying to recall the young gentleman in question. "What does he look like?"

"He has brown hair and brown eyes—" He paused. "Looks something like you, to tell the truth."

The girl shook her head.

"No," she announced, "I don't know him."

"You ought to," Tom spoke enthusiastically. "He's a mighty good looking chap."

"Was that meant for a compliment?" she smiled amusedly.

"Yes, it was," Tom answered truthfully.

The royal palace at Bucharest, and Queen Marie of Roumania as a Red Cross nurse.

The gay life of Roumania's capital has held little charm for Queen Marie since the outbreak of the war. During the past year she has spent much time as a Red Cross nurse, and now that Roumania has entered the war she will probably devote still more time to this cause. Queen Marie is one of the proudest of Europe's royal ladies. She was formerly Princess Marie of Saxe-Coburg. Although her husband is a German, Queen Marie's sympathies are said to have always been with the entente allies.

NEW LUMBER STANDARDS

The work of standardization in all other building materials has developed so thoroughly that contractors have little difficulty in securing just the quality desired in steel, cement, lime, roofing and various other essentials. In structural timber, however, it is as yet difficult to get any positive standards. The Forest Products laboratory has been advocating branding building timber with a special trade mark which shall indicate its quality as thoroughly as does the trade mark on other building supplies. The American Lumberman's association is co-operating in this movement and now several of the larger lumber mills in the country are securing trade marks for their different products, which shall be absolutely indicative of their quality.

There's plenty of room at the top, because nearly everybody wants to be in on the ground floor.

Food for thought only give some people mental indigestion—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GOOD IDEA FOR MERCHANTS' BUREAU

Of course good roads—the building of which under state aid will be resumed as soon as the Philipp administration is disposed of—of course good roads are the most practical agencies for destroying the mail-order nuisance. In time good roads and automobiles will destroy their pernicious tendency to drain the local communities and build up the big centers.

But James Sloan, a McGregor merchant, doesn't believe in watchful waiting. He's a youngster in business, a gentleman of originality and initiative. You shall read of the Sloan drive against the mail order outfit.

Sloan offered a silk dress as a prize to be given to that woman in his trade field who shall bring to him the greatest number of mail order house catalogues, of 200 or more pages, each a complete volume.

This thing should swing round the entire United States. It should create a catalogue bonfire in every community. For if we collect and burn the catalogues, there's an end on 't.

Mr. Sloan is acting alone. Why can't a powerful organization like the merchants' bureau of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce work out this idea on a larger scale? If in every merchant's advertisement there were placed an offer by the bureau, either of a prize, or a set price, the country could be cleaned of mail order catalogues, and once cleaned, they could be steadily collected from month to month. Mr. Sloan has a real idea—think it over.

In a city of 50,000 the theater is an institution like the street cars, the newspapers and the railroads. It is a public utility. Just exactly as a street railway can not be run on a public-be-damned policy, a theatrical season can not be ruined to suit the tastes of a manager. In the opinion of some students, the theater in such a city exercises a greater force on the spirit and conscience of the place than the churches and the schools, and it is for that reason that the public has a right to a place in determining the policy of its chief place of amusement.

La Crosse hopes to be a city of 50,000. With the renovation of its playhouse under the direction of Manager Koppelberger, it has an opportunity to consider earnestly the place of the theater in a city of 50,000. It must recognize that the first essential is a clean and artistic theater, and this Mr. Koppelberger has provided. It must recognize that really good actors will refuse to return to damp, dirty dressing rooms, inadequate stage facilities, poor lighting, and dirt. All these Mr. Koppelberger has taken care of. It must further recognize that in the long run it pays a city to be recognized as a theatrical town, a town in which really good attractions find it profitable to stop. In fact, Mr. Koppelberger has provided everything he could possibly provide except one thing. He can not provide an audience.

Now if the public in a city of 50,000 has a right to a voice in determining what shall be the place and policy of its theater, it has also certain responsibilities. It has the right to reject cheap shows, but it also has the duty of patronizing good ones. Despite the loud talk of some disgruntled critic, no manager likes to pander deliberately to the lowest common denominator in his public. He wants to bring good actors and good attractions to his place of business because it pays him better in the long run. Obviously, Sothern is a more reliable business man than a fly-by-night company in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The public has therefore the duty of patronizing the plays it has a right to demand. Now, like good cooking, good music, good books and good business, good drama requires some education, some advance information, some knowledge of the state of things in the theatrical world, exactly as the successful management of a plow company demands some knowledge of affairs in the steel world. There exists in La Crosse a body whose business it is to take charge of the education of the audience.

The Drama League will miss its greatest opportunity to do a real service if it does not immediately get in touch with Mr. Koppelberger and prepare to campaign actively in behalf of the policy he announces. The business of the Drama League is not to read books about plays at afternoon teas; the business of the Drama League is to assure their theater a profitable hearing when it brings "The Blue Paradise" or "Androcles and the Lion" to La Crosse.

We class the two together deliberately. Complaint is made in some cities that the Drama League tends to a moribund, high-browism, preferring Ibsen and Maeterlinck dilute to actual attendance on "The Pink Lady." That charge can not be brought against the Drama League in La Crosse, but like every other organization of its kind, it is likely to make its field too narrow; to center its appeal for attendance upon plays pitched too far above the general average of receptivity, and to neglect productions, especially in musical comedy, which are clean, entertaining, but not always "significant" or "uplifting." The Drama League must consider that all the citizens of a town of 50,000 do not possess the dramatic likings of Orchard Court. But more important, the Drama League must recognize its one opportunity to co-operate with Manager Koppelberger in making La Crosse a theatrical city of the highest class.

TELL HIM SO
If a friend of yours does well,
Tell him so.
Don't raise a jealous yell—
Tell him so.
He'll be glad to know you're glad,
Glad it doesn't make you sad.
Pinest fun you ever had—
Tell him so.

If you like your brother's work,
Tell him so.
Drive away the doubts that lurk—
Tell him so.
He may feel that he has failed,
By grim doubt may be assailed.
By your word he'll be regaled—
Tell him so.

If you think his work is puny,
Tell him so.
It will rouse his fighting spunk—
Tell him so.
Tell him he is in a rut,
He'll just think you are a nut.
He'll knock your block off! But
Tell him so.

—Strickland W. Gilliland.

A Hero to His Wife.
"A man who is happily married has an enthusiastic audience of one, and that ain't so bad," says old Uncle Pennywise.

Many a man sets himself up as a hero because he has no valet.

Consistency
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "did you forget to bring the things I told you to bring from the store?"

"No. This is one time I carried out instructions to the letter. Here's the whole bundle."

"Oh, I'm so sorry. I've changed my mind about wanting them. I was sure you'd forget, as usual. It's so hard to depend on a man!"—Washington.

Toeing the Mark
During the course of a trying campaign a somewhat eccentric colonel was seized with a sudden ardor about hygiene, and one morning he peremptorily ordered that all the men in his regiment should change their shirts. The order was duly carried out except in the case of one company, where the privates' wardrobes had been pitifully depleted. But the company sergeant, who knew the state of affairs, rose to the occasion. "Orders must be obeyed!" he said. "Let the men change shirts with one another."

Favors Anticipated
The minister's daughter was entertaining several of her father's small parishioners.

"Will you have more cake, Polly?" she said.

"No, thank you, miss. I'm full," said truthful Polly.

"Then I think you may put some in your pockets."

"They're full, too, miss," said Polly.

Matter of Sentiment
"What makes you go in through the kitchen?"

"I don't know our servants very well," replied Mr. Cumroox. "Some way, the front hall seems kind of formal and distant. Around at the kitchen steps they've got an old door mat with 'Welcome' on it."

THE TRIBUNE'S
DAILY
TRAVELETTE
(By Nilsen)

AN ARAB TRIBE
They have their name, and their territory specially allotted to them by the French government, each of these little clans that wanders in the Little Sahara, but each tribe is exactly like the last, and the dry sand and rocky hillocks that shelter their tents differ no more from one section to the next than one square mile of ocean differs from another.

You come upon them at evening, when the smoke from the cooking fires in the doorways of the tents ascends straight and thin and pale to the desert sky. The tents are low and shapeless, or rather shaped with an intricacy that defies description, full of queer angles and unexpected hollows. They are pitched like the gypsy tents in English by-roads, by draping the cloth cunningly around the poles. They look much like a gypsy encampment, and in fact the campcraft of the gypsies probably goes back to the same source whence the craft of these African Arabs is derived.

But the camp has an air of permanence most un-gypsylike. It is in truth hardly a camp at all, but a village, a city—as near a city as these nomads of the barren open ever build. About some of the tents are strong brush enclosures that serve to give privacy to the family, and on occasion, as pens for sheep and cattle. Back among the rocky hills there are here and there little patches of cultivated land where a little corn is grown. But the Arab's hold on the soil is light. Next year you may pass that way and find that some change in the winds and the drifting sands, or the blind restlessness of the tribe alone, has moved them on. The tents are gone, the corn is dead and drifted over, and no man can say where the village stood.

Meantime they live quietly, a life of the last simplicity, an existence reduced to its lowest terms. A little tilling of the soil, a little tending of the herds, prayer and talk, grave and decorous family life, an occasional quarrel that ends in the spilling of blood, with fines are laid down by the Prophet—their long days are as bare of superfluous detail as the endless plain or the steely cloudless sky.

THE END.

Proved His Point
The old Scotch professor trying to impress upon his students the value of observation.

"No," he complained, "ye dinna use your faculties of observation. Ye dinna use 'em. For instance—"

Picking up a pot of chemicals of horrible odor, he stuck his finger in it, and then into his mouth.

"Taste it, gentlemen," he commanded, as he passed the pot from student to student.

After each had licked a finger and had felt a rebellion through his whole soul, the old professor laughed in triumph.

"I told ye so!" he shouted. "Ye dinna use your faculties of observation! For if ye had observed ye would have seen that the finger which I stuck into the pot was na the finger which I stuck into my mouth!"

How Could She Tell?
The telephone rang and the new Polish maid answered it.

"Hello!" came from the receiver.

"Hello!" answered the girl, flushed with the pride of a new language.

"Who is this?" again came the voice.

The great principle of all effort is to endeavor to do, not what is absolutely best, but what is easily within our power and adapted to our temper and condition."—John Ruskin.

"KISS ME"

said Ruth to the startled and alarmed Carter when they returned from the Charity Ball—

Now Carter was her guardian and had promised Ruth's father to raise her as his child. But Carter was human and Ruth was simply ravishing that memorable evening. Carter hesitated, wavered—was about to sternly order her to her room when
two warm, impulsive arms slipped suddenly about his neck, and, as we
said, Carter was human—!

JUNEAU FAIR IS UNDER WAY WITH RUSH AT MAUSTON

Good Racing Is Promised and
Attractions Are Clever; the Grounds Are Lighted with
"Juice" for Night Fair

MAUSTON, Wis.—(Special.)—

Tuesday was the opening day of the Juncos County fair. The grounds are excellent and hold many concessions. Heth's United Shows are furnishing the attractions and entertainment. There will be good racing and at least four ball games.

Carloads of blooded stock and horses have arrived. From all prospects it is said that with the good racing, attractions and exhibits that this will be one of the best of county
fairs. The fair will be a good clean
one. Ample fire and police protection will be one of the great essentials toward making it a success.

It will be a day and night fair. The grounds have been wired and it will be electrically lighted. Crowds of
out-of-town folk are pouring in here
already. The association expects to live up to a promise of a grand time
for all.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—
Just what circumstances caused Captain William J. Maxwell, governor of Guam, to be removed by a subordinate,
Lieut.-Commander William P.
Cronan, and to be sent to the naval hospital in Washington, the navy department intends to learn. Captain
William B. Shoemaker is here awaiting a steamer to take him to Guam
where he can make a detailed inquiry.

Cronan's action followed immediately his arrival in Guam where he was sent following alleged departmental dissension. His friends say that he found the governor in ill-health and took the action to meet
the emergency.

Cronan temporarily appointed Captain C. Smith as governor.

WELL LAID PLOT IN EDISON FILM

"The Innocence of Ruth," a five-
reel Edison photodrama released
through Kleine-Edison Feature service, will be shown at Majestic theater today and Wednesday.

There is a strong, well-laid plot,
a smoothly told and extremely interesting story and a finished picture
in this Kleine-Edison production that cannot help but please. The story deals chiefly with life in Greater New York, and brings out incidents in
Wall street, a millionaire's home,
and other "side lights" on life in the Metropolis. A very brief synopsis of
"The Innocence of Ruth" follows:

Jimmy Carter, a young millionaire, gets a message from his friend, Reginald Travers. Travers, who is dying, has been ruined by Mortimer
Reynolds, and he leaves his daughter
in care of Carter who takes
Ruth home and gives her to the care of his housekeeper. Reynolds, anxious to add Ruth to his list of unfortunate, instructs his mistress, Edna Morris, to gain her confidence.

At the Charity Ball, Ruth meets
Edna Morris, and the girl works
her way into the graces of Ruth. Carter finds her in the apartment, stupe-
fied and disheveled. Heart sore, he looks upon her contemptuously and
leaves, feeling that she has gone the way of Edna. Edna's mother comes to the house from the country, and takes both penitents home with her,
hoping that they may forget.

Miserable because Carter has mistaken her, Ruth can find no peace.
But Edna, who dragged her to degradation, succeeds in lifting her to the light of hope, and Ruth is again
folded in the arms of Carter.

yon, author of "Kindling," and given its premiere at the 48th Street theater, New York, where the newspa-

extraordinary plays of modern times,
with a strong and appealing moral;
all in all, one of the few domestic dramas which met the undivided approval of the metropolitan newspaper
critics. Staged under William A.
Brady's supervision, it has now been made into a motion picture also under Mr. Brady's critical eye, and will
Wednesday, this week. This picture
marks the first of the Brady all-star
casts, which includes Ethel Clayton,
Holbrook Blinn, Emmett Corrigan,
Gerda Holmes, Montagu Love, Dion
Titheredge and Little Madge Evans.

sota, to do work for the Milwaukee company on the H. & D. division. The new road built here by Mr. O'Malley is one of the best in the section, on a higher grade than the old one, and many of the curves have been straightened out. The Milwaukee company has put in a fine road for the county at a saving of nearly $3-000 to Clayton county.

Strike Threat Felt

For the first Sunday in years, not
a stock train arrived at this terminal Sunday, Sept. 3. This was due to the threatened strike. This point is a busy day in the railroad yards Sundays, as there are usually from four to six stock trains in here, with from twenty-five to forty-five cars of stock, enroute to the Chicago markets. From this point the stock
trains are taken to Savanna by what is known as the "White Line," making passenger train time to get the stock to the Monday Chicago markets.

Extension Progresses

The yard extension work is progressing steadily, and the filling is going on for the new tracks, which will add many more tracks to the yards. The old yards were too small for the amount of business handled
here, and at times the company side
tracks across the river at Prairie du Chien were used when business was excessively heavy. With the new addition to the yards, the North Mc-Gregor terminal will have abundant
room for any emergency.

PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH HIS RECEPTION

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ON BOARD THE PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL, HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 5.—"These have been the finest receptions I have ever received," President Wilson characterized his trip through West Virginia and Kentucky.

The president evidently was delighted at the enthusiasm with which he was received—even when late at night there was nothing for small town crowds to cheer but the darkened private car.

The president's journey into Kentucky while characterized as non-political, has proved gratifying to his political aides.

Thursday night the president left for Atlantic City, where he will address the convention of the National Woman's Suffrage association.

"Kleptomaniac."

Kleptomaniac, or the impulse to steal, is a controverted obsession, especially when a poor person yields to the desire, for, of course, there would be an end to all jailing for such delinquencies were the admission made too generally of mental irresponsibility when things are absent-mindedly appropriated. But when the appropriation is well off and the article "swiped" is absurd the veritability of kleptomaniac may be admitted medicolegally, so that it becomes a luxury denied to poverty, just as the difference between inebriety and drunkenness is a matter of cash.—Exchange.

HUGHES FIGHTS BACK AND "PACKED" CROWD CHEERS HIS SPIRIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5.—Republican Nominee Charles E. Hughes was a different person than the man who a little over four weeks ago started off on a transcontinental campaign trip. Probably no public speaker, let alone a presidential candidate, ever underwent such an experience as Hughes did at the Ryman auditorium in Nashville Monday night. He faced an audience that "packed" against him and distinctly unfavorable to his views. The crowd started a wild demonstration. They hissed the G. O. P. nominee. Hughes, fighting mad at the insult which he considered had been given Mrs. Hughes, who was present on the platform with him, simply struck out straight from the shoulder and rained home his bitter criticism of the democratic administration with a new line of hot shot. He riddled the strike settlement recently achieved by President Wilson and had the satisfaction of hearing cheers and applause from the southerners for his fighting spirit and his determination to fight it out.

It became known Tuesday that the nominee is planning to address men of the Plattsburgh, N. Y., camp, if this can be arranged.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF ROADS IS COMING GARRETSON AVERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Government ownership of railroads and other public utilities is coming, in the opinion of A. B. Garretson, leader of the four railroad brotherhoods' fight for an eight-hour day. Avoidance of a national rail strike, through strong governmental interference, he believes, is only one of a series of steps toward such an end.

WILCOX SAYS WEST IS STRONG FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Chairman William R. Wilcox of the republican national committee returned Tuesday from a western trip, full of enthusiasm.

"I have found that the middle west is going strong for Hughes and on every hand I heard most encouraging reports regarding the success of the candidate's trip," said Wilcox. "As to the reports that the trip had not been all that Mr. Hughes wanted it to be, the candidate does not know where these reports come from, but he feels highly pleased with the reception he has met with."

FATHER SLUYTER LEFT $1,000 TO HOME FOR K. C.

Announcement Is Made of Disposition of the Late Priest's Estate

One thousand dollars, the bequest of the late Rev. Gerhard Sluyter, pastor of St. Joseph Cathedral here, was presented to the local lodge of the Knights of Columbus at the annual business meeting and election of officers, held Monday night.

According to the will of Father Sluyter, the money is to be used towards erecting a lodge building for the Knights of Columbus in La Crosse, for which $7,000 had already been raised.

Father Sluyter's entire estate was left to Mgr. A. H. Kremer of Genoa, Wis., vicar general of the diocese, and directions were given him as to how Father Sluyter wanted the estate dispersed. The sum of $500 was left to the Catholic Benevolent society of La Crosse. Small sums of money were left other Catholic organizations, and certain sums were bequeathed to relatives in Germany.

Father Sluyter's bequest has given an impetus to the movement for a Knights of Columbus building in La Crosse. Attorney A. H. Schuchert said on Tuesday. The local lodge proposes to erect a structure to cost about $60,000. Plans for a campaign for raising a building fund will be started soon, it is believed. The building will be similar in purpose to that of the Y. M. C. A. Young men not members of the Knights of Columbus, will be admitted for a membership fee.

Joseph M. LaVague was elected grand knight to succeed Edward J. Steinmetz, who has held the office for two years. Others elected were Professor E. Butler, deputy grand knight; Professor A. J. Engelhardt, chancellor; William McMillen, wardens; John Dangler, trustee; and William J. Rossiter, financial secretary.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS COULDN'T SUPPORT THE LOAD GIGI HAD

ROME, August 14, by mail.—The wooden legs that Charles Swain of Indiana, salesman for a Washington, D. C., artificial limb house, brought to Italy, created all kinds of trouble for Gigi, an Italian soldier whose legs were shot off in the Trentino. Swain took a sample pair of legs to the Mirafiori hospital, planning to demonstrate their worth and then sell a car load of them to the Italian government. He hooked the pair onto Gigi who pounded around for an hour before he got the knack of artificial walking and then started on a tour of the hospital.

After Swain had finished conferring with the hospital heads, he looked about for Gigi. He was gone and so were the legs. Soldiers were sent out to search for him. They scoured the neighborhood but night came on and Gigi and the expensive artificial legs were still missing.

Next morning when the hospital gates were opened a dirty bundle of rags was discovered lying in a heap on the road. It was Gigi. He had toured all the neighboring wine shops. The best pair of artificial legs in the world could not support the load Gigi brought back.

TALES OF GILDED DEPRAVITY TOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The searching rays of Assistant District Attorney Smith's white slave investigation are being turned into the homes of men of wealth and position to probe a story of viciousness going on in New York under the cover of society.

A man well-known in social circles at fashionable resorts told Prosecutor Smith an amazing tale of gilded depravity. He admitted, Smith said, he received large sums from men of wealth for furnishing women for their gay parties. He told of at least ten houses maintained in the best districts of Manhattan patronized solely by men of wealth.

MORRISON DECLARES FORMER ATTORNEY HAS $150,000 OF HIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Edward W. Morrison, 80-year-old millionaire, exploded a bomb-shell in the camp of James Ward, formerly his attorney Tuesday, when he testified in bankruptcy proceedings in federal court that Ward had $150,000 worth of his property.

"And I don't know how he got it," said Morrison.

Morrison told Federal Judge Landis that the property was his, and had nothing to do with that left him by his father whose will decreed that in case the son died without children the estate should go to the city to build a public school.

Zeppelin Sailors Are Buried Machinery May Be Used

BY HAY O'FLAHERTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Sept. 5.—Eighteen charred and crushed corpses, the bodies of the German Zeppelin sailors who came crashing to earth from a mile above London in Sunday morning's great raid, were buried near Cuffley Monday.

They were the first Germans to die in action on English soil since the war began. One of them wore an iron cross. An inquest will be held later.

Experts attached to the royal flying corps continue to dig in the ruins of the destroyed Zeppelin for bits of machinery that will assist them in reconstructing a dirigible. Much of the machinery was found only slightly damaged. The Zeppelin's clock was practically as good as new. It had stopped at 3:10, the hour when an English shell went bursting through the great bag.

Thousands of Londoners poured out to Cuffley to see the pile of debris they had watched tumbling down from the sky Sunday morning. The streets and house-tops were crowded while the raid was in progress. General French's official report at midnight that a raid was in progress called out the London constabulary and within a few minutes word that a great fleet of air ships had invaded England had spread throughout the city.

It was 2 a. m. before the London crowds got their first thrill. A single anti-aircraft gun suddenly boomed off somewhere, announcing the arrival of a Zeppelin. The booming became epidemic, spreading all over London. Sharp explosions, evidently of bombs hurled down by the Zeppelins, were heard far in the distance.

Daughter And Mother War For Key to Fortune

Because she maintains that her mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Reinartz, 66 years old, a resident of North La Crosse, is a "spend-thrift" and is incompetent to take care of money, Mrs. Lizzy Martell, a daughter, is petitioning county court to appoint a guardian for her. The case came up on Tuesday and was adjourned until September 18.

Mrs. Reinartz, it is said, possesses the sum of $375, which is locked up in a safety deposit vault in a local bank. Mrs. Martell is alleged to possess the key to the box, which she refuses to turn over to her mother.

Simultaneously with the action brought by the daughter, the mother started a replevin action to secure the safety box key.

CABBAGES AND STRAWBERRIES HEARING TOPIC

I. C. C. Examiner to Hear Local Objection to the Rates from Points South

"The time has come," I. C. C. said, "to talk of many things; 'Of north bound rates on cabbages, Of strawberries and things."

After exonerating the interstate commerce commission of the above offense against good taste and Lewis Carroll, the traffic bureau, formerly known as the shippers' association, Tuesday announced that cabbages and strawberries will be the subjects of discussion before the interstate commerce commission's Examiner Waters in the federal court building here Saturday.

On behalf of commission men in the city the traffic bureau has objected to the rates from southern points to La Crosse on strawberries and cabbages. It is pointed out that the through rate is more than the combination of locals on St. Louis—in other words, that the sum of rates from the point of shipment to St. Louis and from St. Louis to La Crosse, is more than the through rate. This the local objectors assert is a violation of the "long and short haul" clause of the law. They ask a reduction of the through rate.

tion hall, the offices of the executive secretary and his staff, quarters for the traffic bureau, and committee rooms.

"We plan to make this a civic center for all community activities," said Secretary Kinsloe, discussing the plans this morning. "The hall will be open for gatherings of every kind. When we go after a convention, we will have a place to offer them for meetings. When we give our luncheons, we will have a place to hold them. We will have a place for our bureau meetings. All of these things demanded that we have commodious quarters of our own."

"We would not have secured quarters to meet our needs for less than $1,500. The $750 more that we pay for these new rooms, built to our order, is a bonus through which the city is provided with a meeting place for every kind of civic enterprise."

Big Speakers Due

The committee on permanent headquarters, which worked out the proposal with Mr. Law, consisted of L. C. Colman, chairman; George H. Gordon, G. Van Steenwyk, E. M. Wing and C. F. Michel. They investigated a number of proposals of all kinds. Their recommendation to the board of directors was as follows:

"The committee is of the opinion that the proposition made by Mr. Law is far superior to any of the others for the reason that it affords sufficient office room, and by the use of movable partitions the chamber for an auditorium for the use of conventions and meetings of all local and civic and public welfare organizations. Mr. Law also offers to furnish skylights where needed. In view of the above, the committee unanimously recommends the acceptance of Mr. Law's proposition."

To Design Quarters

Pencil sketches were submitted of the proposed plans for the new quarters, and several changes were suggested. A building committee was also appointed by President F. P. Hixon, which will settle the design of the chamber's new home, in conjunction with Mr. Law and his architect. That committee consists of L. C. Colman, Prof. D. O. Coate, G. Van Steenwyk and Secretary Kinsloe.

A big red blot on her right arm began Nellie Jane's troubles. It appeared a week ago Saturday. In the next few days Nellie Jane had repeated spasms, a high fever, and other dangerous symptoms. Last Friday her parents had almost given up hope. The little girl began to improve.

Nellie Jane is now believed to be out of danger.

INDIANS HELD TO A STANDSTILL BY PITCHER COPSEY

Poor Base Running Defeats Locals in Game Labor Day with Redskins from Nebraska

Delivering all the goods in his big league makeup, Fay Copsey, star pitcher of the Athletics, held the Nebraska Indians to six hits and one run on Monday. The Athletics didn't win—they tied the score, but the Redskins were held to a standstill. The game was called after the tenth to allow the Indians to make a train.

A bit of hard luck prevented the Athletics from winning. With the score tied in the eighth and with the bases full and one out, Weiss sent a long fly to left for an out. Copsey came in from third after the ball was caught, but Robare took too big a lead on second and was caught for the third out, Copsey's run not counting.

There was no scoring until the sixth, when Hugg of the Indians scored on a double and a bounder over second. The Athletics came back in the seventh for a run on Tanke's triple and a passed ball.

The game was the last for the Indians.

Blair, with Al Toraason in the box, will be at league park Sunday with the Athletics. Each team has been defeated once this year at the hands of the other.

CHANEY'S HOPES GO GLIMMERING IN THIRD FRAME

CEDAR RAPIDS, O., Sept. 5.—In less than eight minutes of actual fighting on Monday, Johnny Kibane of Cleveland spoiled the hopes of George Chaney of Baltimore for the world's featherweight championship. A terrific right smash to Chaney's jaw settled the battle near the end of the third round.

AITKEN WINS ANDERSON HURT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—J. D. Aitken, piloting a Peugeot, won the 300-mile automobile race at the Cincinnati Motor Speedway Monday afternoon. His time was 3:57 221-00, an average of 97.3 miles per hour. Wilbur d'Alene, in a Deussenberg was second and O. Galvin, driving a Sunbeam was third.

Gil Anderson, in a Stutz, skidded on the home stretch after completing more than half of the distance and crashed into a fence. Anderson sustained a broken leg and arm. His condition is not critical. His mechanic, Bert Shields of Indianapolis sustained probably fatal injuries.

WELSH KEEPS HIS TITLE IN COMEDY FIGHT WITH WHITE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 5.—Freddie Welsh retained his title of champion lightweight pugilist of the world Monday after going the full scheduled twenty rounds with challenger Charley White of Chicago. Referee Billy Roche of New York awarded Welsh the decision on points.

As the gong sounded at the close of the twentieth round, Roche stood for several moments as if undecided. He then reached both hands toward the boxers and many of the spectators believed he was about to award a draw. Suddenly Welsh rushed over to Roche and placed his glove in the referee's hand and it was raised aloft, while the official appeared to be reaching for White.

The next instant jubilant friends of the champion swarmed into the ring. When Referee Roche announced his decision in favor of Welsh, the challenger's adherents appeared for the moment spellbound. Then began a fusillade of hundreds of cushions at the referee. He was rushed by friends to a waiting automobile. An unfortunate accident and unpleasant incident marred the beginning and end of the day's program. Shortly before 2 o'clock a portion of the bleachers on the south side of the arena collapsed. More than a hundred persons were more or less seriously injured.

From a spectacular standpoint, the battle was considered one of the poorest that has ever been fought for the highest ring honors in the lightweight division. For fully two-thirds of the time the fighters were locked in a succession of clinches and pushing each other back and forth about the ring. For this, many spectators held Welsh was largely to blame.

Make Poor Showing

Scarcely a blow was struck by either man that did any damage. White's punches carried the greater punitive power, while frequently Welsh was on the aggressive and did his share of the leading it was noticeable that many of his blows fell short and failed to reach their mark. Roche stated after the fight that he awarded Welsh the decision for the reason that he did most of the leading.

JOHNNY ERTLE LOSES

A PURE ELECTION

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5.—In the record of the last few days of the session of the historic sixty-fourth congress, among the measures that were valiantly pushed to the fore again and again by their sponsors when press of business and shortage of time threatened to crowd them off the calendar, a measure with a title half a column long will go down to posterity as one of the chief. For purposes of every-day nomenclature this bill is known around the capitol as "Corrupt Practices," and its object and mission is to do away with all taint of corruption in elections. If this bill becomes law or when it becomes law, as its supporters prefer to state it will put our elections on a new basis of financial publicity. There are really two corrupt practices bills, one of which, drawn and introduced by Mr. Rucker of Missouri, passed the house some time ago. The senate bill, which is the one occupying the center of the stage at the moment, was introduced by Senator Owen of Oklahoma. When the house bill came to the senate, the committee to which it was referred struck out all of it, and substituted the Owen bill as a sweeping amendment, so that while it is being said that the bill which passed the house is up before the senate, it is really quite another measure. Should the senate pass it, it will have to go back to the house again, and apparently there will be warm discussion before the conference decided what the bill shall eventually look like.

The Owen bill provides that in order to get in the game of national politics you must do it according to rule. If you are going to spend any money in a way that will influence the result of an election, directly or indirectly, you must organize into a political committee. Any organization of five or more members, except corporations organized for profit, may constitute itself a political committee by drawing up a resolution to that effect and sending a copy of it to the chief clerk of the house of representatives. The committee has to come out in the open in this resolution, and state fully and in detail the candidate or candidates it is going to try and help elect. Thus prompted by the zealous committee, the chief clerk will come back at them with a normal certificate constituting them a recognized political committee, and they are free to go ahead and electioneer within the limits set down by other sections of the bill.

If a man of political tastes happens to be also unsocial and non-gregarious by nature, he is not forced to affiliate with any committee in order to work. He can go ahead and work by himself, but he becomes in effect a committee of one. He is bound, as the committee is bound, to report all the money he spends and just how he spends it, should his expenditures exceed $50. If he wants to confine himself to $49.99 he is at liberty to proceed without supervision.

The troubles of the committee only begin with the obtaining of the certificate, however. Armed with that, they can set to work, but they must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep strict account of everything they spend. They must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep a bank account. He must keep a complete record of receipts and expenditures. He must carefully save all his receipts. If any other member of the committee collects anything he must forthwith report said collection to the treasurer, who makes a record of it. His record must show how much each contributor contributes, and where he lives. When the records are complete they are to be sent to Washington and preserved, open to the inspection of one who cares to read. The name and address of each person who gives more than $100 is set down individually. If your contribution is more modest, you are lumped ignominiously with the rest of the pickers. But the contributions and the contribu-

Section nine of the bill contains tors are made a matter of public record.

The most radical innovation of all, as some critics see it. This section heartlessly provides that no man, be he who he may, shall contribute more than $5,000 toward a campaign to influence the result of any election. The original house bill did not set any limit on the amount one man might contribute; and it has been pointed out that $5,000 is less to some men than $5 to others, and that a rich and public spirited citizen may want to contribute $10,000 toward the expenses of a particular campaign, and thereby relieve some of his poorer fellow citizens of carrying the burden; yet his motives and methods may be impeccable. However, there is section nine, doubtless a fruitful field for conference controversy.

In presidential campaigns, the bill provides that no more than $40,000 may be spent by any national committee. Not more than $50,000 may be spent in trying to secure the nomination of a candidate for the presidency, and the vice presidency goes at half price with a $25,000 limit. Also, no committee may spend anything to secure the nomination of a candidate without his knowledge and consent. So the candidate can not plead that his good friends have been spending their substance on him unbeknownst.

Candidates for the offices of senator and representative must content themselves with spending the modest sums of $5,000 and $2,500 respectively on their campaigns. Personal expenses and advertising are not included in these sums, however. The candidate is charged with the responsibility of keeping disbursements within the limit, and has to make a detailed report to the house for which he is running. Particularly stringent, and the object of some unfavorable comment, is the provision that in case the aggregate of disbursements exceeds the amount permitted under the act, with the knowledge and consent of the candidate, the aspirant is guilty ty of a felony and liable to fine and imprisonment.

Having cut down the cash expenditures to the necessities of campaigning, the bill proceeds to take a swipe at election promises of the personal sort. Every candidate has to make a complete report stating every promise or pledge he has made to anybody, contingent on the result of the election. Candidates for senator or representative are forbidden to promise anybody a government job, or support in securing one.

In order that there shall be no doubt in anybody's mind as to just what campaign money may be spent for, the bill lists nine items which are the only ones on which cash may be expended. They include only the necessities of a campaign life, such as traveling expenses, advertising and rent.

Debate on the bill in the senate grew warm once or twice. The general tendency of our higher legislators, was to state that while such a measure was almost or quite unnecessary in their own respective states, there were other states where it might do a great deal of good. As Mr. Vandaman pointed out, the suspicions entertained about other men's states were perhaps in themselves an indication of the necessity for legislation.

There seems to be a considerable unanimity of opinion to the effect that a corrupt practices act of some sort would be a good thing, and that the present legislation governing the expenditures of money in campaigns is inadequate. The house bill, which was passed by that body by a large majority, was rather more simple than the senate bill in its outlines, though its provisions are much to the same effect. It seems probable that a conference committee of the two houses would be able to arrive at an amended measure satisfactory to both without much difficulty. One of the chief fundamental differences between the two bills is the fact that the house bill does not limit the amount of an individual contribution.

at this session. It is the sort of a measure that is hard for any legislator to oppose in and for itself without putting himself in rather an awkward position. There is little doubt that a bill substantially along these lines will be passed either at this session or the next, and campaigning will be something of a changed science in consequence.

NEGRO TROOPERS IN SECOND RIOT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 5.—Military authorities on Tuesday were investigating the second riot in which members of the Eighth Illinois (Negro) infantry have participated since being stationed here.

Fifty Negro militiamen are in the guard-house here as the result of trouble that followed the arrest of one of their number by a city policeman. More than 100 of the Negroes gathered about the officer and his prisoner and serious trouble appeared imminent until the provost guard arrived and arrested about half of the guardsmen.

The longer the engagement the shorter the married life.

ARE MEDICINES LIQUORS?

A certain class of prejudiced and jealous doctors call patent medicines only alcoholic beverages. They will tell you that such and such a medicine contains as much alcohol as a glass of beer, or a certain quantity of whiskey; but they do not mention that the beer or whiskey is swallowed at one draught, while only a small quantity of the medicine is taken at one dose. At the same time they will use alcohol quite as freely and many in four or five times as great proportions in their own prescriptions.

Such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound use barely enough alcohol to preserve the root and herb extracts, too little to have injurious effects; and the medicine can be had, if desired, in a non-alcoholic form.

NEBRASKA INDIANS BEAT BLOOMINGTON IN A HARD MATCH

BLOOMINGTON, Wis.—(Special.)—One of the best games of ball ever staged in this part of the state was played here Saturday between the home team and the Nebraska Indians.

The local team, braced up with Elmer Dye of West Union in the box, and Ray Harvey of Montana, formerly of Galtburg, Iowa, at shortstop, not a score was made for twelve innings. Each side made one in the thirteenth, Jay Martin of the locals batting out a great home run.

Nobody scored in the fourteenth but the visiting team got a start and made three in the fifteenth. The final score was 4 to 1, in favor of the Indians.

The Indians, who have been out all season and played all over the country, said it was the longest and hardest game they have played. Dye pitched a wonderful game for Bloomington, being especially good in pinches.

STARTING THE RACE FAIRLY

According to an official report, the time lost by university students through prompt treatment of common colds and grippe has been decreased from about nine days in 1919 to about two and one-half days in 1920. That represents a great gain and alone would be enough to justify the establishment and maintenance of the student medical advisers' department, but that is by no means the only or the chief gain to the students.

However mature they may consider themselves, freshmen at the university are seldom more than young boys and girls. They come at an age when they can not safely be entrusted to select a physician wisely or exercise proper judgment as to whether or not an attack of illness is of such character as to call for immediate attention and vigorous treatment. Parents can now feel a degree of comfort concerning the health and physical welfare of their children at the University of Wisconsin that was impossible before the service was instituted there.

Another gain has come through the compulsory physical examination of all students. Many an early case of tuberculosis has been discovered many months or even years before it otherwise would have been and while the disease was in an easily curable stage. In other instances unsuspected heart disease has been detected by these skillful diagnosticians and the student has been prohibited from engaging in competitive athletics that might have killed or crippled him for life in an institution less scrupulous in looking after the health of the students for whom it is morally responsible.

In this latter class of cases early detection and proper advice is frequently all that is needed to enable the victim to so modify his habits or vocation in life as to insure a normal or even an increased span of life. It was a wise administration which recognized the fact that the physical guidance of the student body is quite as important as the mental guidance. Wisconsin and California universities lead the country in this respect.

Authorities having responsibility for students of local primary and secondary schools are providing similarly by employment of physicians and nurses for health inspection and supervision. Children are getting a fair start, nowadays, and the next generation ought thereby to be able to "put it all over the present one." Who is it that desires less?

RUSHFORD MAN IS THREE SCORE AND TEN YEARS OLD

M. A. Maland Celebrates His Seventieth Birthday; Is Native of Wisconsin and Loves State

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special.)—M. A. Maland, a native of Wisconsin and one of the best known citizens of southern Minnesota celebrated his seventieth birthday August 23. Mr. Maland is hale and hearty and active as a young man.

Services Resumed
Sunday, September third services were resumed at the Rushford Presbyterian church. Rev. J. C. Bantley, the resident pastor, having concluded his summer's vacation, which was for the most part spent in this city. Regular sessions of the Sunday school will also be carried on from the same date.

Scout Injured
The Boy Scouts returned from their trip up to Camp Hazzard last Thursday, having spent a jolly time there with their scout master, Rev. J. C. Bantley. The very popular game of "Hunky", just now absorbing the attention of the boys, was the cause of the only unpleasant episode of the camping trip. While playing the game, one of the invited guests at the camp ran into a barbed wire fence and cut a good sized gash upon his leg, but a Scout, who had brought along "first aid" equipment, rendered the necessary aid and all was well.

Residences Changed
Numerous changes in homes are noticed recently. The D. A. Tiffany residence property on Mill street having been purchased by Alfred Peterson, the families of Albert Ebner and James Parish who have been occupying the house were forced to seek other homes. Mr. Ebner has leased rooms at the James McDonald residence in Brooklyn, while Parish expects to occupy the residence now held by Silas Shirvin and family. Mr. Shirvin will take up his residence in the Mrs. Arnt Larson house. Mrs. Larson reserving rooms for herself in one part of the residence. The former Alfred Peterson house will be occupied by Mrs. M. Setten and family, who recently moved in from the nearby country.

John Nelson a former Rushford resident, but for the past four or five years of Redwood Falls, Minn., has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaus Olson and other relatives in this city.

Neil Currie, another one-time Rushfordite, has been up from La Crosse to visit his aunt, Mrs. L. I. Streator and other relatives here. Mr. Currie has been a La Crosse resident for a good many years.

Theodore Anderson, who for the past three weeks has been a patient at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to his home on Ferry street, last Thursday, much improved in health after his rather serious operation. His brother, Ed Anderson, of Choate, who was compelled to submit to an operation for appendicitis at the same hospital, some three days after Theodore went down, is also gaining nicely and hopes soon to come back home.

Mrs. O. Tagland, another Rushford resident, who was taken ill with appendicitis some three weeks ago and underwent an operation for the same at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to her family here last Thursday, also being well upon the road to health now.

Miss Emma Crampton has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seekamp, a number of miles from this city, for a number of days. Mrs. F. A. Foster and two children were also guests of the Seekamp home for a week, have returned to their home here.

E. J. Kingsford of North Rushford departed last Saturday for Baraboo, there to visit for a week or so until the arrival of his daughter, Mrs. Way of Thief River Falls, Minn., this lady planning to remain with her father for some weeks. Another of Mr. Kingsford's daughters, Mrs. Taylor of Montana, is expected to arrive in Rushford for an extended visit in a short time.

Owen McDermitt of Chicago, arrived in this city last Friday for a two or three weeks' visit with his mother, Mrs. A. McDermitt, of North Rushford.

Rev. A. Wright, of Brooklyn, who has been in declining health for the past year, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis a short time ago and since has lain in a partly-unconscious state. His children residing at a distance have been summoned to his bedside. Miss Anna, from Minneapolis, where she had gone to again take up her duties as instructor in the city's schools; Miss Laura, who had just gone back to Northfield to begin work in St. Olaf's college there, and Miss Ella, supervisor of music in the Denver, Col. schools. Rev. Wright's long and busy life as minister seems about to come to the final ending, as on account of his advanced age—some eighty-five years—complete recovery cannot be hoped for.

Mrs. Alfred Ness and two children, Alfred and Norma, are guests of Mrs. Ness's parents in Mabel, where he is attending to the fall's work upon his farm.

Gall-stones or Appendicitis? Don't operate. Dr. Manning, Vitecephath, Suite, 214 Linker Bldg., La Crosse. Miss Anna Kingsford departed this week for Minneapolis, there to take up her work as instructor in the city's schools. Miss Ethel Kingsford, her sister, has also left Rushford, where she spent her summer vacation, to again teach at Fertile, Minn.

The Fred Whitehouse home in North Rushford, has recently entertained as guests Mrs. Chas. Wilson and son, of Aberdeen, S. D., they departing a day or so ago. Upon the Friday noon train of last week there also arrived, for a visit with the Whitehouse family, Mrs. White-

La Crosse Chamber of Commerce News Notes

BY JAMES R. KINSLOE Executive Secretary

Let's not be stampeded in our work. The failure of many commercial organizations can be attributed to the fact that they are too anxious to make a record the first six months.

To properly serve the community the Chamber of Commerce must feel its way, like any other new business. The successful Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber of Commerce of influence and power in the community, the lasting, permanent Chamber of Commerce, can only become so when built upon a solid foundation. At the end of three years, instead of reorganization, we want the Chamber of Commerce of La Crosse recognized at home and abroad as the biggest influence in community building in this entire section of the north-west. To bring this about means preliminary planning—planning based upon a knowledge of local conditions and local people.

In a very short time we will be on the hunt for men, men to man the guns as soon as we have reached that "state of preparedness" when we are ready to shoot. Every member will be given an opportunity to serve under whatever committee he chooses. We want you where your interest lies because there is where you will render the better service.

Develop your foresight by the experience of your kind sight and you will be better off by a darn sight.

RETAIL MERCHANTS BUREAU

Tonight at 8 o'clock, in the council chambers, city hall, this bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting. Important matters are to come up and will continue to come up throughout the year. We need the presence at these meetings of one or more representatives of every retail firm represented by membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Second only in importance to advertising there is nothing which will mean more to the merchants of La Crosse than prompt and regular attendance at the meetings of the bureau formed with the one distinct object of benefiting each and every member of that bureau.

We have some fine stores in La Crosse; we have some first-class men in the retail business; we don't yield them to anyone in the quality of brains or intelligence, but we can learn something in a meeting where all these brains are brought together, and those men who learn most are the best men.

In attendance upon meetings and in faithful performance of committee duties, we must ever keep before us the old-fashioned doctrine that "the profits most who serves best."

To the question, "What's in it for me?" we answer, Nothing—unless you get in it.

THAT SOCIABILITY TOUR

Of course we should have more of them. The agricultural bureau can do no better work at the beginning than to show business men and farmers where their interests lie together, how they can each gain more by working in harmony and co-operation with each other.

house's sister, Mrs. Burquist, who, with her husband and daughter, will spend this week or so in this city.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will hold the regular monthly meeting at the church parlors on next Saturday, Sept. 9th, the leader for the devotionals being Miss Crissie McLeod and the hostesses for the luncheon being Mrs. Lee Rollins, Mrs. Wm. Baerman, Mrs. McDermitt and Mrs.

La Crosse Chamber of Commerce News Notes

BY JAMES R. KINSLOE Executive Secretary

For a long time farmers have had a suspicion that the city business regarded them with much the same benevolent attitude as the farmer regards his sheep, as creatures to be sheared and sometimes even to be skinned.

Now the best work the Agricultural bureau can do at the outset is to regard the country business man as a fellow citizen and the city business man as a neighbor. The word which is going to dominate the further is not competition or combination—but co-operation. When we can have that, the country and the city will be laid the foundation for something big in this immediate section at least.

Congratulations, Dr. Freeman—that was a good "feeler"—now let's have a real one.

We want every member of the Agricultural bureau to take a part in the next one and we want the Merchants bureau to join hands with the Agricultural bureau.

It might be well to arrange some sort of program for the next one. How would it be to have dinner followed by one short talk in explanation of our mission and then to the meeting over to our country friends to tell the truth about what lines we can best co-operate with each other to our mutual advantage. Let the meeting be followed by games between the country and city, with a little music on the side.

How about it?

All the world loves a Dear. Do something worth while, and don't worry about who gets the credit. Those who chase the spotlight get a thankless job. Do something and the spotlight will follow you. You can't get away from it. Credit will fall where it is due, just as God gives us air to breathe.

"AT HOME"
Time will not permit us to go out an "At Home" card and we don't want you to be looking for one. Just call around at 307 Main street, second floor, Rooms 7, 8 and 9, see how nicely we are fixed in our temporary quarters with the Chamber of Commerce association a part of us, as it should have been years ago.

When we get into new and permanent quarters we will see if we can't bindfold the board of directors and furnish "punch" and flowers as the honor of calling the first day.

But don't forget to call on us in our temporary quarters, and don't forget we have our genial friend John C. Burns as a neighbor on the second floor, together with all the intelligence that goes with a first class business University on the floor above us.

When Burns and Toland miss we are sure will not escape the eagle eye of President Frank P. Olson on the opposite side of the street. Sure, we are between the devil and the deep blue sea, and we don't want anything personal by this.

Corn was steady and higher on the strength in wheat and unfavorable weather reports. September was unchanged at 56 1/2c; December up 1/4c at 73 1/2c; and May up 1/4c at 76 1/2c.

Oats continued firm on brisk trading and strength in the other grains. September was up 1/4c at 45 1/2c; December up 1/4c at 45 1/2c; and May up 1/4c at 51 1/2c.

TIPS FROM THE GUIDES

My Dear Buck:
Well old man you're ready to pack the duffle bag and hit the steel for the Great North Woods and you want a little straight from the shoulder stuff on the question of guides. Taken as a whole the men of the North Woods are a fine bunch of good fellows and they sure put up with a lot of hardships in the first line of trenches dodging anglers' gas shells on the subject of fishing. Most guides who handle the city chap on his first big time in the woods have more real fishing lore and knowledge tied up in their hat racks than they are given credit for. And a heap of this down-right good fishing does not reach the surface because sometimes, Mr. C. C. don't mix in right, he sort of rubs the fur the wrong way. Get on a man to man basis right at the start and have your listening ear in good shape. Your fishing will be more successful and you'll have an all round better time. Your guide, probably has spent the greater part of his life on the waters you will fish and he sure ought to be given credit for knowing something about fishing conditions on those waters. If you give him the glad hand and a tip and treat him white, telling your share and "mixing in" right, he'll open up and give you a line of fishing that will be remembered for many a day. And just let a few of his tackle tips and fish facts soak in, they are nearly always good and you can use 'em any time.

Tips From a Real Guide

While on a recent trip with Earny Wendt, the greatest little guide that ever brought a musky to gaff, I passed the buck to him in this fashion. "Earny," I said, "what is the worst hooker pulled by the city fisherman in the high art of tossing the bait to the eager fishes." Between turning the fish that was browning in the pan and moving the coffee pot to a place of safety when it threatened to boil over, Earny slipped this over the home plate. "Well, Hombre, there are a number of things that a fellow will do that makes it hard to fill the stringer, first nearly everyone tries to cast too far, they have an idea that unless they make about 75 feet of line off the reel on a cast that said cast was a failure, while as a matter of fact, as you well know, a cast of from 25 to 30 feet will get more fish than the longer casts, unless the water is very clear and then throw it out not above 50 feet." And this has been checked up by many times in watching Earny fish, he never throws his arm out of joint, he lets the wrist and rod do most of the work, and I have seen him get strikes within ten feet of the boat and even right up alongside as the lure left the water.

Use Small Spoons

"And another thing," said Earny, as he wiped the smoke out of his eyes. "Some of the spoons and spinners they bring up into this country are some size. They sure use them too large. I have always found a small spoon, say a No. 2 or 3, about right for most fishing. Of course you can use them up to No. 4 or 8 on a rough day, when the water is moving a bit, but the great big chunks of tin they try out on the musky sure must look funny to the old boys when it goes by. It seems they think the larger the spoon the larger the fish, but I've caught 'em up to 40 pounds with a little fellow, and I stick to that kind because it gets the fish."

"Striking at the right time is another point," he said as we started work on the piping hot grub, fit for a king, at least it tasted so after a day's steady work at casting. "With the plugs they can't strike soon enough and with the natural bait they strike too soon. Unless a fish hooks itself by accident when he hits the artificial plug, the majority of fishermen are not ready to strike at the right time. You got to strike 'em the minute they hit the plug or they throw it out. I think where the fall down comes is in not practicing the transfer of the rod from the right to the left hand. Just before the plug hits the water, the reel should be stopped and while the rod is being swung from the right to the left, begin the retrieve of the plug by a backward move of the rod. This takes up the slack at the start, gives your lure the right position and still you have enough space to swing the rod farther back to strike your fish quickly if you get a strike. While with the live minnows they never give the fish a chance to swallow the bait. The bass, pike, pickerel or wall-eye generally takes but a small hold on the live bait and striking at that time before he gets a chance to take it away for a short run, just pulls the bait out of his mouth. I say let 'em swallow it. They ought to at least have that pleasure anyway, then give a quick, sharp strike with a wrist movement, but quite a few of the boys seem to think they got to pump

the fish clean out of the water. At least that's the way it looks to me when I see them give a long, swinging sweep of the arm to the strike.

Give Your Bait a Chance

"Of course you can't expect a strike on every cast," Earny said as he pulled the boat to a favorite underwater weed bed where we intended to take a whirl at dusk casting, "but some of the boys put on a 'dewie', give it a few tosses and then spend ten minutes good casting time changing to another bait, and they keep it up all day, never giving one particular bait a chance to make good. To get fish you have to keep the bait in the water, and while it's in the water keep it moving. I believe in reeling in fast as a game fish strikes on the impulse. He don't take much time to think about it and you should help out the game by keeping the bait moving which helps to deceive him in to thinking its escaping food."

So you see old timer if you want an awful of real fishing facts, lay your cards on the table with your pen, the guide, and play the game of the outdoors clean. It'll pay mighty well and start a friendship that will last for years.

DIXIE.

Any questions on fishing, tackle, or equipment will be answered. When detailed answers are desired enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Send queries to Dixie Carroll, care Sporting Editor.

Question: Are frogs good still-fishing bait for bass?—G. H. Answer: Use the smaller sized frogs for still fishing, and keep them in motion; they have a habit of burying themselves in the mud or under stones on the bottom; also crawl out on a windfall and watch you hold on the rod. Hook them through the tips or through the skin of the back. Minnows make a better still-fishing bait.

Question: When is the best time for trolling and where? Answer: Best trolling time, morning, evening and after dark. Troll close to edge of rushes, lily pads and weeds, or over sunken wood formation over and along sand bars and off the shelving bottoms, between shallow and deep water, or where light and dark waters seem to meet.

Question: What do you think of the Shakespeare standard professional reel and do you think the level-winding affair on the level-winders of any value?—T. M. R. Answer: The standard professional is a fine reel and a low priced one; it will stand up under hard usage and last a long time if given a little care. The level-winding arrangement on the Shakespeare reels is successful and quite an aid to the reel in its work.

Benny Kauf. He hit a ball in Boston for a home run and added to a day of glory by trying to take third base with that has-sook already occupied. He failed.

The Braves, by taking that fall out of the Giants, now are only one game behind the Robins.

Grover Cleveland Alexander smashed the shutout record again when he held the Robins scoreless. It was his fourteenth of the year.

Eppa Jeythia Rixey, inspired by his performance, went into the second game and did it all over again.

Cactus Cravath came back with a home run clout.

Bill Carrigan's Red Sox took a whaling at the hands of the Yankees and Detroit gained half a game by staying idle.

Home Run Baker again tried to be a pinch hitter but popped up a weak clout back of the plate.

Jimmy Callahan evidently cares little for President Tenor's orders. He talked back to Umpire Harrison and was sent off the field. Pitcher Jacobs and First Baseman Johnston followed him.

The Athletics managed to win while Myers was holding the Senators to a pair of safe blows.

Walter Johnson, however, was too much for the trailers and they lost the game by a two ply bill.

RULE PROTECTING CATCHER OF PUNT OCCUPIES THE FANS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Monday will see the opening on a modest scale of football practice among the schools of the Big Nine conference, comprising Chicago, Purdue, Indiana, Ohio State, Northwestern, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois universities.

The call for football material was sent out last week by coaches in all the schools, who want their players under their guiding wing soon.

Although football practice in this section will not open until the middle of the month, the coming of September has found the men eager for practice. Some candidates for the gridiron are making the trip all the way from the Mexican border, where they went with the National guard.

Discussion of new rules and new styles of play occupied the training camps today. The most important change in the rules of the game, is the one pertaining to safety. The rule as it now appears provides that the man carrying the ball cannot be forced back from his most advanced position. A gain once made cannot be lost through pushing by the opposition. This rule probably will almost entirely eliminate the safety. Coaches also declare it will prevent injuries to backfield men and will give light teams a much better chance against heavier opponents.

Another rule to prevent injuries this year is that opposition players will not be allowed to charge a man attempting to catch a punt. His activities being restrained to batting or catching the ball.

October 7 will see every Big Nine team in action on its home grounds with second rate teams as opponents. Chicago meets Caledon college of Minneapolis; Illinois meets Kansas; Minnesota plays South Dakota; Wisconsin clashes with Lawrence; Northwestern opposes Lake Forest, Indiana Purdue and Ohio have not named their opponents.

The Point.

DEFEAT OF "COMET" FRIDAY'S FEATURE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The defeat of Maurice E. McLoughlin, the idol of American lawn tennis, by George M. Church was the feature of the fourth round of the national singles championship at the West Side club on Friday. The elimination of the California "comet" in his widely heralded attempt to come back after two years to defeat left but three westerners in the field for the 1915 title as against four eastern stars and one southerner.

George M. Church Friday night was the hope of the eastern contingent and the west pinned its faith on the ability of William M. Johnston, victor a year ago, although it was conceded that of the remaining eight players in the tournament, R. Norris Williams, second, and Clarence J. Griffith had a chance.

Church defeated McLoughlin 6-4, 6-1, 7-2, 6-3.

"HATTON WEATHER" BRINGS JOY TO THE PROGRESSIVES

ADMIT JEFFRIS IS BEATEN

Local Stalwarts Admit "Bob" Will Carry La Crosse County in the Primary

Overcast skies and a dull drizzle brought joy to the hearts of progressives when primary day dawned. "Hatton weather," it was declared to be, and the progressives were awaiting returns from the district around La Crosse with confidence.

"All farmers will be voting today," said Senator Otto Bosshard. "This rain made it impossible to thresh, fill silos or cut tobacco. All of the country precincts will poll a good-sized vote if the rain is general. That means adding thousands of votes to Hatton's total in the state at large."

Vote Light in City
In the city the voting was light until toward noon. By that time hundreds of voters had appeared, and considerable interest was apparent, although it was not believed that the entire voting strength of the community would be out.

Progressives jubilantly predicted the overwhelming nomination of Senator La Follette, and the stalwart headquarters in the W. B. U. building admitted the correctness of the prediction.

"If it wasn't for that eight hour law vote in the senate, we might have had a chance," said Harry Watkins, secretary of the stalwart club. "As it is, we claim 900 votes for Jeffris in La Crosse county. Philipp will poll 1,400 in this district."

Watkins predicted the nomination of John C. Gaveney over E. F. Clark of Galesville.

County Fights
In the county election, interest chiefly centered in the fights for clerk of court and sheriff nominations on the republican ticket. In the democratic primaries, there is but one contest—between Fred Clark and John Weber for sheriff.

The two four-cornered fights in the republican party, however, indicated a close result. E. H. Derr and George McDonald, of West Salem, were the favorites in the race for the nomination for sheriff, and wise ones predicted a close finish. All four candidates, according to the dopesters, are coming down the stretch in a bunch in the race for clerk of court, and few would venture to guess a winner between Frank H. Allen, Leonard Kleeber, Harry Denniston and J. George Schweizer.

No Bets Against "Bob"
There has been little betting on the primary, according to the local sporting dopesters. A prominent progressive has had $500 posted on La Follette for several weeks, but was unable to find any takers. No odds are quoted on any of the candidates.

MORE CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS AS WORK IS RESUMED

Registration in High School Already Eclipse Attendance at the Close of the School

With the opening of La Crosse schools on Tuesday morning indications were for a larger attendance in both the high school and grammar grades than during the last term. Vacation days came to a close with every grammar room comfortably filled and registrations in the high school already outnumbering the attendance during the winter and spring semester.

F. E. Tift, new principal of the high school, announced at noon on Tuesday that registrations since morning reached one thousand, twenty-five more than the number attending at the close of the last term.

While not being able to give the exact number entering grammar schools on Tuesday B. E. McCormick, superintendent of schools, announced that the attendance was normal, and that prospects pointed to a large number of pupils.

Miss Marie Peterson, visiting nurse of the health department, was at the Redfield school on the first day, on the watch for any indication that infantile paralysis has spread beyond the two cases now isolated. The two cases are in the district from which the Redfield school draws its pupils. Careful observations will be made in all schools in the near future, but the health department is of the opinion that there is no cause for uneasiness.

WOULD GIVE PRESIDENT POWER TO USE ARMS TO PREVENT PREFERENCES

Village of Salem Claims Two Inches Of Bradley's Barn

Bill Bradley, former postmaster of West Salem, is irritated, to put it mildly. The village board of Salem, at its last meeting, served notice on him that he has two inches of the village property, and that the village wants it back.

On the two inches stands a wall of Bradley's big cement barn. Hence Bill's irritation. To give the village the two inches it claims, Bill must chisel two inches from the wall. But Bill hasn't whetted up his chisel. Instead, he visited a lawyer in La Crosse, and the field of action will be the court instead of the alley back of Bill's barn.

The root of the trouble lies in a discrepancy between two surveys of the village. Bradley has had a barn on the debated two inches and adjoining property for twenty-six years. It was built in accordance with the old survey. A few years ago a new survey, or ran the lines again, and discovered a two-inch error. The village of West Salem adopted his report, and legislated all the lines in the village over two inches. That ran the alley line through the wall of Bradley's barn. Now the village says the alley must be unoccupied, and officially declared the barn a nuisance.

NEIGHBORS TALK REVENGE Alleged Victims Will Venture No Opinion Concerning the Coincidence

John A. Richmond is former chairman of the board of Campbell township. Frank Jolivet is a member of the town board. They were leaders of the campaign which resulted in the closing of several roadhouses. Recently Richmond's farmstead was attacked by a blaze of mysterious origin which destroyed practically his entire harvest and only spared his home through desperate efforts of Richmond and his neighbors. The loss was $20,000. Another happening of recent date is the mysterious death of seven valuable cows owned by Jolivet, evidently from poison.

From the foregoing circumstances, French islanders are speculating as to whether the Richmond fire was not of incendiary origin, and the Jolivet cattle not victims of poison administered through human agencies. Opinion goes both ways. The two against whom rumor sees the hand of vengeance reserve their opinions. Mrs. Jolivet told the TRIBUNE Tuesday that their cattle might have died from eating a poisoned weed. She said that no veterinarian had seen them, and Mr. Jolivet was considerably in the dark as to the cause of their deaths. She added that they had no idea what the weed was that the cattle might have eaten.

Mr. Richmond also was cautious in discussing the rumor. "Yes, the rumors have reached me that my fire was incendiary," Mr. Richmond told the TRIBUNE. "I have at present no means of proving or disproving this. Several theories have been advanced as to how the fire started, but thus far I have reached no conclusion myself."

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Police guard about J. Maurice Pettit, confessed wife slayer, was doubled Tuesday as a result of threats by Pettit that he would kill himself at the first opportunity. He says he wants to join his wife on a "spiritual plane."

SENATE STRIKES TWO MORE BLOWS AT BLACKLIST

FORBID UTILITY RIGHTS Use of Mails, Express, Wireless, Telegraph or Cable Would Be Forbidden

BY J. P. YODER (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—With allied diplomats in Washington protesting against retaliatory legislation already enacted by congress to offset the British black list, the senate on Tuesday struck two more blows. Amendments adopted to the revenue bill are likely, some officials believe, to result in official objections taking the places of the private, though positive protests against retaliation which certain diplomats here have voiced.

The first act today was passage of Senator Thomas' amendment to the revenue bill empowering the president to retaliate against any belligerent commerce ship that discriminates against American shippers and exporters.

The second was adoption of Senator Phelan's amendment to the same measure refusing rights of the United States mails or the facilities of any interstate express company or of any wireless, telegraph or cable company to the citizens of belligerent countries which discriminate against Americans.

Both amendments explicitly empower the president to take these steps "wherever during existence of war in which the United States is not engaged, the president shall be satisfied there is reasonable ground to believe" belligerent governments have denied all lawful rights to all American citizens.

Violations of both proposed laws are punishable by fines of $10,000 or two years imprisonment or both. Both admittedly are retaliatory measures against Great Britain's blacklist and seizure and detention of mails.

Thomas' amendment was drawn with the approval of the state department and the president is empowered by its terms to use "any part of the land and naval forces he deems necessary" to uphold it.

REV. W. J. PEACOCK RESIGNS PASTORATE OF FIRST BAPTISTS

Clergyman Prominent in Church Publicity Campaign Surprises His Parish

The congregation of the First Baptist church was surprised at the conclusion of the services Sunday morning when Rev. William J. Peacock, pastor of the church for the last year, read to them a letter in which he tendered his resignation. The resignation is to take effect on September 30. Rev. Peacock will become student pastor at the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Peacock goes within a few weeks, to be present at the beginning of the university year. He said that he hesitated a long time before accepting the call to the university, because of the shortness of his pastorate here. But representatives of the university visited him here, and officials of the denomination joined their voices to urge him to accept, assuring him that La Crosse would be well taken care of in the shift.

"Ad Man" for Churches
Mr. Peacock was one of the leading pastors of the group which pushed through the highly successful and unique church publicity campaign last fall. He was the "advertising manager" of the campaign, and one of the leaders in the organization of the churches' co-operation in the campaign.

Rev. Peacock's letter of resignation follows:
"To the First Baptist Church.
"Dear Friends:
"I have known for some time that from every standpoint of good judgment my pastorate with you must be limited. It is evident that my work in La Crosse seems hardly begun and that your high hopes have not been realized. However, with the grow-

RUMANIANS CHECKED ON BOTH FRONTS IS CLAIM OF BERLIN

Claim Bucharest Forces in Retreat Before Germans and Bulgarians Invading South-east Rumania

By CARL VON ACKERMAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The Rumanians have been checked on both wings of their invasion of Transylvania and are in retreat before German and Bulgarian forces invading south-east Rumania.

Bulgarian forces have captured the Rumanian town of Dobric, twelve miles inside the Rumanian frontier, it was officially announced Tuesday afternoon.

German airships have again bombed Bucharest.

Dobric is the largest town yet captured by the Germans and Bulgarians in their invasion of Rumania. It has a population of about 15,000 and was in Bulgaria until the last Balkan war when Rumania forced the Bulgars to surrender the Dobrudja territory.

Budapest dispatches on Tuesday reported a halt in the Rumanian advance near Orova on the Austrian extreme right wing. After withdrawing to the west bank of Cerna river, the Austrians ward off all Rumanian attacks.

On the southern Transylvania frontier the Rumanians are proceeding with the greatest caution, evidently fearing they will be led into a trap.

Chain Two Towns Captured
SOFA, Sept. 5.—The Rumanian towns of Kurbunar and Akkadunlar have been captured by the Bulgarian and German forces who have pushed forward ten miles into Rumanian territory in their invasion of the Dobrudja region. It was officially announced Tuesday.

Kurbunar and Akkadunlar lies almost directly south of the Rumanian city of Silistra and about sixty-five miles northwest of the Bulgarian point of Varna.

PREMIER OF GREECE BECOMES DICTATOR WAR CLOUD GROWS

CONSTITUTION IS WAIVED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—

Private advices reached official circles in Washington from Athens that it is only a matter of a day or two until Greece enters the war on the side of the allies.

ATHENS, Sept. 5.—Premier Zaimis, taking advantage of the presence in Piraeus harbor of allied war craft, has assumed a practical dictatorship over Greek affairs, and rapid entry of Greece into the war on the side of the allies is forecasted.

Zaimis is reported having the support of the Venizelos faction, pro-war, and of the party opposed to Venizelos, thus giving the cabinet a representative character.

The first step which placed full powers in the hands of the premier was taken when he forbade public gatherings last Wednesday. The arrangement of Friday whereby the issue of the decree dissolving the now adjourned parliament and calling new elections was postponed indefinitely, disposed effectually of any parliamentary interference with the policy of the government.

Put Through Quietly
The solution of the political mud which has kept Greece in a condition of wavering neutrality for two years was effected quietly and the public was not aware of the extent to which the constitution of Greece was virtually set aside or of the manner in which power was concentrated in the hands of the premier.

The formation by M. Zaimis of a new ministry in which all parties will be represented is a question of only a few days. Meanwhile the allies are rapidly ridding Athens and Piraeus of Austrian and German agents.

Accedes to Allies' Demands
LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Greek government at Athens has accepted the demands of the entente powers in their entirety and agents of the French and British governments are taking over the control of postal and telegraphic communication.

British and French ministers at Athens presented on Saturday a note to the Greek government demanding control of the posts, telegraph and wireless system on the ground that they were being used by enemies of the entente; demanded that agents of the Teutonic allies employed in corruption and espionage must immediately leave Greece, and that measures be taken against Greek subjects guilty of complicity therein.

SLAVS CONTINUE CARPATHIAN DRIVE CAPITAL REPORTS

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—The Russian advance in the Carpathian woods near the frontier of Hungary continues. It was officially announced Tuesday. More heights have been captured.

In the fighting along the upper Soroth 4,629 prisoners, six cannons, thirty-nine machine guns and a number of bomb throwers have been captured.

Attaboy Winner Of 2-Yard Event For Cockroaches

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Attaboy, pride of Herb Roth's string of racing cockroaches, won the naval rookies' two-yard championship from a field composed of Dal Hawkins' Hammock King, J. W. Bailey's Ditty Box Bill; Herb Reed's Mess Jumper and half a dozen others, advices from U. S. S. Kentucky, off Sandy Hook, said Tuesday.

Roth's mount, a magnificent brute standing three-quarters of an inch high at the withers and weighing not less than ten milligrams, was trained on corrosive sublimate and bichloride of mercury. Unfortunately he never will race again, having ruined the stomach muscles on the pie post.

Young Junius Morgan is rumored to have bet three cigars on his rough-riding roach Brownie against anything in Roth's string. This promises to be the best of the inter-ship races which have attained much popularity among the rookies of the "Naval Plattsburgh" cruise.

PERMANENT QUARTERS FOR COMMERCE CHAMBER IN NEW LAW BUILDING

"Old Man of Mazurian Lakes" Sees Retreat of Germans Before French and British Monday

Entire Somme Front Bathed in Great Artillery and Infantry Fire; Teutons' Efforts Fail

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg arrived on the western front for the first time since the beginning of the war and is urging his commanders to a more stubborn defense along the Somme, the Echo de Paris stated Tuesday.

The "old man of Mazurian lakes" witnessed the retreat of the German armies under smashing British and French blows in Sunday and Monday's fighting. It was the first great battle in which the Germans have been engaged since Hindenburg was appointed chief of the German general staff.

Since the beginning of the allied offensive on July 1 the French and English have captured twenty-nine villages which the Germans had organized to the highest defensive degree. They have taken about 41,000 prisoners, 150 cannons and several hundred machine guns.

The strongest German counter-attack was delivered north of the Somme between Comblès and Forest. The French had observed preparations for this blow throughout Monday and were fully prepared to meet it. The first men to attack fell under French fire and the survivors were driven back to their trenches.

South of the Somme the Germans made several unsuccessful attacks near Belloy-en-Santerre, the French taking 100 prisoners.

On the northeastern front of Verdun the night was generally calm, the French taking fifty prisoners in local encounters. Southeast of Thiaumont a small German attack failed.

The whole Somme battle front has suddenly burst into activity with furious infantry fighting and some of the most terrific shell blastings since the Anglo-French offensive began. The Germans are fighting desperately but in the past forty-eight hours have been pushed steadily eastward by impetuous French attacks.

The Germans Monday night made several unsuccessful attempts to recapture ground lost to the French on both sides of the Somme in the allied drive on Sunday and Monday, it was officially announced.

General Foch struck south of the Somme Monday while the main body of Teuton reserves was preparing to resist another great blow north of the river.

The French success in this new drive equalled the gains made north of the river on the preceding day. Soyecourt was captured by a storming attack, and extending their gains far to the south the French occupied the village of Chille. The outskirts of three other villages were seized and about 3,000 prisoners were taken.

While this great battle was going on south of the Somme the Germans continued their preparations for a counter attack against positions captured by the French and British in Sunday's fighting north of the river. The heaviest German blows are expected to fall in the region of Chaumes where the French gains imperiled German position on a very wide front.

British Claim Gains
LONDON, Sept. 5.—The British pushed 1,500 yards eastward near Guillemont last evening, capturing the village of Salfemont, General Haig reported Tuesday afternoon.

The whole German system of strong defenses at Falfemont is in British hands. The British also gained a footing in the Leuzee wood, a mile northwest of Comblès.

Since Sunday the whole German second line from Mouquet farm to the point where the British lines link up with the French, a distance of more than seven miles have been captured. General Haig reported. About 1,000 prisoners have been taken.

The fighting is continuing at the village of Glancy.

SECOND ILLINOIS PASSES
DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 5.—The Second Illinois infantry, enroute from the border to Springfield, Ill., passed through here Tuesday.

CONVENTION HALL AND CIVIC CENTER FEATURE OF PLAN

Board of Directors Accepts the Proposal and Will Lease the Second Floor for Ten Years

BUILDING STARTS AT ONCE

Chamber Will Be in Its New Quarters by First of Year; Building Next to the Elks' Club

Permanent headquarters for the Chamber of Commerce, including executive offices and an auditorium for conventions and meetings of civic bodies, will occupy the second floor of a new building to be constructed by D. S. Law on the property adjoining the Elks' club, to the south, facing on Fifth street. The board of directors of the chamber Monday night accepted Mr. Law's proposition, as reported by the committee on permanent headquarters. Construction will begin Wednesday, it was announced. The chamber will probably be in its commodious new quarters by the first of the year.

Ten Year Lease
The terms under which the agreement was concluded with Mr. Law provide for a ten-year guarantee lease for the chamber of commerce. The organization is to have the entire second floor of the building. It will pay an annual rental of $2,250, which includes the cost of heat.

The building will cost $25,000, according to Mr. Law. He has not yet decided what will be done with the lower floor, and until that is settled, was unable to describe the building. Wells E. Bennett is the architect. Mr. Law intends to rent the lower floor, and is in communication with several parents who are contemplating moving to the city.

The building is to be of fire proof construction, with a frontage of 44 feet on Fifth street, and an average depth of 125 feet. The quarters of the Chamber of Commerce will embrace practically 5,400 feet of floor space.

A convention hall seating from 500 to 700 persons is the most remarkable feature of the tentative plans for the chamber's headquarters. This, it is contemplated, will house all civic bodies, the bureaus of the chamber, exhibits of the Art association, etc.

Plan Noon Luncheons
A feature of the program that is conceived by the board of directors, Executive Secretary James R. King, Joe said this morning, is the institution of noon-day luncheons at perhaps fortnightly intervals. To these all the membership and friends would be invited, and prominent speakers, frequently of national fame, would be engaged to make addresses on live topics.

In the tentative plans, a kitchen and serving room is provided, to handle the luncheons. The other space is cut up into the large convention hall.

CASHTON BANDITS BROUGHT TO BOOK AUTHORITIES SAY

Gang of Auto Thieves That Worked Through This District Rounded Up by United States

Joseph Redmond, alleged to be the fourth member of the automobile gang which robbed postoffices at La Crescent, Minn., Cashton and Oregon, Wis., and the Coffland mercantile store at Richland Center, last June, was arrested last week by Chicago federal officers. He is being held in Chicago at present.

The other members of Redmond's gang are Alex Bunta and two men giving their names as Kellther and Kennedy, arrested through the efforts of Postoffice Inspector J. F. Nicholson and other United States officers. They are being held for the present at Superior.

The thieves secured less than $200 in stamps from the three postoffices. They covered up the stamps in an automobile which they drove from Chicago. Several garages were robbed, it has been learned, presumably when the bandit car needed repairs. Redmond, who drove the car, has confessed.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

MARY DOE

BY MARION FRANCIS

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
During the spring vacation, Tom Sherrod took an auto trip along the Hudson. He had intended to spend a day or two at the home of his roommate, Phil Sharp, but he found on inquiry over the telephone that Phil had left Kingston the evening before for a visit to Brooklyn, so he decided to pass through without stopping.

As he sped up one of the long winding hills leading away from the town, he spied a girl on the road ahead. She was standing disconsolately beside a trim roadster which had evidently misbehaved. Tom threw on his brakes, brought his own car to a standstill and doled his hat.

"Is there anything I can do?" he asked.

The girl turned to him with a pair of grateful eyes; they were brown eyes which reminded him somehow of some one he had dreamed about years ago.

"I don't know what the matter with the old car," she said petulantly, although there was a hint of a twinkle in her eyes. "It just won't go."

"Maybe I can fix it," Tom knew absolutely nothing about the mechanism of a car, but he opened the hood and looked wisely into the complicated engine. He tried the self-starter, but it didn't work. He opened the hood again, touched a nut or two and then tested the starting apparatus. But still there were no results. Finally, he nodded his head as if he knew all about it.

"The differential's busted," he announced. "I'm afraid you'll have to send for a regular mechanic."

"Oh!" She appeared distressed. "That means I'll have to go back to Kingston."

Tom ventured a suggestion. "I was just thinking of going back that way myself," he said. "You might just as well ride with me."

She smiled at him frankly. "You know you weren't thinking of any such thing," she stated. "But I'm half inclined to accept your invitation."

Tom sprang into the driver's seat. "Come on in," he invited. "I will be perfectly all right, because I know some one who lives in Kingston."

"Oh, you do?" She appeared interested.

"Yes," he continued, as she made no movement to enter the car. "I'm a great friend of Phil Sharp. He's my roommate at college."

She looked surprised. "Phil Sharp?" she repeated. "Yes, do you know him?"

She hesitated a moment, and then smiled. "Never heard of him. Does he live in Kingston?"

"Why yes," he appeared puzzled. "I thought everybody knew Phil."

"I may have met him," she spoke slowly, as if trying to recall the young gentleman in question. "What does he look like?"

"He has brown hair and brown eyes," he paused. "Looks something like you," he told the truth.

The girl shook her head. "No," she announced. "I don't know him."

"You ought to," Tom spoke enthusiastically. "He's a mighty good looking chap."

"Was that meant for a compliment?" she smiled amusedly.

"Yes, it was," Tom answered truthfully.

ROUMANIA'S QUEEN LEAVES PALACE FOR RED CROSS HOSPITAL

The royal palace at Bucharest, and Queen Marie of Roumania as a Red Cross nurse.

The gay life of Roumania's capital has held little charm for Queen Marie since the outbreak of the war. During the past year she has spent much time as a Red Cross nurse, and now that Roumania has entered the war she will probably devote still more time to this cause. Queen Marie is one of the prettiest of Europe's royal ladies. She was formerly Princess Marie of Saxe-Coburg. Although her husband is a German, Queen Marie's sympathies are said to have always been with the entente allies.

fully. "But I'd like to have you know him because he might ask you to a college dance."

"Has he a sister?"

"Yes, I've never met her, but Phil seems to think she's a peach. He's going to have her down to the senior ball next week."

"What is her name?"

"Althea."

"Oh! Her face lighted with recognition. 'I know Althea Sharp. Met her one day at a Country club tea.'

"Did you like her?"

"Fairly well."

"What kind of girl is she?"

"You seem to be immensely interested in her."

"I am. You see, we have five dances together at the ball. Phil has asked her because he has to, but he really likes the girl I am going to bring. So he's going to shove his off on me whenever he can."

"I don't think you'll like her very much. She's a college girl, and rather prim and sedate."

"And I have five dances with her. Oh, well!" She smiled. "I wish Phil had asked some one else; some one like you, for instance."

The girl changed the subject. "Do you want to take me to Kingston now?" she asked.

"Surely; jump in."

The roadster sped onward. That ride was one of the most enjoyable occasions Tom could remember. They talked about numerous things; he told her of college, of Phil, and of the dances; she told him of Kingston, and something of the people she knew. The garage was reached all too quickly, and the girl jumped out.

"I'm very much obliged to you," she said, offering her hand. "The man in the garage will take me back."

Tom refused to be dismissed so easily.

"Aren't you going to tell me your name?" he asked.

She hesitated.

"Why, yes, I guess so," she finally said. "My name is Mary Doe."

"And your address?"

"Just Kingston."

"Do you mind if I write to you?"

"I'd rather you wouldn't. Maybe some time, if you come to Kingston with Mr. Sharp, we'll meet again. Good-bye."

She waved to him and disappeared into the garage.

All that day and the next that brief ride to Kingston was uppermost in Tom's mind. Upon returning to college, he cornered Phil Sharp and asked him about Mary Doe. But Phil was unable to give him any information.

"I never heard of her," he said.

"What does she look like?"

"Brown eyes, brown hair, a soft voice and a white skirt," Tom raved.

"Must be some one new in town. I'll ask Althea. When she comes down."

So Tom was forced to be satisfied until the senior ball rolled around. He waited on the porch of the fraternity house while Phil went to the train to meet his sister. He heard the engine pull away, and then watched idly as the college men and their fair guests came strolling across the campus.

Suddenly he sat bolt upright, amazement in his, for around the corner of Blair Hall walked Phil Sharp, and beside was the mystic girl he had met at Kingston. He watched them, half unbelievably, until they reached the porch.

"My sister, Althea," Phil announced.

Tom took her outstretched hand, and the girl smiled up at him.

"I believe we have met before," she said.

"We surely have; but you told me your name was Mary Doe."

"I told you a fib," she answered. "I wanted to surprise you when you saw me here. Are you sorry?"

"Sorry!" Tom's heart leaped crazily. "It's the best thing that's happened to me in years. And," he added thoughtfully, "I'm going to ask Phil to give me five more dances."

The Searchlight

NEW LUMBER STANDARDS

The work of standardization in all other building materials has developed so thoroughly that contractors have little difficulty in securing just the quality desired in steel, cement, lime, roofing and various other essentials. In structural timber, however, it is as yet difficult to get any positive standards. The Forest Products Laboratory has been advocating branding building timber with a special trade mark which shall indicate its quality as thoroughly as does the trade mark on other building supplies. The American Lumberman's association is co-operating in this movement and now several of the larger lumber mills in the country are securing trade marks for their different products, which shall be absolutely indicative of their quality.

There's plenty of room at the top, because nearly everybody wants to get in on the ground floor.

Food for thought only give some people mental indigestion—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GOOD IDEA FOR MERCHANTS' BUREAU

Of course good roads—the building of which under state aid will be resumed as soon as the Philipp administration is disposed of—of course good roads are the most practical agencies for destroying the mail-order nuisance. In time good roads and automobiles will destroy their pernicious tendency to drain the local communities and build up the big centers.

But James Sloan, a McGregor merchant, doesn't believe in watchful waiting. He's a youngster in business, a gentleman of originality and initiative. You shall read of the Sloan drive against the mail order outfit.

Sloan offered a silk dress as a prize to be given to that woman in his trade field who shall bring to him the greatest number of mail order house catalogues, of 200 or more pages, each a complete volume.

This thing should swing round the entire United States. It should create a catalogue bonfire in every community. For if we collect and burn the catalogues, there's an end on 't.

Mr. Sloan is acting alone. Why can't a powerful organization like the merchants' bureau of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce work out this idea on a larger scale? If in every merchant's advertisement there were placed an offer by the bureau, either of a prize, or a set price, the country could be cleaned of mail order catalogues, and once cleaned, they could be steadily collected from month to month. Mr. Sloan has a real idea—think it over.

A LIVE MISSION FOR THE DRAMA LEAGUE

In a city of 50,000 the theater is an institution like the street cars, the newspapers and the railroads. It is a public utility. Just exactly as a street railway can not be run on a public-be-damned policy, a theatrical season can not be ruined to suit the tastes of a manager. In the opinion of some students, the theater in such a city exercises a greater force on the spirit and conscience of the place than the churches and the schools, and it is for that reason that the public has a right to a place in determining the policy of its chief place of amusement.

La Crosse hopes to be a city of 50,000. With the renovation of its playhouse under the direction of Manager Koppelberger, it has an opportunity to consider earnestly the place of the theater in a city of 50,000. It must recognize that the first essential is a clean and artistic theater, and this Mr. Koppelberger has provided. It must recognize that really good actors will refuse to return to damp, dirty dressing rooms, inadequate stage facilities, poor lighting, and dirt. All these Mr. Koppelberger has taken care of. It must further recognize that in the long run it pays a city to be recognized as a theatrical town, a town in which really good attractions find it profitable to stop. In fact, Mr. Koppelberger has provided everything he could possibly provide except one thing. He can not provide an audience.

Now if the public in a city of 50,000 has a right to a voice in determining what shall be the place and policy of its theater, it has also certain responsibilities. It has the right to reject cheap shows, but it also has the duty of patronizing good ones. Despite the loud talk of some disgruntled critic, no manager likes to pander deliberately to the lowest common denominator in his public. He wants to bring good actors and good attractions to his place of business because it pays him better in the long run. Obviously, Southern is a more reliable business man than a fly-by-night company in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The public has therefore the duty of patronizing the plays it has a right to demand. Now, like good cooking, good music, good books and good business, good drama requires some education, some advance information, some knowledge of the state of things in the theatrical world, exactly as the successful management of a plow company demands some knowledge of affairs in the steel world. There exists in La Crosse a body whose business it is to take charge of the education of the audience.

The Drama League will miss its greatest opportunity to do a real service if it does not immediately get in touch with Mr. Koppelberger and prepare to campaign actively in behalf of the policy he announces. The business of the Drama League is not to read books about plays at afternoon tea; the business of the Drama League is to assure their theater a profitable hearing when it brings "The Blue Paradise" or "Androcles and the Lion" to La Crosse.

We class the two together deliberately. Complaint is made in some cities that the Drama League tends to a moribund, high-browism, preferring Ibsen and Maeterlinck dilute to actual attendance on "The Pink Lady." That charge can not be brought against the Drama League in La Crosse, but like every other organization of its kind, it is likely to make its field too narrow; to center its appeal for attendance upon plays pitched too far above the general average of receptivity, and to neglect productions, especially in musical comedy, which are clean, entertaining, but not always "significant" or "uplifting." The Drama League must consider that all the citizens of a town of 50,000 do not possess the dramatic likings of Orchard Court. But more important, the Drama League must recognize its one opportunity to co-operate with Manager Koppelberger in making La Crosse a theatrical city of the highest class.

Consistency

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "did you forget to bring the things I told you to bring from the store?"
"No. This is one time I carried out instructions to the letter. Here's the whole bundle."
"Oh, I'm so sorry. I've changed my mind about wanting them. I was sure you'd forget, as usual. It's so hard to depend on a man!"—Washington.

Toeing the Mark

During the course of a trying campaign a somewhat eccentric colonel was seized with a sudden ardor about hygiene, and one morning he peremptorily ordered that all the men in his regiment should change their shirts. The order was duly carried out except in the case of one company, where the privates' wardrobes had been pitifully depleted. But the company sergeant, who knew the state of affairs, rose to the occasion. "Orders must be obeyed!" he said. "Let the men change shirts with one another."

Favors Anticipated

The minister's daughter was entertaining several of her father's small parishioners.
"Will you have more cake, Polly?" she said.
"No, thank you, miss. I'm full," said truthful Polly.
"Then I think you may put some in your pockets."
"They're full, too, miss," said Polly.

Matter of Sentiment

"What makes you go in through the kitchen?"
"I don't know our servants very well," replied Mr. Cumrox. "Some way, the front hall seems kind of formal and distant. Around at the kitchen steps they've got an old door mat with 'Welcome' on it."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Nilsah)

AN ARAB TRIBE

They have their name, and their territory specially allotted to them by the French government, each of these little clans that wanders in the Little Sahara, but each tribe is exactly like the last, and the dry sand and rocky hillocks that shelter their tents differ so much from one section to the next that one square mile of ocean differs from another.

You come upon them at evening, when the smoke from the cooking fires in the doorways of the tents ascends straight and thin and pale to the desert sky. The tents are low and shapeless, or rather shaped with an intricacy that defies description, full of queer angles and unexpected hollows. They are pitched like the gypsy tents in English by-roads, by draping the cloth cunningly around the poles. They look much like a gypsy encampment, and in fact the campcraft of the gypsies, probably goes back to the same source whence the craft of these African Arabs is derived.

But the camp has an air of permanence most un-gypsylike. It is in truth hardly a camp at all, but a village, a city—as near a city as these nomads of the barren open over build. About some of the tents are strong brush enclosures that serve to give privacy to the family, and on occasion, as pens for sheep and cattle. Back among the rocky hills there are here and there little patches of cultivated land where a little corn is grown. But the Arab's hold on the soil is light. Next year you may pass that way and find that some change in the winds and the drifting sands, or the blind restlessness of the tribe alone, has moved them on. The tents are gone, the corn is dead and drifted over, and no man can say where the village stood.

Meantime they live quietly, a life of the last simplicity, an existence reduced to its lowest terms. A little tilling of the soil, a little tending of the herds, prayer and talk, grave and decorous family life, an occasional quarrel that ends in the spilling of blood, with fines are laid down by the Prophet—their long days are as bare of superfluous detail as the endless plain or the steely cloudless sky.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

By ETHEL HUESTON
Copyright 1915
The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"But father! Who would raise the girls? Who would keep the parsonage? Who would look after you?"
"Aunt Grace, to be sure. We talked it over two years ago, when her husband died. Before that, she was not free to come to us. But she said then that whenever we were ready for her, she would come. We both felt that since you were getting along so magnificently with the girls, it was better that way for a while. But she said that when your flitting-time came, she would come to us gladly. We had it all arranged. You won't want to marry for a year or so, yet. You'll want to have some happy sweetheart days first. And you'll want to make a lot of those pretty, useless, nonsensical things other girls make when they marry. That's why I advised you to save your burglar money—so you would have it for this. We'll have Aunt Grace come right away, so you can take a little freedom to be happy, and to make your plans. And you can initiate Aunt Grace into the mysteries of parsonage housekeeping."

A bright strange light had flashed over Prudence's face. But her eyes clouded a little as she asked, "Do you think they would rather have Aunt Grace than me?"

"Of course not. But what has that to do with it? We love you so dearly that we can only be happy when you are happy. We love you so dearly that we can be happy with you away from us—just knowing that you are happy. But you—you thought our love was such a hideous, selfish, little make-believe that—"

"Oh, father. I didn't! You know I didn't—maybe Jerry won't forgive me now?"

"Why didn't you talk it over with me, Prudence?"

"I knew you too well, father. I knew it would be useless. But—doesn't it seem wrong, father, that—a girl—that I—should love Jerry more than you and the girls? That he should come first? Doesn't it seem—wicked?"

"No, Prudence, it is not wicked. After all perhaps it is not a stronger and deeper love. You were willing to sacrifice him and yourself, for our sakes. But it is a different love. It is the love of woman for man—that is very different from sister-love and father-love. And it is right. And it is beautiful."

"I am sure Jerry will forgive me. Maybe if you will send me a paper and pencil—I can write him a note now. There's no use waiting, is there? Fairy will bring it, I am sure."

But when a few minutes later, she heard a step in the hall outside, she laid her arm across her face. Somehow she felt that the wonderful joy and love shining in her eyes should be kept hidden until Jerry was there to see. She heard the door open, and close again.

"Put them on the table, Fairy, dearest, and—leave me for a little while, will you? Thank you." And her face was still hidden.

Then the table by the bedside was swiftly drawn away, and Jerry knelt beside her, and drew the arm from her face.

"Jerry!" she whispered, half unbelievably. Then joyously, "Oh, Jerry!" She gazed anxiously into his face. "Have you been sick? How thin you are, and so pale! Jerry, how you need me to take care of you, don't you?"

But Jerry did not speak. He looked earnestly and steadily into the joyful eyes for a moment, and then he pressed his face to hers.

THE END.

Proved His Point

The old Scotch professor trying to impress upon his students the value of observation.

"No," he complained, "ye dinna use your faculties of observation! Ye dinna use 'em. For instance—"

Picking up a pot of chemicals of horrible odor, he stuck his finger into it, and then into his mouth.

"Taste of it, gentlemen," he commanded, as he passed the pot from student to student.

After each had licked a finger and had felt a rebellion through his whole soul, the old professor laughed in triumph.

"I told ye so!" he shouted. "Ye dinna use your faculties of observation! For if ye had observed, ye would ha' seen that the finger which I stuck into the pot was na the finger which I stuck into my mouth!"

How Could She Tell?

The telephone rang and the new Polish maid answered it.

"Hello!" came from the receiver.

"Hello!" answered the girl, flushed with the pride of a new language.

"Who is this?" again came the voice.

"I don't know who it is," said the girl. "I can't see you."

The great principle of all effort is to endeavor to do, not what is absolutely best, but what is easily within our power and adapted to our temper and condition."—John Ruskin.

Jackie Now Has A Nice Big House

Jackie Saunders couldn't stand it any longer.

She always wished, she said, to wear a gingham apron, dust cap, broom and all. She was tired of hotels, apartments and safes. She wanted a house.

And once Jackie "sets her head" that settles it if she has to go broke doing it. That is her undisputed reputation.

"How big a house will you want?" she was asked.

"Oh, about ten rooms."

"What! Why, there's only one of you, and you're only five feet high and not very wide and—"

"That will do, sir. I want a house, not statistics."

So the hunt was on. Scores of houses were inspected and all turned down by the persnickety star until a place was discovered on the ocean front, where there was a green lawn, roses, a garden, vines, a regular Caliph's backyard—and eleven rooms.

And now Jackie Saunders, mistress of her own house, slices her own bread, uncans her own baked beans, and is at home to her friends on Long Beach.

"Like it?" she repeated. "I'm crazy about it. Why, I'm ten years younger since I went to keeping house."

The reader is cautioned not to take these new housekeepers too seriously. Jackie Saunders was born in 1893. Ten years off would make her thirteen.

Lucille Youngs will be seen in a distinctive variety of parts opposite Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree. She is one of the "stand-bys" in the motion picture profession, her work being the acme of finesse.

FARM WHERE LINCOLN LIVED IS FORMALLY GIVEN UNCLE SAM

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HODGENVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5.—Abraham Lincoln's birth-place here, a little but now preserved and protected with a shrine of stone—on Monday was added to the treasures of the government of the United States. President Wilson received the deed to the property, together with an endowment fund of $100,000 for its maintenance from the Lincoln Farm association. Standing before the historic cabin, the president spoke of Lincoln as the embodiment of the validity and vitality of democracy.

Former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, president of the association, in presenting the farm and cabin to the government, emphasized the need for Americanism in the everyday life of the individual American, in the government and particularly in the foreign relations of the United States.

Don't Feed Your Baby Every Time He Cries

Many are the mothers who feed the baby to make him stop crying. Poor Baby! He stops for a while—and then it's all the worse. For the tiny stomach has had another load added to its already undigested burden.

The baby isn't always hungry. Perhaps he's getting too much or the wrong kind of food.

Give him your breast milk as long as you can. It may be the saving of his life when he is sick. You'll be able to nurse him nine full months if from the beginning you use one feeding a day of

Nestle's Food

(A complete food—not a milk modifier.)

Give him that feeding at any hour each day in place of your own milk—and leave yourself free to take a little air or pleasure to build up your own milk.

Then when weaning time comes, you'll just add to the feeding till the baby's all on NESTLE'S without feeling the change.

NESTLE'S comes to you in a safe, air-tight can—you add only water and it's ready. You don't have to worry about sour milk or consumptive cows or germs in the milk.

In NESTLE'S—made from the clean milk of healthy cows in sanitary dairies—every cow's milk danger has been destroyed—every baby need has been added.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—
Just what circumstances caused Captain William J. Maxwell, governor of Guam, to be removed by a subordinate,
Lieut. Commander William P.
Cronan, and to be sent to the naval hospital in Washington, the navy department intends to learn. Captain
William B. Shoemaker is here awaiting a steamer to take him to Guam
where he can make a detailed inquiry.

Cronan's action followed immediately his arrival in Guam where he was sent following alleged departmental dissension. His friends say that he found the governor in ill-health and took the action to meet
the emergency.

Cronan temporarily appointed Captain C. Smith as governor.

WELL LAID PLOT IN EDISON FILM

"The Innocence of Ruth," a five-
reel Edison photodrama released
through Kleine-Edison Feature service, will be shown at Majestic theater today and Wednesday.

There is a strong, well-laid plot,
a smoothly told and extremely interesting story and a finished picture
in this Kleine-Edison production that cannot help but please. The story deals chiefly with life in Greater New York, and brings out incidents in
Wall street, a millionaire's home,
and other "side lights" on life in the Metropolis. A very brief synopsis of
"The Innocence of Ruth" follows:

Jimmy Carter, a young millionaire, gets a message from his friend,
Reginald Travers, who is dying,
has been ruined by Mortimer Reynolds, and he leaves his teacher in care of Carter who takes Ruth home and gives her to the care of his housekeeper. Reynolds, anxious to add Ruth to his list of unfortunate, instructs his mistress, Edna Morris, to gain her confidence.

At the Charity Ball, Ruth meets
Edna Morris, and the girl works
her way into the graces of Ruth. Carter finds her in the apartment, stupe-
fied and disheveled. Heart sore, he looks upon her contemptuously and
leaves, feeling that she has gone the way of Edna. Edna's mother comes to the house from the country, and takes both penitents home with her,
hoping that they may forget.

Miserable because Carter has mistaken her, Ruth can find no peace.
But Edna, who dragged her to degradation, succeeds in lifting her to the light of hope, and Ruth is again
folded in the arms of Carter.

Strike Threat Felt

For the first Sunday in years, not
a stock train arrived at this terminal Sunday, Sept. 3. This was due to the threatened strike. This point is a busy day in the railroad yards Sundays, as there are usually from four to six stock trains in here, with from twenty-five to forty-five cars of stock enroute to the Chicago markets. From this point the stock trains are taken to Savanna by what is known as the "White Line," making passenger train time to get the stock to the Monday Chicago markets.

Extension Progresses

The yard extension work is progressing steadily, and the filling is going on for the new tracks, which will add many more tracks to the yards. The old yards were too small for the amount of business handled
here, and at times the company side
tracks across the river at Prairie du Chien were used when business was excessively heavy. With the new addition to the yards, the North Mc-Gregor terminal will have abundant
room for any emergency.

PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH HIS RECEPTION

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
ON BOARD THE PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL, HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 5.—"These have been the finest receptions I have ever received," President Wilson characterized his trip through West Virginia and Kentucky.

The president evidently was delighted at the enthusiasm with which he was received—even, when late at night, there was nothing for small town crowds to cheer but the darkened private car.

The president's journey into Kentucky while characterized as non-political, has proved gratifying to his political aides.

Thursday night the president leaves for Atlantic City, where he will address the convention of the National Woman's Suffrage association.

"Kleptomaniac." Kleptomaniac, or the impulse to steal, is a controversial obsession, especially when a poor person yields to the desire, for, of course, there would be an end to all failing for such delinquencies were the admission made too generally of mental irresponsibility when things are absent-mindedly appropriated. But when the appropriation is well off and the article "swiped" is absurd the veritability of kleptomaniac may be admitted medico-legally, so that it becomes a luxury denied to poverty, just as the difference between inebriety and drunkenness is a matter of cash—exchange.

HUGHES FIGHTS BACK AND "PACKED" CROWD CHEERS HIS SPIRIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 5.—Republican Nominee Charles E. Hughes was a different person than the man who a little over four weeks ago started off on a transcontinental campaign trip. Probably no public speaker, let alone a presidential candidate, ever underwent such an experience as Hughes did at the Ryman auditorium in Nashville Monday night. He faced an audience that "packed" against him and distinctly unfavorable to his views. The crowd started a wild demonstration. They hissed, the G. O. P. nominee, Hughes, fighting mad at the insult which he considered had been given Mrs. Hughes, who was present on the platform with him, simply struck out straight from the shoulder and rammed home his bitter criticism of the democratic administration with a new line of hot shot. He riddled the strike settlement recently achieved by President Wilson and had the satisfaction of hearing cheers and applause from the southerners for his fighting spirit and his determination to fight it out. It became known Tuesday that the nominee is planning to address men of the Plattsburgh, N. Y., camp, if this can be arranged.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF ROADS IS COMING GARRETSON AVERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Government ownership of railroads and other public utilities is coming, in the opinion of A. B. Garretson, leader of the four railroad brotherhoods' fight for an eight-hour day. Avoidance of a national rail strike, through strong governmental interference, he believes, is only one of a series of steps toward such an end.

WILCOX SAYS WEST IS STRONG FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Chairman William R. Wilcox of the republican national committee returned Tuesday from a western trip, full of enthusiasm.

"I have found that the middle west is going strong for Hughes and on every hand I heard most encouraging reports regarding the success of the candidate's trip," said Wilcox. "As to the reports that the trip has not been all that Mr. Hughes wanted it to be, the candidate does not know where these reports come from, but he feels highly pleased with the reception he has met with."

FATHER SLUYTER LEFT $1,000 TO HOME FOR K. C.

Announcement Is Made of Disposition of the Late Priest's Estate

One thousand dollars, the bequest of the late Rev. Gerhard Sluyter, pastor of St. Joseph Cathedral here, was presented to the local lodge of the Knights of Columbus at the annual business meeting and election of officers, held Monday night.

According to the will of Father Sluyter, the money is to be used towards erecting a lodge building for the Knights of Columbus in La Crosse, for which $7,000 had already been raised.

Father Sluyter's entire estate was left to Mgr. A. Ph. Kremer of Geneva, Wis., vicar general of the diocese, and directions were given him as to how Father Sluyter wanted the estate dispersed. The sum of $500 was left to the Catholic Benevolent society of La Crosse. Small sums of money were left other Catholic organizations, and certain sums were bequeathed to relatives in Germany.

"Father Sluyter's bequest has given an impetus to the movement for a Knights of Columbus building in La Crosse," Attorney A. H. Schubert said on Tuesday. The local lodge proposes to erect a structure to cost about $60,000. Plans for a campaign for raising a building fund will be started soon, it is believed. The building will be similar in purpose. It was said, to the Y. M. C. A. Young men not members of the Knights of Columbus, will be admitted for a membership fee.

Joseph M. LaVaque was elected grand knight to succeed Edward J. Steinmetz, who has held the office for two years. Others elected were Professor E. Butler, deputy grand knight; Professor A. J. Engelhardt, chancellor; William McMullen, warden; John Dengler, trustee, and William J. Rossiter, financial secretary.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS COULDN'T SUPPORT THE LOAD GIGI HAD

ROME, August 14, by mail.—The wooden legs that Charles Swain of Indiana, salesman for a Washington, D. C., artificial limb house, brought to Italy, created all kinds of trouble for Gigi, an Italian soldier whose legs were shot off in the Trentino.

Swain took a sample pair of legs to the Mirafiori hospital, planning to demonstrate their worth and then sell a car load of them to the Italian government. He hooked the pair onto Gigi who pounded around for an hour before he got the knack of artificial walking and then started on a tour of the hospital.

After Swain had finished conferring with the hospital heads, he looked about for Gigi. He was gone and so were the legs. Soldiers were sent out to search for him. They scoured the neighborhood but night came on and Gigi and the expensive artificial legs were still missing.

Next morning when the hospital gates were opened a dirty bundle of rags was discovered lying in a heap on the road. It was Gigi. He had toured all the neighboring wine shops. The best pair of artificial legs in the world could not support the load Gigi brought back.

TALES OF GILDED DEPRAVITY TOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The searching rays of Assistant District Attorney Smith's white slave investigation are being turned into the homes of men of wealth and position to probe a story of viciousness going on in New York under the cover of society.

A man well-known in social circles at fashionable resorts told Prosecutor Smith an amazing tale of gilded depravity. He admitted, Smith said, he received large sums from men of wealth for furnishing women for their gay parties. He told of at least ten houses maintained in the best districts of Manhattan patronized solely by men of wealth.

MORRISON DECLARES FORMER ATTORNEY HAS $150,000 OF HIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Edward W. Morrison, 80-year-old millionaire, exploded a bomb-shell in the camp of James Ward, formerly his attorney Tuesday, when he testified in bankruptcy proceedings in federal court that Ward had $150,000 worth of his property.

"And I don't know how he got it," said Morrison.

Morrison told Federal Judge Landis that the property was his, and had nothing to do with that left him by his father whose will decreed that in case the son died without children the estate should go to the city to build a public school.

Zeppelin Sailors Are Buried

Machinery May Be Used

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Eighteen charred and crushed corpses, the bodies of the German Zeppelin sailors who came crashing to earth from a mile above London in Sunday morning's great raid, were buried near Cuffley Monday.

They were the first Germans to die in action on English soil since the war began. One of them wore an iron cross. An inquest will be held later.

Experts attached to the royal flying corps continue to dig in the ruins of the destroyed Zeppelin for bits of machinery that will assist only slightly damaged. The Zeppelin's clock was practically as good as new. It had stopped at 2:10, the hour when an English shell went bursting through the great bag.

Thousands of Londoners poured out to Cuffley to see the pile of debris they had watched tumbling down from the sky Sunday morning.

The streets and house-tops were crowded while the raid was in progress. General French's official report at midnight that a raid was in progress called on the London constabulary and within a few minutes word that a great fleet of air ships had invaded England had spread throughout the city.

It was 2 a. m. before the London crowds got their first thrill. A single anti-aircraft gun suddenly boomed off somewhere, announcing the arrival of a Zeppelin. The booming became epidemic, spreading all over London. Sharp explosions, evidently of bombs hurled down by the Zeppelins, were heard far in the distance.

Daughter And Mother War For Key to Fortune

Because she maintains that her mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Reinartz, 65 years old, a resident of North La Crosse is a "spend-thrift" and is incompetent to take care of money, Mrs. Lizzy Martell, a daughter, is petitioning county court to appoint a guardian for her. The case came up on Tuesday and was adjourned until September 18.

Mrs. Reinartz, it is said, possesses the sum of $973, which is locked up in a safety deposit vault in a local bank. Mrs. Martell is alleged to possess the key to the box, which she refuses to turn over to her mother. Simultaneously with the action brought by the daughter, the mother started a replevin action to secure the safety box key.

CABBAGES AND STRAWBERRIES HEARING TOPIC

I. C. C. Examiner to Hear Local Objection to the Rates from Points South

"The time has come," I. C. C. said, "to talk of many things; 'Of north bound rates on cabbages, 'Of strawberries and things.'"

After exonerating the interstate commerce commission of the above offense against good taste and Lewis Carroll, the traffic bureau, formerly known as the shippers' association, Tuesday announced that cabbages and strawberries will be the subjects of discussion before the interstate commerce commission's Examiner Waters in the federal court building here Saturday.

On behalf of commission men in the city the traffic bureau has objected to the rates from southern points to La Crosse on strawberries and cabbages. It is pointed out that the through rate is more than that of other localities on St. Louis—in other words, that the sum of rates from the point of shipment to St. Louis and from St. Louis to La Crosse, is more than the through rate. This the local objectors assert is a violation of the "long and short haul" clause of the law. They ask a reduction of the through rate.

"We plan to make this a civic center for all community activities," said Secretary Kinloch, discussing the plans this morning. "The hall will be open for gatherings of every kind. When we go after a convention, we will have a place to offer them for meetings. When we give our luncheon, we will have a place to hold them. We will have a place for our bureau meetings. All of these things demanded that we have commodious quarters of our own."

"We would not have secured quarters to meet our needs for less than $1,500. The $750 more that we pay for these new rooms, built to our order, is a bonus through which the city is provided with a meeting place for every kind of civic enterprise."

Big Speakers Due. "The luncheons will be a great feature. I do not know of any successful chamber of commerce which is not employing the luncheon system to hold regular meetings for discussing business matters. With a regular date set for them, we shall be able to command the services, for a nominal fee, of noted men who are constantly passing through the city between Chicago and the Twin cities. Many of them have already indicated to me that they will be glad to drop off and speak to us."

The committee on permanent headquarters, which worked out the proposal with Mr. Law, consisted of L. C. Colman, chairman; George H. Gordon, G. Van Steenwyk, E. M. Wing and C. F. Michel. They investigated a number of proposals of all kinds. Their recommendation to the board of directors was as follows:

"The committee is of the opinion that the proposition made by Mr. Law is far superior to any of the others for the reason that it affords sufficient office room, and by the use of movable partitions the chamber will be provided with ample room for an auditorium for the use of conventions and meetings of all local and civic and public welfare organizations. Mr. Law also offers to furnish skylights where needed. In view of the above, the committee unanimously recommends the acceptance of Mr. Law's proposition."

TO Design Quarters

Pencil sketches were submitted of the proposed plans for the new quarters, and several changes were suggested. A building committee was also appointed by President F. P. Hixon, which will settle the design of the chamber's new home, in conjunction with Mr. Law and his architect. That committee consists of L. C. Colman, Prof. D. O. Coate, G. Van Steenwyk and Secretary Kinloch.

Nellie Jane on Tuesday was beginning to recover from a week's illness during which her life was at one time despaired of.

A big red blot on her right arm began Nellie Jane's troubles. It appeared a week ago Saturday. In the next few days Nellie Jane had repeated spasms, a high fever, and other dangerous symptoms. Last Friday her parents had almost given up hope. The little girl began to improve.

Nellie Jane is now believed to be out of danger.

HEADQUARTERS OF PRINCE LEOPOLD OF BAVARIA, AUSTRO-GERMAN FRONT, Sept. 5.—The combined power of the Russian and Rumanian armies will be unable to breach the Austro-German lines in the east, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, commander-in-chief of the Central-Austro-German armies in the east, declared Tuesday.

"This section of the front as well as the whole eastern battle line is impregnable," said the Bavarian commander. "The Russians are brave. They advance in thick masses, but they suffer grievous losses and cannot break through."

Replied to a query as to what effect Rumania's entrance into the war will have on the allies, Prince Leopold stepped closer to the correspondent and said with enthusiasm:

"The Rumanians have brought themselves into a bad situation. They will get some unsuspected blows yet. Yes, there will be blows for those who might follow their example."

Other officers along this front expressed similar views. The appearance of a new enemy has not shaken their confidence in a final victory.

Prince Leopold, though 70 years of age, is robust and in perfect health. He takes a swim daily and indulges in sleepchasing to keep in trim.

LONDON BELIEVES BREMEN CAPTURED

La Follette and Malcolm G. Jeffris of Janesville for the nomination for United States senator, has been hot.

WELSH KEEPS HIS TITLE IN COMEDY FIGHT WITH WHITE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 5.—Freddie Welsh retained his title of champion lightweight pugilist of the world Monday after going the full scheduled twenty rounds with challenger Charley White of Chicago. Referee Billy Roche of New York awarded Welsh the decision on points.

As the gong sounded at the close of the twentieth round, Roche stood for several moments as if undecided. He then reached both hands toward the boxers and many of the spectators believed he was about to award a draw. Suddenly Welsh rushed over to Roche and placed his glove in the referee's hand and it was raised aloft while the official appeared to be reaching for White.

The next instant jubilant friends of the champion swarmed into the ring. When Referee Roche announced his decision in favor of Welsh, the challenger's adherents appeared for the moment spellbound. Then began a fusillade of hundreds of cushions at the referee. He was rushed by friends to a waiting automobile. An unfortunate accident and unpleasant incident marred the beginning and end of the day's program. Shortly before 2 o'clock a portion of the bleachers on the south side of the arena collapsed. More than a hundred persons were more or less seriously injured.

From a spectacular standpoint, the battle was considered one of the poorest that has ever been fought for the highest ring honors in the lightweight division. For fully two-thirds of the time the fighters were locked in a succession of clinches and pushing each other back and forth about the ring. For this, many spectators held Welsh was largely to blame.

Make Poor Showing
Scarcely a blow was struck by either man that did any damage. White's punches carried the greater punitive power, while frequently Welsh was on the aggressive and did his share of the leading it was noticeable that many of his blows fell short and failed to reach their mark. Roche stated after the fight that he awarded Welsh the decision for the reason that he did most of the leading.

INDIANS HELD TO A STANDSTILL BY PITCHER COPSEY

Poor Base Running Defeats Locals in Game Labor Day with Redskins from Nebraska

Delivering all the goods in his big league makeup, Fay Copsy, star pitcher of the Athletics, held the Nebraska Indians to six hits and one run on Monday. The Athletics didn't win—they tied the score, but the Redskins were held to a standstill. The game was called after the tenth to allow the Indians to make a train.

A bit of hard luck prevented the Athletics from winning. With the score tied in the eighth and with the bases full and one out, Weiss sent a long fly to left for an out. Copsy came in from third after the ball was caught, but Robare took too big a lead on second and was caught for the third out, Copsy's run not counting.

There was no scoring until the sixth, when Hugg of the Indians scored on a double and a bounder over second. The Athletics came back in the seventh for a run on Tanke's triple and a passed ball.

The game was the last for the Indians. Blair, with Al Toraason in the box, will be at league park Sunday with the Athletics. Each team has been defeated once this year at the hands of the other.

MATTY DISPLAYS OLD CUNNING AND DEFEATS MORDECAI

Stars of Former Years Meet at Curbtown; the Pirates Grab Two from the Cardinals

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Christy Mathewson, the former idol of the New York fans and now manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and Mordecai Brown of the famous old Cub machine, met on the slab on Monday in the second game of a double header here, their first meeting since 1912, which battle the former won. Mathewson again was returned the winner, the score being 10 to 8. Chicago won the first game, 3 to 0.

In marked contrast to their pitching duels of old, each was hit hard on Monday. The Cubs touched Mathewson for fifteen hits while the Reds gathered nineteen off Brown. Many of the hits were for extra bases, each team making a total of twenty-five bases.

In the first game, 3 to 0, Prendergast held Cincinnati to four scattered hits, while the locals bunched hits off Schultz in the first and seventh innings and scored all their runs.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 5.—Chicago outplayed St. Louis on Monday, taking both games, the first 3 to 2, and the second, 2 to 1.

Although St. Louis outlived Chicago ten to six in the first game and was helped by three errors, the hits came at inopportune times, and ten men were left stranded. Chicago, on the other hand, made each of its hits a factor in the scoring.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Monday's Hero
Christy Mathewson. He bested Mordecai Brown in a "pitching duel" at Chicago. The other "youngster" allowed nineteen hits, while Matty gave out only fifteen.

The largest baseball crowd of the season in Chicago saw the two old rivals battle.

The Browns were given a terrific jolt when the White Sox took both games of the holiday bargain bill.

Ten hits in the first game gave the St. Louis club only three runs, while the Chicagoans pushed two across on three safe swats.

The Braves made six errors in the second game with the Giants and lost the contest, but they held first place by a scant margin.

Cleveland succumbed twice to the withering fire of the Detroit sticklers. Cobb, by the way, harvested only two blows out of nine trips to the plate. His deadly rival, Tris Speaker, hammered the ball for three out of eight.

Two shutouts was the Labor day greeting handed the Cardinals by the Pirates.

The Yanks had a big day. They looked like bushers in the morning contest with the Red Sox, but in the afternoon they came back and administered a defeat to the champions. Brooklyn scored four runs in the day's work and lost both ends of a double header. The Phils by their victories are now tied with the Robins for second place.

CHANEY'S HOPES GO GLIMMERING IN THIRD FRAME

CEDAR RAPIDS, O., Sept. 5.—In less than eight minutes of actual fighting on Monday, Johnny Klban of Cleveland spoiled the hopes of George Chaney of Baltimore for the world's featherweight championship. A terrific right smash to Chaney's jaw settled the battle near the end of the third round.

KING MASTER OF SITUATION AND ONALASKA LOSES

A 9 to 0 defeat was the Labor day token handed Onalaska on Monday by the Nelsons. King, in the box for the Nelsons, held Onalaska to two hits, while his teammates were hammering Thompson for fifteen. Klansrud of the Nelsons got a triple, double and single in five times at bat.

The score: R H E

Onalaska . . . 000000000—0 2 1

AITKEN WINS ANDERSON HURT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—J. D. Aitken, piloting a Peugeot won the 300-mile automobile race at the Cincinnati Motor Speedway Monday afternoon. His time was 3:52:27 221-00, an average of 97.2 miles per hour. Wilbur d'Alene, in a Deussenberg was second and O. Galvin, driving a Sunbeam was third.

Gl Anderson, in a Stutz, skidded on the home stretch after completing more than half of the distance and crashed into a fence. Anderson sustained a broken leg and arm. His condition is not critical. His mechanic, Bert Shields of Indianapolis, sustained probably fatal injuries.

THE HASKIN LETTER

A PURE ELECTION

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 5.—In the record of the last few days of the session of the historic sixty-fourth congress, among the measures that were valiantly pushed to the fore again and again by their sponsors when press of business and shortness of time threatened to crowd them off the calendar, a measure with a title half a column long will go down to posterity as one of the chief. For purposes of every-day remembrance this bill is known around the capitol as "Corrupt Practices," and its object and mission is to do away with all taint of corruption in elections. If this bill becomes law or when it becomes law, as its supporters prefer to state it will put our elections on a new basis of financial publicity. There are really two corrupt practices bills, one of which, drawn and introduced by Mr. Rucker of Missouri, passed the house some time ago. The senate bill, which is the one occupying the center of the stage at the moment, was introduced by Senator Owen of Oklahoma. When the house bill came to the senate, the committee to which it was referred struck out all of it, and substituted the Owen bill as a sweeping amendment, so that while it is being said that the bill which passed the house is up before the senate, it is really quite another measure. Should the senate pass it, it will have to go back to the house again, and apparently there will be warm discussion before the conference decided what the bill shall eventually look like.

The Owen bill provides that in order to get in the game of national politics you must do it according to rule. If you are going to spend any money in a way that will influence the result of an election, directly or indirectly, you must organize into a political committee. Any organization of five or more members, except corporations organized for profit, may constitute itself a political committee by drawing up a resolution to that effect and sending a copy of it to the chief clerk of the house of representatives. The committee has to come out in the open in this resolution, and state fully and in detail the candidate or candidates it is going to try and help elect. Thus prompted by the zealous committee, the chief clerk will come back at them with a normal certificate constituting them a recognized political committee, and they are free to go ahead and electioneer within the limits set down by other sections of the bill.

If a man of political tastes happens to be also unsocial and non-gregarious by nature, he is not forced to affiliate with any committee in order to work. He can go ahead and work by himself, but he becomes in effect a committee of one. He is bound, as the committee is bound, to report all the money he spends and just how he spends it. Should his expenditures exceed $50. If he wants to confine himself to $49.99 he is at liberty to proceed without supervision.

The troubles of the committee only begin with the obtaining of the certificate, however. Armed with that, they can set to work, but they must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep strict account of everything they spend. They must have a treasurer, and the treasurer must keep a bank account. He must keep a complete record of receipts and expenditures. He must carefully save all his receipts. If any other member of the committee collects anything he must forthwith report said collection to the treasurer, who makes a record of it. His record must show how much each contributor contributes, and where he lives. When the records are complete they are to be sent to Washington and preserved, open to the inspection of one who cares to read. The name and address of each person who gives more than $100 is set down individually. If your contribution is more modest, you are lumped ignominiously with the rest of the pikers. But the contributions and the contribu-

Section nine of the bill contains some radical innovations of all, as some critics see it. This section heartlessly provides that no man, be he who he may, shall contribute more than $5,000 toward a campaign to influence the result of any election.

The original house bill did not set any limit on the amount one man might contribute; and it has been pointed out that $5,000 is less to some men than $5 to others, and that a rich and public spirited citizen may want to contribute $10,000 toward the expenses of a particular campaign, and thereby relieve some of his poorer fellow citizens of carrying the burden; yet his motives and methods may be impeccable. However, there is section nine, doubtless a fruitful field for conference controversy.

In presidential campaigns, the bill provides that no more than $40,000 may be spent by any national committee. Not more than $50,000 may be spent in trying to secure the nomination of a candidate for the presidency, and the vice presidency goes at half price with a $25,000 limit. Also, no committee may spend anything to secure the nomination of a candidate without his knowledge and consent. So the candidate can not plead that his good friends have been spending their substance on him unbeknownst.

Candidates for the offices of senator and representative must content themselves with spending the modest sums of $5,000 and $2,500 respectively on their campaigns. Personal expenses and advertising are not included in these sums, however. The candidate is charged with the responsibility of keeping disbursements within the limit, and has to make a detailed report to the house for which he is running. Particularly stringent, and the object of some unfavorable comment, is the provision that in case the aggregate of disbursements exceeds the amount permitted under the act, with the knowledge and consent of the candidate, the aspirant is gulity of a felony and liable to fine and imprisonment.

Having cut down the cash expenditures to the necessities of campaigning, the bill proceeds to take a swing at election promises of the personal sort. Every candidate has to make a complete report stating every promise or pledge he has made to anybody, contingent on the result of the election. Candidates for senator or representative are forbidden to promise anybody a government job, or support in securing one.

In order that there shall be no doubt in anybody's mind as to just what campaign money may be spent for, the bill lists nine items which are the only ones on which cash may be expended. They include only the necessities of a campaign life, such as traveling expenses, advertising and rent.

Debate on the bill in the senate grew warm once or twice. The general tendency of our higher legislators was to state that while such a measure was almost or quite unnecessary in their own respective states, there were other states where it might do a great deal of good. As Mr. Vandeman pointed out, the suspicions entertained about other men's states were perhaps in themselves an indication of the necessity for legislation.

There seems to be a considerable unanimity of opinion to the effect that a corrupt practices act of some sort would be a good thing, and that the present legislation governing the expenditures of money in campaigns is inadequate. The house bill, which was passed by that body by a large majority, was rather more simple than the senate bill in its outlines, though its provisions are much to the same effect. It seems probable that a conference committee of the two houses would be able to arrive at an amended measure satisfactory to both without much difficulty. One of the chief fundamental differences between the two bills is the fact that the house bill does not limit the amount of an individual contribution.

Senator Owen has been making a hard fight for the passage of the bill

at this session. It is the sort of a measure that is hard for any legislator to oppose in and for itself without putting himself in rather an awkward position. There is little doubt that a bill substantially along these lines will be passed either at this session or the next, and campaigning will be something of a changed science in consequence.

NEGRO TROOPERS IN SECOND RIOT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 5.—Military authorities on Tuesday were investigating the second riot, in which members of the Eighth Illinois (Negro) Infantry have participated since being stationed here.

Fifty Negro militiamen are in the guard-house here as the result of trouble that followed the arrest of one of their number by a city policeman. More than 100 of the Negroes gathered about the officer and his prisoner and serious trouble appeared imminent until the provost guard arrived and arrested about half of the guardsmen.

The longer the engagement the shorter the married life.

ARE MEDICINES LIQUORS?

A certain class of prejudiced and jealous doctors call potent medicines only alcoholic beverages. They will tell you that such and such a medicine contains as much alcohol as a glass of beer or a certain quantity of whiskey; but they do not mention that the beer or whiskey is swallowed at one draught, while only a small quantity of the medicine is taken at one dose. At the same time they will use alcohol quite as freely and many in four or five times as great proportions in their own prescriptions.

Such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound use barely enough alcohol to preserve the root and herb extracts, and the medicine can be had, if desired, in a non-alcoholic form.

BLOOMINGTON, Wis.—(Special.)—One of the best games of ball ever played in this part of the state was played here Saturday between the home team and the Nebraska Indians.

STARTING THE RACE FAIRLY

According to an official report, the time lost by university students through prompt treatment of common colds and grippe has been decreased from about nine days in 1910 to about two and one-half days in 1915. That represents a great gain and would be enough to justify the establishment and maintenance of the student medical advisers' department, but that is by no means the only or the chief gain to the students.

However mature they may consider themselves, freshmen at the university are, from more than young boys and girls. They come at an age when they can not safely be entrusted to select a physician wisely or exercise proper judgment as to whether or not an attack of illness is of such character as to call for immediate attention and vigorous treatment. Parents can now feel a degree of comfort concerning the health and physical welfare of their children at the University of Wisconsin that was impossible before the service was instituted there.

Another gain has come through the compulsory physical examination of all students. Many an early case of tuberculosis has been discovered many months or even years before it otherwise would have been and while the disease was in an easily curable stage. In other instances unsuspected heart disease has been detected by these skillful diagnosticians and the student has been prohibited from engaging in competitive athletics that might have killed or crippled him for life in an institution less scrupulous in looking after the health of the students for whom it is morally responsible.

In this latter class of cases early detection and proper advice is frequently all that is needed to enable the victim to so modify his habits or vocation in life as to insure a normal or even an increased span of life. It was a wise administration which recognized the fact that the physical guidance of the student body is quite as important as the mental guidance. Wisconsin and California universities lead the country in this respect. Authorities having responsibility for students of local primary and secondary schools are providing similarly by employment of physicians and nurses for health inspection and supervision. Children are getting a fair start, nowadays, and the next generation ought thereby to be able to "put it all over the present one." Who is it that desires less?

RUSHFORD MAN IS THREE SCORE AND TEN YEARS OLD

M. A. Maland Celebrates His Seventieth Birthday; Is Native of Wisconsin and Loves State

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special.)—M. A. Maland, a native of Wisconsin and one of the best known citizens of southern Minnesota celebrated his seventieth birthday August 23. Mr. Maland is hale and hearty and active as a young man.

Services Resumed
Sunday, September third services were resumed at the Rushford Presbyterian church. Rev. J. C. Bantley, the resident pastor, having concluded his summer's vacation, which was for the most part spent in this city. Regular sessions of the Sunday school will also be carried on from the same date.

Scout Injured

The Boy Scouts returned from their trip up to Camp Hazard last Thursday, having spent a jolly time there with their scout master, Rev. J. C. Bantley. The very popular game of "Hunky", just now absorbing the attention of the boys, was the cause of the only unpleasant episode of the camping trip. While playing the game, one of the invited guests at the camp ran into a barbed wire fence and cut a good sized gash upon his leg, but a Scout, who had brought along "first aid" equipment, rendered the necessary aid and all was well.

Residences Changed

Numerous changes in homes are noticed recently. The D. A. Tiffany residence property on Mill street having been purchased by Alfred Peterson, the families of Albert Ebner and James Parish who have been occupying the house were forced to seek other homes.

Mr. Ebner has leased rooms at the James McDonald residence in Brooklyn, while Mr. Parish expects to occupy the residence now held by Silas Shirven and family. Mr. Shirven will take up his residence in the Mrs. Arnt Larson house, Mrs. Larson reserving rooms for herself in one part of the residence. The former Alfred Peterson house will be occupied by Mrs. M. Betten and family, who recently moved in from the nearby country.

John Nelson, a former Rushford resident, but for the past four or five years of Redwood Falls, Minn., has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaus Olson and other relatives in this city.

Nell Currie, another one-time Rushfordite, has been up from La Crosse to visit his aunt, Mrs. L. L. Streeter and other relatives here. Mr. Currie has been a La Crosse resident for a good many years.

Theodore Anderson, who for the past three weeks has been a patient at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to his home on Ferry street, last Thursday, much improved in health after his rather serious operation. His brother, Ed Anderson, of Choice, who was compelled to submit to an operation for appendicitis at the same hospital, some three days after Theodore went down, is also gaining nicely and hopes soon to come back home.

Mrs. O. Tagland, another Rushford resident who was taken ill with appendicitis some three weeks ago and underwent an operation for the same at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital, returned to her family here last Thursday, also being well upon the road to health now.

Miss Emma Crampton has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seckamp, a number of miles from this city, for a number of days. Mrs. F. A. Foster and two children were also guests of the Seckamp home for a week, have returned to their home here.

E. J. Kingsford of North Rushford departed last Saturday for Baraboo, there to visit for a week or so until the arrival of his daughter, Mrs. May of Thief River Falls, Minn., this lady planning to remain with her father for some weeks. Another of Mr. Kingsford's daughters, Mr. Taylor of Montana, is expected to arrive in Rushford for an extended visit in a short time.

Owen McDermitt of Chicago, arrived in this city last Friday for a two or three weeks' visit with his mother, Mrs. A. McDermitt, of North Rushford.

Rev. A. Wright, of Brooklyn, who has been in declining health for the past year, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis a short time ago and since has lain in a partly-unconscious state. His children residing at a distance have been summoned to his bedside.

Miss Anna, from Moorhead, who had gone to again take up her duties as instructor in the city's schools; Miss Laura who had just gone back to Northfield to begin work in St. Olaf's college there; and Miss Ella, supervisor of music in the Denver, Col., schools. Rev. Wright's long and busy life as minister seems about to come to the final ending, as on account of his advanced age, some eighty-five years—complete recovery cannot be hoped for.

Mrs. Alfred Ness and two children, Alfred and Norma, are guests of Mrs. Ness's parents in Mabel, where he is attending to the fall's work upon his farm.

Call-stones or Appendicitis? Don't operate. Dr. Manning, Vitasoph, Suite, 314 Linker Bldg., AL Crosse.

Miss Anna Kingsford departed this week for Minneapolis, there to take up her work as instructor in the city's schools. Miss Ethel Kingsford, her sister, has also left Rushford, where she spent her summer vacation, to again teach at Fertile, Minn.

The Fred Whitthouse home in North Rushford, has recently entered as guest, Mrs. Chas. Wilson and son, of Aberdeen, S. D., they departing a day or so ago. Upon the Friday noon train of last week there also arrived, for a visit with the Whitthouse family, Mrs. White-

La Crosse Chamber of Commerce News Notes

BY JAMES R. KINSLOE

(By James R. Kinsloe Executive Secretary)

Let's not be stampeded in our work. The failure of many commercial organizations can be attributed to the fact that they are too anxious to make a record the first six months. To properly serve the community the Chamber of Commerce must feel its way, like any other new business.

The successful Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber of Commerce of Influence and power in the community, the lasting, permanent Chamber of Commerce, can only become so when built upon a solid foundation.

At the end of three years, instead of reorganization, we want the Chamber of Commerce of La Crosse recognized at home and abroad as the biggest influence in community building in this entire section of the north-west.

To bring this about means preliminary planning—planning based upon a knowledge of local conditions and local people.

In a very short time we will be on the hunt for men, men to man the guns as soon as we have reached that "state of preparedness" when we are ready to shoot. Every member will be given an opportunity to serve under whatever committee he chooses. We want you where your interest lies because there is where you will render the better service.

Develop your foresight by the experience of your hind sight and you will be better off by a darn sight.

RETAIL MERCHANTS BUREAU
Tonight at 8 o'clock, in the council chambers, city hall, this bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting. Important matters are to come up and will continue to come up throughout the year. We need the presence at these meetings of one or more representatives of every retail firm represented by membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Second only in importance to advertising there is nothing which will mean more to the merchants of La Crosse than prompt and regular attendance at the meetings of the bureau formed with the one distinct object of benefiting each and every member of that bureau.

We have some fine stores in La Crosse; we have some first-class men in the retail business; we don't yield them to anyone in the quality of brains or intelligence, but we can all these brains in a meeting where, and those men who learn most are the best men.

In attendance upon meetings and in faithful performance of committee duties, we must ever keep before us the old-fashioned doctrine that "he profits most who serves best."

To the question, "What's in it for me?" we answer, Nothing—unless you get in it.

THAT SOCIABILITY TOUR
Of course we should have more of them. The agricultural bureau can do no better work at the beginning than to show business men and farmers where their interests lie together, how they can each gain more by working in harmony and co-operation with each other.

house's sister, Mrs. Burquist, who, with her husband and daughter, will spend this week or so in this city.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will hold the regular monthly meeting at the church parlors on next Saturday, Sept. 9th, the leader for the devotionals being Miss Crissie McLeod and the hostesses for the luncheon being Mrs. Lee Rollins, Mrs. Wm. Baerman, Mrs. McDermitt and Mrs.

For a longtime farmers have had a suspicion that the city business man regarded them with much the same benevolent attitude as the farmer regards his sheep, as creatures to be sheared and sometimes even to be skinned.

Now the best work the Agriculture bureau can do at the outset is to get the country business man—the farmer—and the city business man where they will have confidence in each other. The word which is going to dominate the further is neither competition or combination—but co-operation. When we can have hearty and trustful co-operation between the country and the city we will have laid the foundation for something big in this immediate section at least.

Congratulations, Dr. Evenson—that was a good "feeler"—now let's have a real one.

We want every member of the Agriculture bureau to take a part in the next one and we want the Merchants' bureau to join hands with the Agriculture bureau.

It might be well to arrange some sort of program for the next one. How would it be to have dinner followed by one short talk in explanation of our mission and then turn the meeting over to our country friends to tell the truth about us. We want their ideas as to along just what lines we can best co-operate with each other to our mutual advantage. Let the meeting be followed by games between the country and city, with a little music on the side.

How about it?

All the world loves a Doer. Do something worth while, and don't worry about who gets the credit. Those who chase the spot-light find it a thankless job. Do something, and the spot-light will follow you; you can't get away from it. Credit will fall where it is due, just as sure as God gives us air to breathe.

"AT HOME"
Time will not permit us to get out an "At Home" card and we don't want you to be looking for one. Just call around at 307 Main street, second floor, Rooms 7, 8 and 9 and see how nicely we are fixed in our temporary quarters with the Traffic Association a part of us, as it should have been years ago.

When we get into new and permanent quarters we will see if we can't bindfold the board of directors and furnish "punch" and flowers to "em" 'til 'em and who will do us the honor of calling the first day.

But don't forget to call on us in our temporary quarters, and don't forget we have our genial friend John C. Burns as a neighbor on the second floor, together with all the intelligence that goes with a first class business University on the floor above us.

What Burns and Toland miss we are sure will not escape the eagle eye of President Frank P. Nixon on the opposite side of the street. Sure, we were between the devil and the deep blue sea, and we don't mean anything personal by this.
